Mr. Banks, the present Speaker of the House of Representatives, was born on the 18th of January, 1816, in the town of Waltham, near Boston, which is still his residence. The poverty of his family deprived him of any but the most ordinary advantages of education, and these were necessarily parrowly limited, or utterly withheld, from his twelfth year, when he betook himself to a factory in his native town, therein to earn a livelihood. At a later period of his youth, he worked as a blacksmith. He was nearly thirty years old, when, throwing aside his blacksmith's apron, he commenced in Boston the study of the law, in the office of Hon. Robert Rantoul, Jr., then U. S. District Attorney for Massachusetts, and he was more than thirty two years old when, in 1848, he was admitted to practice, and opened an office for himself in Boston, still residing with his family at Waltham. Mr. Rantoul was probably the ablest man in the Democratic ranks in New England, and Mr. Bank's views upon many subjects are identical with those of his legal teacher and personal friend.

Mr. Banks had been an earnest and active partisan as early as 1840, when he supported Van Buren and the Sub-Treasury. He stood up for Polk in '44, and for Cass in '48, when he was for the first time chosen to the Legislature of Massachusetts from Waltham, though his political opponents were a decided majority in that town. It is said that but twenty Democrats were that year elected to the Massachusetts House, which consists of somethree to four hundred members.

In 1850, the famous "Coalition" between the Free Soilers and the Democrats wrested Massachusetts from the control of the Whig party, sent Charles Sumner to fill the seat of Daniel Webster in the U. S. Senate, and elected Mr. Banks Speaker of the Massachusetts House. In 1853, Mr. Banks was elected Speaker of the Constitutional Convention, of which the ablest men of the State were mem-

Mr. Banks first took his seat as a Member of Congress in December 1853, having supported General Pierce for President in the preceeding canvass. He acted with his party through that session, except on the Slavery Question-taking ground against the Repeal of the Missouri Compromise, against the doctrine of "Squatter Sovereignty," and contending that it was the right and duty of Congress to act as the guardian of the infant Territories. and establish therein such institutions as were most in conformity with Republican principles, and best adapted to promote their intellectual, moral, and material growth.

In 1851, Mr. Banks was re-elected to the House, having the support of both the "American" and Democratic parties in his District, and receiving a majority of some seven thousand votes. In December last that Congress assembled, and, after a two moths' struggle was elected Speaker by a plurality of three votes. Mr. Banks is generally acknowledged to be an admirable presiding officer-having much experience, and great natural coolness. promptitude and dignity.

He is now forty years old, rather below the medium size, with a firm, erect carriage, and an earnest physiognomy that seems as though it had been pinched and shriveled by facing a keen New England March wind. His dark hair is thickly sprinkled with gray, indicative of the anxieties of an active trenchant life. He is understood to be still in very moderate circumstances. He was married some years since, and his wife is now with him in Washington, though their children in part remain at school in their New England home. Contrary to the general rule that "a prophet is not without honor, save in his own country," Mr. Banks has always been most popular in his native town, and there the long struggle for the Speakership was watched with the liveliest anxiety on his behalf. When the ti- Watson, Clearfield, Pa. dings of his success at length arrived, the bells were rung, cannon fired, a procession formed, and all the clergymen assembled with their flocks to rejoice over the success of their

IMPORTANT TO HOUSEKEEPERS AND FRUIT GROWERS .-- ARTHUR'S PATE ent Air-Tight Self-Sealing Cans and Jars, for Preserving Fresh Fruits, &c .- This invention for which a patent has been obtained, commends itself to the attention of Housekeepers and others, on account of its great simplicity, and the effectu-al manner in which it accomplished a very desirable and useful object The cans and jars are constructed with a channel around the month, nerr the top, into which the cover fits loosely. This channel is filled with a very adhesive cement, prepared for the purpose and allowed to harden. In order to seal the vessel hermetically, it is only necessary to heat the cover slightly, and press it into place. It may be opened with as much case as it is closed, by slightly warming the top. The ordinary tin cans, used for the same purpose for which this is intended, cannot be closed, as is well known without the aid of a tinnsr, are difficult to open, and are generally so much injured in opening as to be useless for future service.

By this simple contrivance, the process of hermetical scaling is placed conveniently within the reach of every individual; and fruit, vegetables and butter (if properly prepared) may be kept, with their natural flavor unimpaired, for an in definite length of time. For sale by MERRELL & CARTER.
