THE ROVER.

I'm affoat, I'm affoat, on the fierce rolling tide, The Ocean's my home, my barque is my bride; Up, up, with my flag, let it wave o'er the sea. I'm afloat, I'm afloat, and the rover is free.

I fear not the monarch, I heed not the law, While I've a compass to steer by, and a dagger t draw

And ne'er as a coward, or slave will I kneel, Whilst my gun carries shot, or my belt bears a steel

Quick, quick, trim her sails, let her sheets kiss the wind.

And I'll warrant, we'll soon leave the sea gulls behind :

Up, up, with my flag, let it wave o'er the sea, I'm afloat, I'm afloat, and the rover is free.

The night gathers o'er us, the thunder is heard, What matters, our vessel skims on like a bird ; What to her is a dash of the storm ridden main. She has braved it before, and can brave it again.

With the lightning above us, and darkness below, Through the wide waste of waters, right onward we go;

Up, up, with my flag, let it wave o'er the sea, I'm afloat. I'm afloat, and the rover is free.

Huzza, my brave boys, you may drink, you may sleep,

The storm fiend is hushed we're alone on the deep, Up, up, with my flag, let it wave o'er the sea. Huzza, my brave boys, and the rover is free.

Wit and Bumor.

From the Yankee Privateer. HUNTING WOODCHUCKS: -OR, JO PETER'S MISTAKE.

BY C. W. E.

'Come Jo, get the dog, and let's see if we can't catch a woodchuck,' said Harry Sheldon, one fine afternoon in July, as he and Joe Peters lay upon the grass thinking in what they should pass away time.

'I know where there's a hole, big enough for a bull dog and newly dug, and I'll bet my hat against a pumpkin that there is a smashing woodchuck in it, and if you are a mind to hop up, and go down with me to Smith's wooks, I guess we can catch him.' continued Harry.

What kind of a critter are they ?' said Joe as he rose from the ground. "Will they bite?" 'Oh no,' answered Harry, 'they are the prettiest little feller you ever see, and as harmless as a little kitten.'

What Harry meant by lying so, we cannot ed till the tears ran down his cheeks like rain. Jo rolled in the grass crying. Sheldon, I'll pay you for this. Gracious he sprung to his feet and run to a brook, and plunging in, washed himself over and over again. He soon returned, and as he approached Harry, he shook his fist saying,

'If you ain't the all-firedest, meanest fool that ever lived, to tell a feller to catch a SKUNK by the tail.'

'Ha, ha, ha! Oh dear, how my sides ache, said Harry, as he rolled in the grass, 'don't come near me, you skunk-catcher. Ha, ha, ha !' and springing to his feet he ran for home. Jo shook his first after him, and muttered something about 'punched head' and 'broken nose.' Happening to turn round, he espied his skunk running for dear life, upon a stone wall that lay near by.

Seizing the gun he fetched it to his shoulder, and fired. The skunk was torn all to pieces by the shot, and Jo had a very lame shoulder for a fortnight after the Skunk hunt. When Jo arrived home, he immediately changed his clothes, and then proceeded to hunt up Harry, but that worthy individual had made himself scarce, fearing Jo's anger. He did not make his appearance until Jo had cooled down.

Jo has since sworn eternal enmity to Woodchucks or Skunks!!

A clerical friend, who is "settled" away "Down East," tells us that he is often amused at the shrewdness of a certain parishioner of his who is fond of reading his Bible without note or comment, and guessing out any obscurities which he may encounter. He came to his pastor one day, and asked him what in his opinion was the reason why the Jews who went out to meet Christ when he was riding into Jerusalem seated on an ass colt, took branches of palm trees in their hands. He was told they intended to honor the Savior etc. "Honor him," said he "that's all humbug ! I don't believe a word of it. Wasn't they a thirsting for his blood ? A plaguy sight of honor they meant to him. No, no, I tell you ; them pesky Jews was awful cunnin' critters, and they wanted to break his neck ; and so they took them branches to skeer the colt !" Our correspondent commends this interpretation to the attention of Biblical commentators .- Knickerbocker.

SHAMEPUL DISHONESTY .- As a proof of the extensive adulteration of liquors in this country, it is stated that more Port wine is drank in the United States in one year than passes through the custom house in ten ; that more

Henry laid down upon the grass, and laugh-ed till the tears ran down his cheeks like rain. Jo rolled in the grass crying. "Oh murder, my eyes! By thunder, Harry Sheldon, I'll pay you for this. Gracious mighty! how my eyes smart, where's a brook!" he sprung to his feet and run to a brook, and plunging in, washed himself over and over again. OVER TWELVE HUNDRED PAGES.'

Of the very best reading matter that capital can command from original sources, or taste select from the vast mass of available material.

The sim of the editor will be to produce a pub-lication which sholl be valuable in matter, and choice in taste and style; and he flatters himself, from the known talents of his contributors, that he will be able to present as many good original ar-ticles to his readers as any publication of the day. He shall not, however, hesitate to publish, from time to time, articles from English authors, and translations from the best German and French writers, provided the pieces have never before appeared in print in this country. Essays on impor-tant Political Subjects will likewise be inserted, and criticisms on the Literature of America and the movements of the Age. The Leview Depart-ment, in which a large and liberal spirit of criticism will always be maintained, will be extended. For the defence of American Diterature the editor will always be ready ; the maintainance of a cor-rect tone in the Magazine, he will, if possible, be still more watchful.

