For The Journal. LITTLE WILLIE.

"Willie's gone." As these words fell from the pale, trembling lips of Willie's mother, chief to her eyes, she burst into a flood of tears. An hour before this, little Willie lay in his own soft, pillowed cradle. His tiny hands were clasped gently across his own soft breast. His features were strangely white, for the light of a another column that "White Hall Boarding purer and ho lier place than earth was shining House,', near Frenchville, is prepared for their upon them. Willie fretted, and cried, and moaned. Willie was very sick. He breathed very hard .and he moaned and moaned, and again stretched out his tiny hands.

"What is it Willie; What does my poor, ty offered them, by the Orphans' Court Sale dear Willie want;" again said his mother, as, slipping her hand softly under him, she took her dear Willie on her lap.

Willie cast an anxious, imploring look in is mother's face, which seemed to say :-"I want to go, mamma."

"And, where does my Willie want to go:" His eyes turned quickly away, and, with a soft sweet smile, looked uptowards the bright O! Willie, I cant let you go. No, darling!

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5, 1855. Messrs. Editors: We desire to call your at tention, as public journalists, to a Railroad project which is now attracting no little noice among our Merchants and Capitalists, and which promises fair to become, at no distant day, the great avenue of communication between the Eastern Seaboard at Philadelphia and the great chain of Lakes at the Harbor of

> For two years past, the friends of this truly great and important measure have suffered its claims as Philadelphia's true and natural route to the Lakes to remain comparatively unnoticed, on account of the great monetary panic which has convulsed our entire country, and brought about such a wonderful and unprecedented depreciation in all Railroad stocks and speculations; but now affairs are brightening, and a new year has just dawned upon us beaming with encourageing hopes of renewed prosperity and enterprise, and seeming to rekindle the energy and ambition af all those who desire to see our glorious old Commonwealth and her Commercial Metropolis what their geographical position and vast in-We no longer hesitate to give publicity operation of your citizens towards the speedy presecution of an improvement which must eventually become the great diagonal iron belt the city of Peiladelphia and her young but enterprising Sister, who dwells in such maidenly. though sometimes ruffled, dignity upon our

In order to avoid trespassing upon your patience and occupying too much space in your columns, we will briefly enumerate a few of the many arguments advanced for the presecution of this particular work, leaving others to be deduced from data already furnished. In the first place, Messrs. Editors, this Road will afford the shortest and most direct line of communication between our great Commercial Metropolis and the Harbor of Erie.

Secondly, it is essentially a Philadelphia measure, inasmuuh as it becomes at once the orincipal branch of the great main artery in Thirdly, it is an Eric measure from the fact slone that it is designed to connect with the Harber at that point-thus making the waters of Lake Erie at your shores the Northwestern terminus of the road; thus your city would become not only the terminus, but the point of to West and from West to East.

The vast and boundless resources which form, as it were, the firm basis of our Commonwealth, the development of which would enrich her Treasury, and disseminate wealth and enterprise and give prosperity to her citizens, will, of themselves, prove more than sufof this great channel-along which these now unappreciated resources will flow in one constant stream, mingling the current with the waters of the Lakes and the Ocean.

As a Philadelphian, deeply interested in fully, &c., the prosecution of any project which can successfully contribute to the presperity of our State by the development of its treasures and resources, and at the same time cognizant of much as would build this road by our present nonability to reach the trade of the Lakes and tion to accomplish an undertaking which must result in such infinite advantage to both.

Geographically situated as these two cities most certainly are to command the trade of the Lakes and the West, and possessing advanta-ges throughout our entire State which have won for it the proud title of the Keystone of the Federal Arch, is it not a subject of surprise and mortification that they are still without the great connecting avenues which now bind our country as one and cover its surface like an immense piece of net work! You will certainly agree with us, Messrs. Editors, that it is surprising that our two cities in their relationship are still without the advantages of Railroad communication, and that your citizens, to reach the Metropolis of their own further than would be necessary were this road constructed! In conclusion, Messrs. While others war and fight, let us act the fox, and seize the fruits. Believing as we most firmly do, that this road covers the true course of a Railroad route between Philadelphia and Erie, and is better adapted to advance the interests of both, our impregnable position gives silent though unmistaken evidence that the efforts now being made in its behalf will be crowned with success, and that Philadelphians and Erians, as well as the people from Clearfield and Warren, may still visit each other over avenues lying wholly within the limits of our iron-bound State.

VETO MESSAGE.

To the Senate and H use of Representatives: GENTLEMEN:-I herewith return to the House of Representatives, in which it originated, bill No. 114, entitled "An act authorizing the election of three supervisors of the public highways in Plumstead township, Bucks county," with my objections to the same.

