CATCHING TARTARS.

Some two miles distant from Boston, there resides a physician, somewhat noted for his penurious manner of dealing with those who may chance to fall into his "practice." Let me cite one of the many incidents relating to this gentlemen, which has happened during his residence here:

Some time since, in settling an account with one of his neighbors, the following items were rendered in his bill. It should be mentioned that he had a field of buckwheat immediately adjoining his friend's house :-

"To pasturing Bees on Buckwheat, from June to September,

"To time spent in watching said-'s Bees,

Such an account was of course refused payment; but the Doctor carried it up into "the courts," one after another, but, after all, had the pleasure of paying all the costs, besides bearing the odium attached to such small pro-

Now this, which was assured by our correspondent as true in all respects, is only equaled by a like story of a somewhat similar physician, in a certain town in the region of "down East," which shall for the present be nameless. The story is fentirely authentic, and is told in the dialect of those parts by a simpleminded narrator:

"I 'xpect you've hear'n tell of Dr. A---hain't you ?"

"No, I never have."

Well then, I'll tell you. You see one day I met the Doctor at Simpkin's store, a buyin' some groceries. It was awful cold. I felt a little hoarse, and my tongue was dreadfully furred. So says I to the Doctor:

"My head feels a little acheish like; what do you think I had better do?"

"Why friend S ....," says the Doctor, says he, "the best thing you can do is to go straight home and soak your feet, and take a sweat; 'cause if you don't," says he, "like as not you may have a fever."

little sweat would do me good, and I guess I'll or the curtains of Solomon." go home and try it right away."

and I was as good as ever I was.

"Neighbor J---, I've got a little bill agin you!"

"Yes," says he, "a bill for advice, you know was just going to do myself. "Well, Doctor," says I (for I didn't want to appear small you know,) "it's all right; I'll bear it in mind." Well, a few days after, the Doctor was passing by my door in his chaise, and somehow or 'nother one of the wheels got a little loose; so says I, "Doctor, of you don't drive that

Says he "Thank you," and he took a stun and driv in the pin.

Well, I went into the house and just made a charge of it; and when he came along the next time I presented him the bill. "Helio!" says the Doctor, says he: "what on airth is this for ?" says he, "Why, it's for advice," says I.

"Advice!" says he-"what advice? I hain't had none o'your advice."

"Why, for driving in your wheel-pin and I've only charged you two dollars and twentyfive cents; and ef I hadn't given you the ad- man. vice, it might have cost you twenty times as much."

"That's all you owe me," says I.

ded to him by his "customers." While standing at his desk, he happened to turn his head, and saw, in a looking glass which was suspended near him, a stout arm reach up and take down from the shelf a heavy "white oak" cheese, and put it in the bag!

Instead of appearing suddenly, and rebuking the man for his theft, as many a less reflecting person would have done, thereby loseing his custom forever, the crafty old gentleman gave the thief his change, as if nothing had happened, and then, under the pretense of lifting the bag to lay it on his horse for himhe took hold of it, and suddenly exclaimed:-"Why, bless me, I must have reckoned the weight wrong" "Oh, no," said his customer, "that can't be so, because I counted with you, you know." "Well, well," said Mr. S-, "we won't dispute about the matter, it is so easily settled by just putting the bag in the scales again," which he proceeded at once to do. "There," said he, "I told you so. I thought I must be right. I made a mistake of nearly twenty pounds; however, if you don't want the whole, I'll take a part of it out; it don't make any odds to me."

"No, no!" said the victim, struggling in the wicked trap which he had set for his neighbor, and stopping the hands of Mr. S-, on the way to the strings of the bag, "I guess I'll take the whole."

And this he did, paying for his honesty by receiving "skim-milk" cheese at the high price of wool!

THE DEVIL.

Start not, most timid reader, at the name of this thine old acquaintance: for why should'st thou be frightened at the name of so familiar a character? Thou hast known him from thy youth up; a good-looking and courteous personage, moves in the best society, is rigidly scrupulous of his outward appearance, and prides himself no little on his knowledge of the human heart. Polite to a fault, with a voice of the richest tone, and an eye of the brightest glance; bewichingly by his smile, and entrancing by his eloquence; with a mind laden with knowledge and overflowing with light, he has ever been one of the most popular and influential characters of the day. Full often has he aken thee by the hand, and led thee into green pastures, and by the side of still waters, whilst thou, poor deluded soul, imagined thyself in the society of one of "Heaven's elect."

