SONG OF THE SUMMER FLOWERS. DY EXELINE S. SHITH.

We come with smiles of gladness, The we're followed by decay; And we claim a kindly welcome, For we have not long to stay. Grant us a gleam of sunshine, A kiss from summers breeze,

A few of beaven's dew drops— We ask no more than these. Then in your daily pathways, So cheerfully we'll bloom. And 'round your pleasant dwellings We'll lavish rich perfume; Your hours of toil we'll sweeten.

We'll smile away your care; And we'll even bid your sorrows A holy aspect wear.

There are many human blossoms With natures like our own, Whose bloom, from earth's fair bowers. May be as quickly gone. Such, pure pale buds of beauty,

Are the angels of life's way Oh, cherish them with kindness, While in your homes they stay Give them plenty of Love's sunshine.

With pity's gentle dew; And let the breath of tenderness Their every step pursue. Then, while they dwell among you. They'll brighten all your hours; And when they pass to heaven, They'll go gently, like the flowers.

YANKEE COURTSHIP .- Does any on you know Deb Saucepan? Should't wonder, for she's a dreadful nice critter. Daddy used to make great fuss 'bout my stickin' to hum so clus, and said I might as well be out courtin' Deb as to be squattin' round the fire doin nothing. Well, I telled him it warn't no kind of use; but the old man wouldn't hear nothin' again his own opinion; so I had to go, just to please the old man. Deb used to go to the old white church, you know, up uncle Jarvis' lane, near the blacksmiths' shop, right by the orchard.

Well I went off, dressed tarnation slick; kind o' guess I rubbed to the matter of about two pounds of taller candles in my head, just to make it curl; but 'twarn't no use, it stuck out just like hog's bristles. But somehow or other I got myself in pretty slick order; had on my new hat and coat I won at the raffle, and off I bolted to the church, with my hands in my pockets, whistlin' "Hail Columbia;" felt as brave as Bonypart at Waterloo, and the fust thing I see was Deb steppin' off her horse, and up I runs to speak to her, when 'long comes that 'tarnal Joe Turnea, dressed all-fired nice, looked as if he'd been put up in a bandbox, and walked her right off, fore I could say "how'd due, Deb?"

If I didn't look nation sheepish then t'aint no matter; I blushed just as blue as an indigo wait for her, and pretty soon 'long she come; by gosh she did look screamin' nice. I felt so flusterfied I didn't know what on earth to say to her; I at last got out "Deb!" and says I, "don't my face look all over goose that 'tarnal Joe Turner didn't snort right out. Anyhow, we all went in, and Deb handed me a chair: but I neverlooked where I was settin,' and down I went ker wollop, right on Deb's new bonnet and fix ups; overset the cheer, and sprawled right on the floor, and split my new coat down the back, wide open.

But Deb pinned it up, and that gave me kind of infection for her, and I staid to tea; but I was so conflustrated, I spilt my tea all over Joe's pants, and he called me a darned hog. I never said a word the whole durn time; Deb had to do all the talkin', and I answered yes and no. Says she to me, "Jonathan, did you ever hear a serenade?" "No." says I, "Miss Debby, I never heard of Sarah Nade; but I've hearn of Sal Edwards," and Joe, the fool, snorted at that, too. But Deb said she did'nt mean Sarah Nade, it was what the town chaps call the music when they go out to play at nights; and then she looked kind of slantandicular at Joe, and I'am pretty sartin' he give her a buss. But I see that Deb loved Joe more than she did me, so I got ready to back out; and says Deb to me, "I s'pose you're goin' to see Moll Michael." Says I, "Deb, I guess I got a little more taste than to run arter sich cattle as that." And then she looked at me quite smart, and that tickled me all but to death, and I riz up to make a bow, but somehow or other I catched my feet together, and I sprawled right again" her, and upset her right into Joe's lap. She got up darned mad, I tell you, and says she, "I'll be confound it, that's to bad !" But I had to snort right out, for I never know'd afore that Deb wore false hair, and when she fell, her heartcatchers come off, and she looked jest like a screech owl; and says I, "Deb, never mind, we are goin' to shear our old black sheep next Sunday, and I'll send you wool enough to make a wig on." That riz Deb's Ebenzer, and she made one poke at me with a shovel, but it warn't no use, I was on the road to hum-And I told dad, and dad laughed; see dad always laughs whenever any thing tickles him; and 'twixt you and me, that's the last time I ever went to see Deb Sancepan.