The Legislature have provided for the elecion of supervisors in every township in the Commonwealth, and the acts in relation to roads, highways, &c., form a system which has been harmonious in its operation, and productive of no injurious results. The mere convenience of localities should not justify a departure from the principles of a general law. or be regarded as a sufficient reason for special egislation. The bill merges the office of overseer of the poor in the office of supervisor to c created under it. The abolition of the humble but useful office of overseer of the poor cannot be justified. The overseer of the poor is the creature of a general and most perfect and humane system of poor laws to which he acts in obedience, and the harmony of that system will be interrupted, and the efficiency of the office destroyed by the change proposed

Special legislation, unless clearly demanded y the necessities of the case, should not be encouraged, and particularly as in this instance, when it is in direct contravention of a reneral law. It mystifies and embarrasses the dministration of the law; it protracts the sessions of the Legislature, and crowds our statute books with special enactments for seperate counties and townships; and in this instance it grants to the parties interested special priviliges, to which all the citizens of the Commonwealth are entitled, if benefits are to be derived from the change proposed, and the general law sought to be disturbed is defectve or oppressive. JAMES POLLOCK.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, Harrisburg, Feb. 17, 1855. (

A FALSE CHARGE .- It has frequently been esserted of late by presses in the interest of the foreign party, that the American people are deeply imbued with the spirit of intolerance and persecution. A more unjust and unwarranted accusation was never brought against a great and noble-spirited people. Hatred of intolerance and persecution is the characteristie of this nation, and is at the bottom of the resent wide-spread opposition to foreign and papal influence. Not only is every phase of Christian worship protected by law and public opinion from molestation, but various systems of anti-Christian idolatry enjoy the same immunity. The Chinese Joss and the Roman ver be annoyed by an empty flour barrel, or Virgin are worshiped openly "according to the dictates of the conscience's of their respective votaries, and nobody contemplates any interference with them, except such as necessarily results from the propagation of truth and free public discussion. Where, then, is the justification of those who so loudly proclaim that the spirit of religious persecution is rife in the United States? Those persons who hate persecution so much that they can reaus, wash stands &c. accuse their Protestant fellow-citizens of it, should show their sincerity by a little more zeal for the rights of conscience in countries where religious freedom is suppressed with Swiss and Austrian bayonets.

Tyrone, Clearfield and Eric Failroad. A well written communication, illustrative of the importance and feasability of this enterthe fact that we annually lose three times as prise, will be found in our columns to-day,-The author is a prominent and influential citizen of Philadelphia, connected by sympathy afford it a channel to our city, we think the and interest with the commercial class, and time has arrived when Philadelphia and Erie, enjoying opportunities of knowing the sentiregardless of former efforts, should unite in ments and wishes of its members. The expeone great desire and with resolute determina- rience of the last few years is not calculated to inspire us with a high degree of confidence in Railroads designed to run to the harbor at supported; but as this enterprise seems to be in good hands-in the hands of thetrue friends alike of Erie and Philadelphia-we are disposed to aid it to the extent of our ability.

It is not designed, we believe, to make the Tyrone and Clearfield Road a rival of the Sunbury and Erie. It is rather intended by it to strengthen that project, and expedite its consummation. Aided by the money and influence of the Pennsylvania Central, as it is said it will be, we can see no insuperable obstacle in the way of its speedy construction. The gentlemen who have it in charge are represented to be the best and most reliable business State, must per necessity, use New York men of Philadelphia and the Counties of Cenimprovements, and travel four hundred miles tre. Clearfield and Huntingdon-men who have no objects to romote not identified with the State to which they belong, and who feel a peculiar interest in the prosperity of the proposed termini of the Road. We bid them a hearty God-speed in their endeavors-not doubting that when the practicability of the undertaking with characteristic zeal and energy, take hold and help it forward .- Erie Gazette.

"WHIGGERY IN DISGUISE." The old line Democratic papers would have the people believe that Know Nothingism is nothing but "Whiggery in disguise." If this be so, how happens it that Democrats are the champions of the new party in our State legislature and in the Congress of the United States? Mr. Adams, of Mississippi, a Democrat of the strictest sect, has moved to repeal the naturalization laws, and boldly sustains the proposition in the Senate! In the House, Judge Smith, of Alabama, now and ever a Democrat above reproach, has most successcommunication, as well as the liberty I take fully vindicated Know Nothingism against the ultra Whig! Now if Whiggery and Know and hest goods, to be had west of Philadelphia. Nothingism are identical, how came these gentlemen to get so awfully mixed up? How happens it that Whigs oppose and Democrais advocate the American cause? We pause for
