Two or three other delegates did not attend, but their places were supplied by their colleagues in the mode previously pointed out.

We are informed that Isaac Weaver Esq. of the senate and Rees Hill, Esq. of the house of representatives, were authorized to attend the convention, but that notice of their appointment did not arrive in time.

This day at 3 o'clock, is the time appointed for opening the impeachment of the Lancaster judges, before the senate.

The "Allied Candidate."
The Carlisle convention on the 4th inst. nominated JOSEPH HEISTER, as a candidate for the office of governor. The convention was composed of 29 delegates, from 10 counties east and 4 counties west of the Susquehanna, and it is stated that they were unanimous in their selection of Mr. Heister.

Adjournment.—Both houses of the Legislature have agreed to adjourn on Tuesday the 25th inst.

ENGLISH AND SPANISH DIFFERENCE.

From Nassau papers by the Robert and Henry arrived at Charleston.
Nassau, N. P. Feb. 1.

Yesterday arrived the British brig Prince Regent, from Havana, with the detachment of his majesty's 5th W. I. regt. which his majesty's ship Biscels had on board when she was wrecked on her passage from Jamaica to this port.

Accounts brought by this conveyance, mention that the Governor of Havana has refused to restore the specie forcibly taken out of the hands of capt. Roberts of H. M. late ship Tay, by the armed Consulado ship as stated in a proceeding Gazette, contrary to the wishes and remonstrances of the Consulado and the inhabitants. Capt. Roberts had in consequence either taken, or was about to take, his departure for England, to represent to his Government the proceedings of the Spanish Governor; his officers having delivered up their swords, remain at Havannah, considering themselves as prisoners.

It is reported further from Havana, that Gen. Mina, the nephew of the celebrated Gen. Mina, who distinguished himself so greatly as a guerilla chief in the war in Spain, sailed from St. Domingo with a considerable force, for the purpose of taking possession of Pensacola. Having arrived off the port, Mina sent in a deputation requiring a contribution of 50,000 dollars, which was refused. Supplies of money and stores had been sent from Havana to Pensacola, in consequence of the threatened attack.

February 12.

Accounts from Havana, to the 4th inst. represent the affairs of consolado armed ship of Havana and H. M. late ship Tay, capt. Roberts, (of which mention has been made in preceding numbers) as assuming a serious aspect. It appears now that the conduct of the commander of the Spanish ship more resembled that of a pirate than of one commissioned to protect the Spanish commerce. He not only forcibly took the specie, but the sword of capt. Roberts, tore down and destroyed the British colors that were flying at the place of encampment, carried off a quantity of the Tay's stores and maltreated the crew. H. M. frigate Active capt. Cartwright, had arrived at Havana, with capt. Roberts, the officer of the Tay, and the remaining stores—requiring satisfaction for the aggression, restitution of the money and payment for the stores that had been taken away. This the government of Havana, having refused to comply with, (and in so doing as head of the Consulado the sense of this body may be employed) the remaining stores of the Tay have been landed from the Active as well as the officers, and the Active was to sail on her return to Jamaica on the 6th inst. The affair will now become a national one. The general of marine is said to have been decidedly against the measures of the governor, reprobating in the severest terms the unwarrantable conduct of the commander of the Consulado ship. It is reported that the specie would have been restored, but there was a considerable deficiency which could not be made up, and the additional sum required for the stores rendered a compliance with the demand of capt. Cartwright impracticable, supposing that a disposition to accede to it had existed.

The Democratic vs. The Apostate AURORA.
From the Aurora of Sept. 25, 1805.
"Extract of a letter, dated Reading, Berks county, Sept. 23, 1805.
"Joe Heister is sadly alarmed at the situation in which he is placed between Muhlenberg's apostate letter and his own SHABBY INGRATITUDE to the legislative members of this county—the appeal of the members to their fellow citizens on that head has conducted by DAMNED HIM in the eyes of the Germans—there is nothing of public respectability now in his standing—he has entirely degraded himself into the GABBLING, PITIFUL and LOW Electioneer."

