I gazed down life's green labyrinth, A wildering maze to see, Crossed o er by many a tangled clas, And wild as wild could be: And as I gazed in doubt and dread, An angel come to me.

I knew him for a heavenly guide, I knew him even then. Tho' meekly as a child he stood

Among the sons of men,-By his deep spirit-loveliness, I knew him even then. And as I leaned my weary head

Upon his proffered breast, And scanned the peril-haunted wild From out my place of rest, I wondered if the shining ones Of Eden were more blessed.

Light on my peaceful way, And all around the blue above The clustering starlight lay; And easterly I saw upreared The pearly gates of day.

For there was light within my soul,

So hand in hand, we trod the wild, My angel love and I-His lifted wing all quivering With tokens from the sky.

Strange my dull thought could not divine

'Twas lifted but to fly! Again down life's dim labyrinth, I grope my way alone, While wildly thro' the midnight sky

Black, hurrying clouds are blown, And thickly, in my tangled path, The sharp, bare thorns are sown.

Yet firm my foot, for well I know The goal cannot be far, And ever, thro' the rifted clouds, Shines out one's steady star -For when m, guide went up, he left The pearly gutes ajar.

· LEGS AND LIMBS. The editor of Life Illustrated tells the following incident:

A little girl at school read thus: "The widow lived on a small limbacy left her by a relative." "What did you call that word ?" asked the teacher; "the word is legacy, not limbacy." says I must say limb, not leg."

The little girl, says the Lancaster Inland such things as eyes and noses: they will be merely "organs." We shall have no hands ! or feet, but they will be simply "members," when this refined system of nomenclature reaches its climax. As for ourselves, we are called by their proper names, and we shall stand up for legs as long as we have legs to stand upon. We can see nothing vulgar in that word, but there is something decidedly so in the squeamishness which avoids its use and substitutes in its stead the awkward and indefinite word "limb."

There is a tree on C. B. Alsop's farm in Middletown, Conn., which is three feet in diameter, and is one half maple and one half white oak! The body of the tree is round and smooth, and the junction of the two varieties is marked by a slight ridge in the bark, which would hardly be noticed. Twelve feet from the ground the tree divides; one side is maple, the other oak. The maple throws out a branch that has become entirely surrounded by the oak, and offers on that side the singular appearance of a white oak tree throwing out a maple limb.

Pshaw! says the Phil'a. Sun, that does not begin to compare with a tree on our homestend farther east, which had no two limbs of the same kind. We used to gather all our winter stock of apples, pears, plums, peaches, grapes, chesnuts, bickory nuts, butternuts, and occ.sionally a crep of spizirinctums. Our old white mare used to lay her eggs under it. Why didyou not tell a good one while you were at it?

ONE OF THE PIGS .- The Lynn News is responsible for the following:

A friend of ours was arguing in favor of buying large pigs in the spring, declaring it much better than to buy small ones, as they eat but little more. A neighbor differed from him in opinion, whereupon he told a story that "took down" his opponent, and all hearers decided that small pigs eat some. Said he-

"Last spring I bought a small pig from drover and he was good for eating, but would not grow much. He got so, after a week or two that he could eat a bucket-full at a time and like Oliver Twist, call for "more." Well one morning I carried out a water bucket-full of dough, and after it had swallowed it all. I picked up the pig and put bim in the same bucket I had fed him from, and the little cuss some one speak with her down stars. didn't fill it half up."

One-fourth part of all children die before the age of seven years. The population of the more than forty each second.

AN ILL USED MAN .- Smithers was telling us of some of his trials. He had been shipwrecked once, was burned out twice, and had to pay the notes of three of his friends for whom he had endorsed, fell through a man trap in a sidewalk and broke a leg, was arrested by the muring. The greatest trial of his life was his that wife would not let him smoke in the parlor. She was right.

A QUICK KEPARTER .- GOVERNOR MORES New York, had a high respect for B shop ty of his disposition, and for the general tavor in which he was held.

A dinner was given by some of Governor Morris's friends when he was about departing for Europe. Bishop Moore and his wife were Mahogony and Cane-bottomed Chairs, Bureaus, of the party. Among other things that passed in conversation, Mr. Morris said that he had made his will in prospect of going abroad; and turning to Bishop Moore said to

"My reverend friend, I have bequeathed to you my whole stock of impudence." Bishop Moore replied-

"Sir, you are not only very kind, but very generous; you have left me by far the greatest portion of your estate."

Mrs. Moore immediately added-"My dear, you have come in possession of your inheritance remarkably soon."

NOVEL ARITHMETIC .- An Ohio correspondent becomes sponsor for the following, which, as a matter of fact, he wishes to jut on record. Whitaker is one of the richest men in those parts and has made his money by driving sharp bargains. His hired man was going along one day with a load of hay, which he overturned upon a cow. The poor thing was smothered to death before they could get her out. Her owner, Mr. Jones, called upon Mr. Whitaker the next day, and demanded payment for the loss of his cow. "Certainly," said Mr. Whittaker, "what do you think she was worth ?"

"Well, about ten dollars," said Jones. "And how much did you get for the hide and tallow ?"

"Ten dollars and a half, sir." "Oh, well, then you owe me just fifty

Jones was mystified, and Whittaker very fierce in his demand, and before Jones could get the thing straight in his mind, he forked

Colloger .- An affected lady about to be married, in a place not four hundred miles from the city, went to look at some furniture. She wished particularly to have a piece of furniture to set in the corner of the parior, "But Miss Johnson," said the little girl, "Pa upon which to place books and cariosities. She saw several, but they did not suit. It seems she could not explain what she wanted. Daily, was right. There are no legs now a- Finally, she said-Mister, have you got any days-they are only limbs. "And what the deuce, madam, could you do with under trousers in a piece of furniture like that ?" "Why, to put shells and enriosities in," said the pink of nature, "for shells, &c." Ah! oh! hem! You mean drawers-oh !so old fashioned that we like to hear things Why didn't you say so't Walk up stairs ma'am." The lady colapsed, and a footman placed her in an open chariotee quicker'n a

> ANECDOTE OF FOOTE .- Foote was talking away one evening at the diffuer table of a matof rank, when, at the point of one of his best stories, one of the party interrupted him suddealy with an air of the most considerate

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Foote, but your handkerchief is out of your pocket" "Thank you, sir, said be, replacing it-"you nont, that thrifty Scotch peer, the ambassaor, as usual, produced his wine in the smallest of decanters, and dispensed it in the smallest of glasses, enlarging all the time on its exquisite growth and enormous age.

"It is very little of its age," said Foote, holding up his diminutive glass.

USE OF SALT IN COOKING VEGETABLES .- If one pertion of vegetables be boiled in pure listilled or rain water, and another in water to which a little salt has been added, a decided difference is perceptible in the tenderness of the two. Vegetables beiled in pure water in be uty to any that can be obtained from the are vastly inferior in flavor. This inferiority may go so far, in the case of onions, that they are almost entirely destitute of either, taste or olor, though when cooked in salted water, in addition to the pleasant salt taste, a peculiar and are now able to afford the travelling public sweetness and a strong arom t. They also contain more soluble matter than when cooked in pure water. Water which contains 1.42 th of its weight of salt is far better for cooking vegetables than pure water, because the salt hinders the solution and evaporation of the soluble and flavoring principles of the vegetables.

PSALMS AND HIMS .- A m siden lady, suspectbean upon the cold mutton of the larter, called signed. Betty and inquired whether she did not hear