"TAKE HEED HOW YE HEAR."-Many Christians are like sieves; put a sieve into the water, and it is full; but take it forth of the water, and all runs out; so, while they are hearing a sermon, they remember something : but take the sieve oat of the water-as soon as they are gone out of the church-all is forgot. ten. "Let these sayings (saith Christ) sink down into your ears." In the original it is, "Put these sayings into your ears," as a man that would hide a jewel from being stolen, locks it up safe in his chest. Let them sink : the word must not only fall as the dew that wets the leaf, but as the rain which soaks to the root of the tree, and makes it fructify. Oh! how often doth Satan, that fowl of the air, pick up the good seed that is sown!

EXPLOSIVE .- "Don't talk to me about your combs behind her ears, and large spots all gun cotten," said a gentleman, the other day. down her back, which squints awfully. "I'll put my wife against any invention in the

THE YOUNG TOBACCO CHEWER.—Captain | CHAVING AND HAIR DRESSING SA- | A. Marryatt, in one of his sea stories called Peter Simple, tells a capital anecdote about a boy who was just beginning to learn to chew to-

I was amused the last morning watch that I kept. We were stowing away the hammocks in the quarter-deck nettings, when one of the boys came with his hammock on his shoulder, and as he passed, the first lieutenant perceived that he had a guid of tobacco in his mouth. "What have you got there, my good lad? a gum-boil? Your cheek is much swolen." "No, sir," replied the boy, "there's nothing at all the matter."

"O, there must be; perhaps it is a bad tooth. Open your mouth and let me see."

Very reluctantly the boy opened his mouth, which contained a large roll of tobacco leaf.

"I see, I see," said the lieutenant; "your mouth wants over-hauling, and your teeth cleaning. I wish we had a dentist on board; but as we have not, I will operate as well as I can. Send the armorer up here with his tongs."

When the armorer made his appearance, the boy was compelled to open his month, while the tobacco was extracted with this rough in-

"There, now," said the lieutenant, "I'm sure that you must feel better already; you never could have any appetite with such stuff in your mouth. Now, captain of the afterguard, bring a piece of old canvas and some sand, and clean his teeth nicely." The captain of the after guard came forward, and, putting the boy's head between his knees, scrubbed his teeth well with sand and canvas for two or three minuets.

There, that will do," said the lieutenant .-Now my little fellow, take some water and rinse out your mouth nice and clean, and you will enjoy your breakfast. It was impossible for you to have eaten anything with your mouth in such a nasyy state. When it is dirty again, come to me, and I will be your dentist."

ETIQUETTE.-The Yankee out West who wrote home to his mother that he had seen a live Hoosier, has sent her another epistle on Western etiquette. Here it is:

Western people go to their death on eti quette. You can't tell a man here that he lies as you can do East, without fighting. A few days ago, a man was telling two of his neighbors in my hearing, a pretty large story. Says I, 'stranger, that's a whopper.' Says he, Stranger, lay there!' and in the twinkle of an eye, I found myself in a ditch, a perfect bag. "Never mind," says I, meetin," will quadruped, the worse for tear and wear. Upon bust up some time or other, and Deb will have another occasion, says I to a man I never saw to go hum." So I went up to the house to before, as a woman passed him, 'That isn't a specimen of your Western women is it?' Says he, 'You're afaid of the fever and ague, stranger, ain't you?' 'Very much,' said I. 'Well,' replied he, "that lady is my wife, and if you don't apologise in two minutes, by the honor pimples ?" and blame my buttons it Deb and of a gentleman, I swear that these two pistols, which he held cocked in his hands, 'shall cure you of the disorder enrirely, so don't fear, stranger." So I knelt down and apologised. I admire the Western country much, but curse me if I can stand so much etiq uette.

> A SCENE AT THE GATE OF PARADISE .- A poor tailor being released from a troublesome world and a scolding wife, appeared at the gate of Paradise. Peter asked him if he had ever been in Purgatory.

> "No; but I have been married," said the

"Oh! that is all the same," said Peter. The tailor had scarcely got in before a fat, turtle-eating alderman came, puffing and blow-

"Hallo you fellow, open the gate," said the "Not so fast," said Peter, "have you ever been in Purgatory ?"

"No," said the alderman,"but what is that to the purpose? You let in that poor halfstarved tailor, and he has been in Purgatory

"But he has been married!" said Peter. "Married?.. exclaimed the alderman, "why I have been married twice!"

"Then go back again," said Peter, "Paradise is not the place for fools."

Sorely Troubled .- "There is one thing troubles me sorely," said an old sailor, on his death-bed, to his spiritual adviser; "and it is this: I've been spliced on to two women, your reverence, and both have slipped their cables afore me. What troubles me is, to which of will call and settle their accounts immediately, as em I shall be lotted on to whom I gets up aloft." "In the future world there is no marriage, neither is there any giving in marriage, replied the clergyman. "Let not such trifling thoughts occupy your mind now." "Well," replied Jack, "if your reverence says so, and the Bible says so, I suppose it's all right.