PUBLIC OPINION.
The Harrisburg convention.
The democratic republicans were represented by 113 delegates, specially appointed for that purpose, by the democratic citizens of forty-nine counties and the city of Philadelphia.
At the convention every county in Pennsylvania was represented; except Greene.
Every county in the state but one elected delegates to the convention.
Of the one hundred and nineteen delegates elected to the convention there were but six absent.
All the counties represented in the convention were represented by Democratic republicans, no county was permitted to nominate or vote by letter.
All the proceedings of the convention were before the public; their doors were never shut; friends and foes were freely admitted to see and hear all that was done, and all were at liberty to note down and publish the whole proceedings. All was open, fair and manly.
The convention has nominated William Findlay as the Democratic candidate.

The Carlisle caucus, No II.
The faction were represented by 39 persons, generally self-delegated, and who assumed to represent what are called the "Independent Republicans" of THIRTEEN counties, and the city of Philadelphia.
In the caucus every county in the state was represented:—except thirty seven.
Scarcely one fourth of the counties in the state were able to muster delegates to the caucus.
Of the 50 delegates appointed to attend the caucus, eleven absented themselves.
All the districts represented in the caucus were represented by factious office holders, or disappointed office hunters:—3 counties "nominated by communication."
All the doings of the Carlisle caucus like its twin brother of Hartford, were secret; their doors were always shut—nobody but the initiated were admitted to see or hear what was done, nor was any one permitted to take notes, so that what was done might be compared with what is published. All was dark, secret and mysterious.
The caucus have nominated Joe Heister of trout-catching memory as their candidate.

For ourselves, satisfied as we are of the principles and dispositions of the people of Pennsylvania, and of the relative standing of the two candidates, we would be well content to go to the poll without any public appeal, and we are satisfied the result would be a glorious triumph to the Democracy of Pennsylvania. We however look forward with a sure and certain hope that when the merits and demerits of the candidates are fairly spread before the people, they will give an increased majority, so that our triumph in October 1817, as in 1808, will not only astound and confound our adversaries but it will excite our own admiration. Sound principles and good men will bear examination, and the more they are examined the more they will be esteemed.

Dr. Leib being considered as the Trout sauce makes it more obnoxious than even it otherwise would be. Heister can only excite contempt, Leib may awaken hatred. A Fool will be pitted but surely not put in authority. A Knave will be feared even though his means be limited.

A vessel, arrived at Norfolk, brings the following copy of a circular from Commodore Chauncey to the Mediterranean consuls:

(CIRCULAR.)
U. S. ship Washington, Mahon,
Jan. 1, 1817.
SIR—I am happy to inform you that the treaty of peace and amity was concluded with the dey and regency of Algiers, on the 25th ult. which, in its principal features, is the same as the treaty of June, 1814.
Our relations with the other Barbary powers remain as we could wish them, and the American trade has nothing to apprehend from the cruizers of either of those powers.
Be pleased to communicate this information to all the American merchants and ship masters within your district.
I have the honor to be, sir, very respectfully, your most obedient humble servant
I. CHAUNCEY
To Bernard Henry, esq. U. S. consul, Gibraltar.

INDIAN OUTRAGE.
Extract of a letter from a respectable gentleman to his friend in this place, dated St. Mary's, (Ca.) March 1, 1817.
"We had a dreadful scene in this country—a woman and her two children have been killed and scalped by the lower Creek Indians within a few days—a proper representation has been made to the governor and general Gaines. I wish you could by your exertion, have a small force of one company stationed on this river, for the protection of the frontier, or the trade will be broken up."

On Monday, March 17, 1817, the judges of the supreme court met, and immediately afterwards, as a mark of respect to the memory of Jasper Yeates, esq. late one of the judges of the said court, adjourned to the following day.
