The Emperor of Russia has abolished the Vassalage of the peasants of his dominions. The process commences at once, but is to be gradual as to the complete enfranchisement so as to be perfected in 14 years. An instantaneous entire change of freedom might have had effects among people in their condition. There are about 100,000 of them.

The decimal division of money has been adopted in Holland—it was proposed and much praised in England; but there were impediments as to its introduction. This mode originated under the federal administrations in the United States.

Public Lands.

From the National Intelligencer.

In September next public sales will be made of lands of the United States, in INDIANA. It is said by those who have the best means of information, that there is not in the United States, a tract of land of equal area, (about three million acres) which includes a greater proportion of real good land. It is abundantly watered by the Wabash and its numerous branches. The waters of the Wabash almost touch the waters of the Miami of lake Erie. The new state of Indiana, supported if necessary, by the gallant states of Kentucky and Ohio, on the south and east, and by the brave soldiers of the late army on the west (to whom 3,500,000 acres have been assigned, lying between the river Illinois and Mississippi) is a highly interesting object to wise and prudent and benevolent men. Let us venerate our institutions and may we never feel how bitter are the "tears which patriots shed for dying laws."

A New Song.

Tune—"Paddy's Wedding."

O! what you hear
 What roaring cheer,
 Was spent by Jonny congress O!
 And how so gay
 They double their pay,
 And double the people's taxes O!
 There was Clay the scold,
 And Johnston, the bold,
 Who did not shoot Tecumseh O!
 And Ormsby and Lowndes
 As eager as hounds,
 On the scent of the leaves and fishes O!
 Arrah! by my shoul, it would make your heart leap for grief, to hear the poor soldiers begging for their pay, the widows for their pensions, and the officers for new loans, while all the members are drinking
 and singing merrily,
 Twelve dollars a day,
 Twelve dollars a day,
 Twelve dollars a day's the dandy O!
 There was Clay in the chair
 With his flax coloured hair
 And singing the tax bill cheerly O!
 And smil'd as the rabble
 So loudly did gabble,
 The audience scarcely could slumber O!
 It was aye, it was no,
 'Twas too high, 'twas too low—
 "The ayes will rise!" said the speaker O!
 And quickly arose
 Two eyes to the nose
 And the salary bill was carried O!

Yes! by my shoul they unanimously disagreed upon every question, except the salary bill. Gentlemen, order! This bill proposes to give us all a salary of 1500 dollars, and myself 3000—Shall it pass?
 Aye! aye! aye! The ayes have it, therefore they all began to sing,
 Twelve dollars a day,
 Twelve dollars a day,
 Twelve dollars a day's the dandy O!
 But oh! by my shoul
 They all star'd like an owl,
 When the people all hiss'd their ditty O!
 Said Clay, we're broke,
 They don't relish the joke,
 The devil has got in the rabble O!
 We have put on their backs
 A mountain of tax,
 An army, a Bank, et cetera O!
 Which so tamely they bore,
 That we all could have sworn
 They were perfectly broke to the halter O!
 How shall we creep out of this scrape?
 says one. Says Clay, I will persuade the people that twelve dollars a day is too little to support myself and my wife. Says Hardin—I'll turn the thing off in a joke. Says Ormsby, I'll beg pardon to my constituents and promise never to do the like again.
 "Well done my lads!" says Johnson, and so they all began to sing again,
 Twelve dollars a day,
 Twelve dollars a day,
 Twelve dollars a day's the dandy O!