EACH NUMBER WILL CONTAIN AN ENGRAVING FROM FINE STEEL PLATE IN ADDITION TO THE CHOICE

DESIGNS AND ENGRAVINGS OF DEVERUX. who will supply illustrations for the text in the body of the book. The aim of the editor will not be so much to increase the number of his engravings, as to secure for those he publishes the ut-most finish the artist can give them ; for common wood-cuts are so easily multiplied, that the most indifferent publication may outrank in dreary display the choicest periodical.

The Editor does not feel, that with his own readers, he can increase his claims to respect by in-sisting on any very great superiority of 'Graham' over several similar publications, but thinks he may safely confide in their friendship for the Magazine, and in its past management for its present list, and such increase as naturally grows out of an extended circulation in a country where readers are multiplying so rapidly.

Of the January number the first adition will be 30,000 copies, and the editor trusts his old friends will be so prompt in renewing old clubs, and extending the list among new ones, that the first odition shall be but half os what the year will ultimately establish, as the permanent circulation of Graham

"Well,' continued Jo, "I" go in the house and get 'Guess' (the dog,) and we'll catch him if he's anywheres round,' and going into the house, he soon returned with the gun and dog. The latter individual was a fine, large dog of the spaniel breed, and famous for woodchuck hunting.

Handing the gun to Harry, Jo exclaimed,-'I never saw a woodchuck in all my born one, and chain him; now what's the reason we | in peril: can't, Harry ?'

We can, just as slick as grease,' answered Harry, if you are only a mind to catch him by the tail and fetch him up to the house.' 'I can do that just as slick as a mice,' said

Jo. "Well then, let's be off.' exclaimed Harry, and whistling for the dog, they started off.

After a walk of about half a mile, they came to a small thick piece of woods which greatly abounded in game. Harry stopped, and drawing the ramrod he measured the charge, (Harry had a mortal dislike to a kicking gun,) he then returned the ramrod, and walked on.

They walked silently on, when Harry, giving Guess his marching orders which were simply to 'keep behind,' exclaimed in a low voice.

'By thunder, Jo, I saw one then.'

'Did yer, well give him beans, I'll wait here.' 'So do,' exclaimed Harry, and cocking the gun, he crept forward.

'I see him,' and quick as thought he raised the gun to his shoulder and fired.'

'I fetched him,' exclaimed Harry, and disappearing in the bushes, he soon returned, fetching by the tail a small animal about the size of a small kitten, and throwing him on the ground proceeded to load, while Jo examined the 'chuck' very attentively.

Harry loaded the gun about eight fingers! but for what reason we cannot imagine .--Handing the gun to Joe, he said, 'Take him by the tail, and come along, we shan't see any more in here, when I fired, I scart 'um all, so you can carry the gun.'

Jo picked up the woodchuck, and shouldering the gun, proceeded onward. After a walk of 10 minutes they came to the edge of the woods; there it's somewheres round here,' said Harry as he looked around.

'Hullo, I see it,' exclaimed Jo, and walking forward a few steps, they came to a hole newly dug.

'Yes, here it is,' said Harry, as he threw himself upon the grass; 'smell him Guess, take hold of him, dig him out.' Guess did smell him, and then giving a loud and musical howl proceeded to dig.

'He's in there,' said Harry, 'and Jo, you must watch the hole, for the moment Guess sees him, he'll make chicken pie of him.'

GRAND LITERARY AND ARTISTIC COMBI-NATION.

Arrangements have been made to furnish the Knickerbocker Magazine, the Home Journal, and the New York Musical World and Times, to new subscribers, for five dollars a year. This is cheap literature, with a vengeance. The Knickerbocker is $3 per annum the Home Journal. $2; and the Musical World and Times, $3 ; making $8 a year at the usual rates. ThIt three such works can be obtained for five dollars a year, is a fact truly worthy the Caloric age, which is just now being ush-ered in. Of the Knickerbocker Magazine, edited by Lewis Gaylord Clark, it is unnecessary to speak. For twenty years it has been the genial; humorous, and spicy "monthly" in the world; and the present volume will be better than any which preceeded it. The Home Journal, edited by Geo. P. Morris, and N. P. Willis, is well known as the best family newspaper in America; and the Musical World and Times, edited by Richard Storrs Willis with Lowell Mason, Geo. H. Cartis, Thomas Hastings, Wm. P. Bradbury, Geo. F. Root, and other musical writers contributing; and which gives, among other things, over $25 worth of music and a full course of instruction in harmony annually, is the very best musical Journal ever published. These three publications will post a family up in regard to nearly everything worth knowing :-- Art, Seivnee, Literature; Music Painting, Sculpture; Inventions, Discoveries; Wit, Humor, Faney, Sentiment; the Newest Fashions and other attractions for Ladies ; Choice New Ma-sic for the Sabbath, the Church, and the Fireside; Reviews and Criticism of Musical Works, Performers and Performances ; in short, the very pick and cream of Novelty, Incident, History, Biography, Art Literature and Science; including whatever can be given in periodicals to promote Healthy Amusement and Solid Instruction in the family and help to make it Better, Wiser, and Happier, may be now obtained for FIVE DOLLARS. Address DYER & WILLIS, 275 Broadway. Editors publishing the above three times, and sending the papers containing it to Dyer & Willis. will receive the three works named, for one year.
