received by the government of England, describing the assault and capture of the Malakoff. He says: "At 12 o'clock on the moraing of the 8th of September the French columns, under Generals Bosquet, M Mahon and De La Motterange, entered and carried the Malakoff with the most impetuous valor. The British columns stormed the Redan, but after a bloody combat could not hold it. A second assault could not be organized until the following morning, when the Redan was found to be evacuated. The loss of life has heep mearful, particularly among officers." The retreat of the Russians to Perekop was contradicted. It was expected they would be unable to hold the north of Sebastonol for want of provisions.
