LADY LAWYERS .- One of the female speakers at the late woman's Rights Convention having stated that she was studying law with deliberately levelled it at the stranger. "For a view to practice, the New Bedford Murcury God's sake, don't shoot," shouted the strantreats the subject thus humorously:-

would do better with a little 'un than Lyttleton, with a cap than capias. All woman like a declaration, though most prefer another kind to that in a writ. Still, our Blackstone in shirts may succeed wonderfully in courting, and win a silk gown in advance of all her competitors. The only injustice is that rhetoric may be heightened and rendered more heavenly by a pretty countenance, the present race of lawyers being by no means beautiful as to the phiz. In that case, as Sappho filched the laurels from Pindar, not by force of her poetry, but by the fairness of her face, so 'Squire Nancy or Poll may carry off decisions from our soft hearted judges, when the law and the evidence are both on the side of some long-nosed, ill-favored special pleader

LAYING EGGS ON SUNDAY .- There is such a thing as carrying religion to an extreme .-The following is a ludicrous case in point:

A lady residing in the city, who, by the way, was one of the strictest of evangelical church members, chanced to go into the country, on a visit to her brother, who was also a deacon

On the first Sunday of her visit, a little son of her brother's came running into the house with a couple of eggs, which he had just found

"See aunt," he exclaimed, "what our hens have laid to-day."

"What!" exclaimed the lady, lifting up her eyes in horror, "is it possible that your father, a pious man and a deacon, allows his hens to lay on Sunday?"

She took an early opportunity to remonstrate with her brother on the subject, but whether the hens reformed their ways has not

CGLY VS. UGLY .- In the eastern part of Delaware county, in this State, there resided a man named B-, now a justice of peace, and a very sensible man, but by common consent the ugliest looking individual in the whole country, being long, gaunt, sallow, and awry, with a gait like a kangaroo. One day he was a hunting, and on one of the mountain roads he met a man on foot and alone, who was longer, gaunter, uglier, by all odds, than himself. He could give the Squire "fifty" and beat him. Without saying a word, B-raised his gun and ger in great alarm. These people were Scandinavians, who carried into Britain with them | ders, enclosing that the their arms, their deities, and their religious rites. The Anglo Saxon superstition came from their progenitors, the Danes and Norwegians, and northern mythology was once the established religion of Great Britain. The names of the days of the week were called after the deities of this northern worship. Sunday is the day of the Sun; Monday of the Moon; Tuesday, of Teucer, the god of hunting and archery; Wednesday, the day of Woden, the god of war; Thursday, the day of Thor, the god of thunder; Friday, the day of
