Amid thy sitent flowers Tis sad. but sweet, to dwell, Where falling leaves and dooping flowers Around me breathe far ewell.

Along thy sunset skies Their glories melt in shade, And, like the things we fondly prize, Seem lovelier as they fade. A deep and crimson streak

Thy dying leaves disclose; As on Consumption's waning cheek, 'Mid rain, blooms the rose. Thy scene each vision brings Of beauty in deday; Of fair and early faded things, Too exquisite to stay. Of flowers whose bloom is fied Of farewells wept upon the shore; Of friends estranged or dead ;-Of all that now may seem. To memories tearful eye.

The vanished beauty of a dream,

O'er which we gaze and sigh.

Seet Wheat and its Prepara ions for lowing. The following article from the Mark Lane, (Eng.) Express, is worthy the perusal of American farmers.

"A great consideration with the agriculturist should be, to suit the variety to be sown to the condition and fertility of the soil. A rich soil should be sowed with a short strawed variety-a poor soil with a free-growing long strawed sort. The season of sowing should again decide as to the variety. White wheat should not be sown late in the season, or on very rich soils. The red wheat is better adaptof the red wheat takes up more silica or flinty | can himself make one, Why don't he do it? nature than the white variety, hence that brightness on the straw of red wheat; this, of itself, is the great cause of its comparative safety from that destructive parasite, mildew that black fungus plant so frequently found growing upon the stalks of the wheat plant and preventing its further progress by taking all juices designed for the support of the wheat to promote its own developement.

Having thus shortly given some general outlines with the view of directing to a proper choice of wheat for seed. I will now offer a remark or two upon its preparation for seed. I has become a settled conviction in my own mind, that smut in wheat is mainly derivable from the smutty particles sown along with the grain, and by which it becomes tainted or impregnated. It is also derived from or propagated by smut deposited in the soil from any previous crop, such as blacks in oats, &c. I have proof of this taint causing smut in more cases than one. The great thing then is, to destroy the power or influence of this smutty dust. If this can be done without injury to the grain all the better. Much loss has often ensued from the incantious use of arsenic, ("white mercury") and sulphate of copper, ("blue vitriol.") The more simple the remedy, if effectual, the more desirable, and the greater the necessity for its adoption. Frequent washing in clear running streams of water is effectual; strong dressing with hot lime is effectual. These are simple appliancesswimming in a brine, made of salt and water, has the two-fold effect and advantage of destroying the smut, and floating off all impurities, seeds of weeds, &c. - AAT There are innumerable specifics put forth for dressing seed-wheat, many of which, no doubt, are good and proper; and where any one of them has been adopted and practiced with decided success, it would be but policy to discontinue its use. My own practice is very simple and easily effected. In the evening prior to the next day's drilling, as much wheat as may be required is shot into a heap and well damped with water; It is left for few minutes to imbibe the water, and then freely and profusely dusted over with quicklime-such dusting continued as it is repeatedly turned over. The heap is then rounded up, and left till morning, when it is put in sacks ready for dritting. Should the day prove unfavorable, the heap is spread thinly over the floor, and in this state it will keep for an indefinite period. I presume it is quite soperfluous to intimate that all seed corn should be free from weeds; a good and cleanly rarmer would most thoroughly repudiate the idea of sowing seeds of weeds. I, howev. er, beg more attention to this point. Never make use of seed wheat containing other seeds. It is said that weeds prevalent in one district will not grow in another; don't try it. I know that the pernicious weed called "Goldings," or "Gules," has been thus introduced into district where, till lately, it was unknown .therefore smoid them as you would a pestilence. If, by some unforeseen or accidental cause, a farmer be induced to make choice of a sample of wheat containing seeds, he should use every means to clean it. This may be pretty nearly effected by winnowing or swimming in a strong briny mixture.

