Bellefonte, November 25, 1815.

This county's quota of the direct tax amounts to $6,859 70; that of Clearfield to $1,375 89; that of Armstrong to $1,487 dollars and 27 and a half cents. A full statement of the amount of Direct Tax is supported by the board of Principal Assessors to the several counties in the state, shall be published next week.

Commercial.

The London Courier of the 22d of September, states, that "the last mail from the Continent, brings very favorable accounts of the foreign markets. Sugars were advancing considerably. Coffee, Pimento, Pepper, &c. a shade better.—The exchanges come over also higher; and it may be presumed these arrivals will have a favorable effect on our market, as the general shipping season is now at hand, and the orders will no doubt be transmitted for colonial produce, and for the large sales coming forward at the India House.

LONDON, Sept. 22.

Some of the last American papers, as well as letters from America, speak of the large supplies of arms sent from the U. States to the insurgents in South America, together with the arrival of American privateers with ammunition, &c. in the ports occupied by the Insurgents. Is it done with the knowledge and approbation of the American Government? If so, is it not tantamount to a declaration of war against Spain.

MARY ANN CLARKE, so celebrated for her follies and intrigues, departed this life on Tuesday last, at Morrell's hotel, at Rouen. It is said that she died in the most excruciating agonies. Her circumstances had of late become very narrowed, and all her quondam acquaintances had deserted her.—London Courier, Sept. 28.

To the Custom House of St Petersburg.

His excellency the Minister of Finance has sent to the Department of Foreign Commerce for its necessary fulfillment, an attested extract from the Journal of the committee of Ministers of the third of July of the present year, by which it is determined, that "In the importation of Merchandize direct from the American States during the year eighteen hundred and fifteen particular specification will be dispensed with." The department of Foreign Commerce, communicating this regulation to the officers of the customs informs them, that merchandize already arrived here the present season, direct from the American states, and all such as in like manner may be imported from thence during the continuance of this year in the Documents of which presented at the Custom House, a specification of the weight measure or quantity, contained in each packet is not inserted will not be subject to paying double duty. NEW TREATY OF PEACE.

PARIS, September 26.

Though nothing official has transpired from the negotiators we are confident all the great points of the Definitive Treaty of peace have been adjusted; and that nothing will be altered.—Prince Talleyrand conducts the negotiation on the part of France; and the great Ministers, who formed the treaty of Vienna, are employed by the Allies

HAMBURG, Oct. 4.

We have certain information that the Definitive Treaty between France and the Allies is nearly completed—The march of the Prussian troops towards France has been stopped. The Austrians in the East of France have been retrograding towards Italy.

Though the treaty will not be promulgated until ratified, we are assured, that by one of the stipulations, France is to pay all the expenses of the war provoked by her efforts to support the usurpation of Bonaparte; and that the sum which will be remunerated to Great Britain will exceed Nine Millions sterling. Another article stipulates for the restoration by France of all her plundered works of science and art. Marshal Ney's trial progresses slowly—In addition to other indulgencies, his family is allowed to visit him.

Advices from All Europe.

Numerous arrivals here & elsewhere from Europe have furnished volumes of French, Spanish, Portuguese, German, Hamburg, Russian and British papers. We can scarce find room for the marrow of the matter they furnish.]

NEW FRENCH MINISTERS.

PARIS, Sept. 25.

The official Gazette has announced, that his majesty has appointed the Duke of Richelieu to the minister of foreign affairs, vice Prince Talleyrand; the duke of Feltré (Clark) minister of War, vice Gen. Gouvion St. Cyr; Viscount Dubouchage, Minister of Marine; Count Voublank, minister of the interior; and Counsellor de Cazes, minister of Police, vice the notorious Fouche.

Prince Talleyrand still continues his functions as the Negotiator of Peace with the Allies.

M. Fouche is said to have retired to Saxony, leaving his secretary to transfer his papers to his successor. To save appearances he requested of the king his dismissal; at the same time protesting his royalty and devotion. He resigned on the 20th of September.

This is important, & indicates that Louis 18th has confidence in the stability of his reign. The immediate cause of this total change is variously accounted for.—Some say it was demanded by the New French Parliament, and that the king heard in the demand, the voice of all France. The new deputies were almost wholly old Royalists, and members of the ancient nobility and gentry. Such men must have a deadly aversion, not only to all who were connected with the murder of Louis 16th, but to such revolutionis and constitutionalis, as have lately been preferred to office. Others attributed the change to the predominant influence of the Duchess d'Angoulême, the only surviving branch of Louis 16, and her husband, who have returned to Paris from the southern departments. A third see in the removal the influence of the Allied Cabinets on that of the thulletries. The fact is the Bonapartists view in their downfall the extinction of all their hopes. The Jacobins are offended with Fouche for resigning.