And yet thou tremblist at the mention of his name-and the very idea of contact with him, blanches thy warm cheek, and fills thee with terror. Mistaken soul! On the pages of the primer, and on the tablet of the mind, this genemanly and accomplished Devil is pointedperhaps, as a poor, fleshless body, gaunt and grim, having eyes of fire and feet that are cloven; with horns growing from his head, and barbed arrows from his mouth; with a long tail of many folds behind, and a long arm with many claws before; in short,

> "a monster of such frightful mien, As to the hated needs but to be seen."

I tell the, reader, such a picture is a gross slanderer on the personal appearance of the Dark Prince. He is "black, but comly, O! ye Says I, "Doctor, I was just a thinkin' that a daughters of Jerusalem, as the tents of Kedar, GRAHAM'S MAGAZINE.—NEW VOL-TO UME.—1854.—In announcing his readines to receive orders for the New Volume, the editor does not know he has any very brilliant ideas to hold Filling, Filing, and Cleaning done with care out in large capitals to darale people's eyes-"Graham" will be pretty much what it has been the last volume, with some improvements which experience suggests. No number will contain less han 100 pages of matter, and the renders of "Gra-ham" may rely with great confidence upon this the volume shall contain ommand from original sources, or taste select from the vast mass of available material The aim of the editor will be to produce a pub cation which sholl be valuable in matter, and choice in taste and style; and he flatters himself, rom the known talents of his contributors, that he will be able to present as many good original articles to his readers as any publication of the day He shall not, however, hesitate to publish, from time to time, articles from English authors and translations from the best German and French writers, provided the pieces have never before anpeared to print in this country Essays on impor-tant Political Subjects will likewise be inserted, and criticisms on the Literature of America and the movements of the Age. The Leview Department, in which a large and liberal spirit of criticism will always be maintained, will be extended For the defence of American Diterature the editor rect tone in the Magazine, he will, if possible, be still more watchful. EACH NUMBER WILL CONTAIN AN ENGRAVING FROM A PINE STEEL PLATE IN ADDITION TO THE CHOICE

DESIGNS AND ENGRAVINGS OF DEVERUE, who will supply illustrations for the text in the body of the book. The aim of the editor will ros be so much to increase the number of his engravings, as to secure for those he publishes the utmost finish the artist can give them; for common wood-cuts are so easily multiplied, that the most indifferent publication may outrank in dreary display the choicest periodical. The Editor does not feel, that with his own readers, he can increase his claims to respect by in sisting on any very great superiority of "Graham over several similar publications, but thinks he may safely confide in their friendship for the Magazine, and in its past management for its present list, and such increase as naturally grows out of an extended circulation in a country where readers are multiplying so rapidly. Of the January number the first adition will be 50,000 copies, and the editor trusts his old friends will be so prompt in renewing old clubs, and er-tending the list among new ones, that the first scillion shall be but half os what the year will ultimately establish, as the permanent circulation of Postage .- Subscribers in any part of the United postage, payable at the Post-office where it is re-

375 Broadway, New York. GRAND LITERARY AND AUTISTIC COMBI-NATION. Arrangements have been made to furnish the Knicherbocker Magazine, the Home Journal, and the New York Musical World and Times, to new subscribers, for five dollars a year. This is cheap literature, with a vengeance. The Knickerbocker is $3 per annum the flome Journal, $2; and the Musical World and Times, $3; making $8 a year t the usual rates. Thit three such works can be tained for five dollars a year, is a fact truly worthy the Caloric age, which is just now being ush-ored in. Of the Knickerbocker Magazine, edited by Lewis Gaylord Clark, it is unabcessary to peak. For twenty years it has been the mest cenial; humorous, and spicy "monthly" world; and the present volume will be better than any which proceeded it. The Home Journal, edited by Geo. P. Morris, and N. P. Willis, is well known as the best family newspaper in America; and the Musicul World and Times, edited by Richard Storrs Willis with Lewell Mason, Geo. H. Curtis, Thomas Hastings, Wm. P. Bradbury, F. Root, and other musical writers contributing; and which gives, among other things, ever $25 worth of music and a full course of instruction in harmony annually, is the very best musical Journal ever published. These three publications will post a family up in regard to nearly everything worth knowing :- Art. Science, Literature: Music. Painting, Scalpture; Inventions, Discoveries: Wit. Humor, Fancy. Sentiment, the Newest Fashions and other attractions for Ladies; Choice New Musie for the Sabbath, the Church, and the Fireside; Reviews and Criticism of Musical Works. Performers and Performances; in short, the very pick and cream of Novelty, Incident, History, Blography, Art Literature and Science; including whatever can be given in periodicals to promote Healthy Amusement and Solid Instruction in the family and help to make it Better, Wiser, and Happier, may be now obtained for FIVE DOLLARS. Address DYER & WILLIS, 275 Broadway. Editors publishing the above three times, and