THE WIFE'S COMMANDMENTS .- The Cincinnatti Nonpareil gives the following as a correct version for the use of all doubting husbands: 1. Thou shalf have no other wife than me.

5. Honor thy wife's father and mother.

6. Thou shalt not fret.

7. Thou shalt not find fault with thy dinner 8. Thou shalt not chew tobacco.

9. Thou shalt not be behind thy neighbor. 10. Thou shalt not visit the tavern: thou shalt not covet the tavern keeper's rum, nor his brandy, nor his gin, nor his whiskey, nohis wine, nor anything that is behind the bar. | cated, said.

Approach of Autumn. Soon as the barvest is past the naked fields remind us that we are on the turn of the season-the red and yellow leaf are already making their appearance on the forest trees, and soon the voice of the katy-did and glow-worm will usher in the autumnal evening. How short the time seems since Spring was with us, so swiftly do the seasons pass. The years of human life have ever aptly been compared to the degrees of longitude which shorten as we approach the poles. The ardent youth thinks the accompanyments. years of fearful length until he attains maturity: then they seem shorter and increase with every subsequent period of life, until he exclaims with Job ; . My days are swifter than a weaver's shuttle." Tho' the seasons are fleeting, and with them the days of our years are passing away, it is not the part of wisdom to repine, but to enjoy with gratitude the bount Shoes, in Graham's Row, one door east of the Jourties of Providence, and by active industry and kind offices to show that we have not lived in

"Let us then be up and doing, With a heart for any fate; Still achieving, still pursuing,

Learn to labor and to wait." Autumn is the most delightful season, teeming with the full fruition of the year-the har- a large and well selected stock of vests are gathered, the fruits are ripe, and plenty abounds-it infuses a soothing and tranquilizing influence over the mind, and disposes to contemplation and gratitude.

WHY DON'T HE DO IT ?- When a farmer knows that a gate is better, and, as a time and labor-saving fixture, cheaper than a set of bars ed for late seasons and rich soils. The straw | and posts, and without calling a carpenter, he When he has no other fastenings to his gates and barn doors than a stone rolled agaist them, and in a single evening, after supper, is able to make a better one, Whu don't he do it?

Or when he sees the boards dropping from his barns and out-buildings, and like heaps of rubbish lying in piles about the premises, and need hailing on again, Why don't he do it?

Or if he is afraid of the expense of nails. and is always crying up the maxim of Dr. Franklin, to "save the pence, and the pounds will take care of themselves," and he knows that the same Dr. Frankiin also said, thatmany men are penny wise and pound foolish, and he is not careful to think of the precept contained in the latter. Why don't he do it? If it is a saving of nearly half the manure of a farm's stock, by keeping them shut up in the varils, instead of running at large through most of the winter, Why don't he do it? If he knows that many of his fields would be reatly improved by ditching and by the removal of large stumps and stones, Why don't

Col. Wood blandly informed her they were not. "I declare," said she, "I should like to know how they were brought up, for they are so heavy they couldn't have been brought up by hand-it must have been done by a steam engine !"'-The Colonel informed her that they had been brought up by a railroad train. "Where are the quadrupeds?" said Mrs. P. looking for the qua train. "They have not come yet," was the reply. They will be here to-morrow." The old lady looked at her informant critically :-"And how do you know so well," said she, when they will come? These things are not as we say, but babies are born just as it pleases God. They can't be born by order any how." She was informed that they were coming the next day by railroad, and not to be born next day, as she evidently thought. She gave an extended "oh-h-h!" like a cypher laid out (5), and turned her attention to the singular babies on the platforms. "Dear creatures," said she, tapping her box gently,what a great pity it is that these little beautiful babies should grow up to be very common looking men and women." She gazed upon the parents of the children and sighed as she spoke, but her reflection was interrupted by a joggle of her elbow which sent her snuff box rolling upon the floor. A large gentlecrushed papier mache sent up a fragrant cloud as a sneezy ovation to the scene.
