bers, they complied. This trival affair they made the pretext for applying the incendiary torch to Lawrence.

They made charges against the citizens of that place for interfering with the administration of the fraudulent laws, and ordered them to be given up or they would sack the town .-But when the Ruffian forces were drawn up before that doomed city, Jones, the Sheriff, stated that he had no warrant for any citizen of Lawrence. This was but another step in the execution of their plans. Lawrence was an eye-sore to the Slavery party. It was an asylum to them while they were securing locations for future homes, and obtaining such information of the Territory as conduced to their interest. They could not set off into the wilderness with their families, unprotected and without any knowledge of the country, without great danger of being kidnapped, robbed, or murdered. The Slavery party, therefore, determined to destroy Lawrence, and break up this rendezvous of the Free-State settlers .-Their plans were not only against Kansas, but against all the Territories yet to come into the Union. This is clearly proved by the oath of fraternity taken by the membersof the "Blue Lodge," a secret society, which they have formed as an auxiliary to their cause. They swear to do all in their power to carry Slavery into Kansas and other countries. What other countries are meant? Is it not the vast territories lying north and west ? They seek all these that they may have a cordon of Slave States reaching across the continent and along the Pacific Ocean, which shall hem in the power and progress of the North. He said that Kansas formed a constitution similar to nine of the other States that have come into the Union, where the people were left to decide upon the question of Slavery. But no sooner did the Southern slaveholders discover this fact than they based their action upon it, and were backed up by Pierce. The doctrine which is now attempted to be forced upon the people of Kansas first saw the light in the President's message. Pierce denounced the opinions of Butler, the United States ex-Attorney General, and also of Jackson as treasonable. And thus, the color of law on their side, these ruffians are sweeping down rights which have so often been proclaimed by great and good men as belonging to the citizens of every territory. They are imprisoning the Free-State men to prevent them from carrying out the rights which their Constitution demands, and are attempting to drive the last Free settlers from the Territory. Gov. Reeder then proceeded to narrate the way in which Lawrence was sacked. He said there were two hotels at that point on the river. One was the Free State Hotel, in Lawrence, the other just across the boundary. The first was a large stone edifice, 60 by 80 feet, and three stories high, and was elegantly furnished. The Border Ruffians said it was a nest of Abolitionists : a name which they give to all Northern men, without distinction of party prejudices. They procured the impanneling of a Grand Jury of their own stamp, and had it indicted as a nuisance. Under this finding it was ordered to be torn down. The Slavery forces were drawn up before it, and the United States Marshal made several arrests of persons who had, by some unknown act, become disagreeable to the borderers. Sheriff Jones then demanded the arms of the citizens, which, though reluctantly, were given up. The hotel was then besieged, two kegs of powder placed in it, and a large portion blown to pieces. It was then set on fire, and with all its splendid furniture, became a mass of ruins. The three Free-State printing offices were then entered, the type and presses thrown into the river, and every house save one, inhabited by an old lady with numerous children, was destroyed. Stealing became the general order, and not a trunk in Lawrence was left unopened. The ruthless marauders walked into a clothing store, threw off their old garments and supplied themselves with new ones. All this was done under the law; backed by the present Administration .-This is Kansas law order. These are not isolated acts; they all belong to the deep game which the South is playing. The other hotel was owned by two New England men, who did all in their power to make the emigrants comfortable. They were warned by their friends that this hotel was to be destroyed. The Michigan company was encamped near there, and they at once volunteered to defend it. When the ruffians found that it would be defended they abandoned an open attack, but warned the owners that if they did not sell out to a rangement in their functions, purifying the blood Pro-Slavery man, their house would be torn down. There are armed men now encamped around there, bound to fight for Slavery, and there are others who, in defiance of the President's proclamation, will do all in their power to protect their rights. Some of the people of Kansas have been shot down, military companies are paraded in public places, but no official sees it. The highways are blocked up, and peaceful citizens are daily ordered to "stand and deliver." The arms of citizens will be next demanded, and then the helpless fellows must take their chance among the desperadoes. They will have no means of re- fail to afford relief dress. The next election will not be held until October, and if they dare to come to the polls they will be forced away, or driven into a general fight. If they do not succeed and drive off their tyrants, their crops will be despoiled, their cattle killed, and the Free-State settlers will be left to starve or quit the Territory. Slavery at last triumphs; Kansas and the empire behind her are lost. The North will have awakened too late to avoid the calamity. Meetings and resolutions are so much Costiveness Inflamation sime thrown away. They accomplish nothing; they save no man's life; but while you are Dropsy passing them the slave power is growing, and planning, and carrying its plans into effect. If release. Afraid to fight a party of equal num- (place is the plains of Kansas. He did not propose to organize a hostile force to take treasonable ground against the government; nor was it of any use to send a few emigrants there to be robbed and murdered, as others had been. He said it was necessary for the great and wealthy North to raise $2,000,000, in order that 10,000 men of character, with strong hearts and strong hands, might be placed upon those fertile plains, as actual settlers, and be provisioned for one year. That number once there, determined to maintain their rights, and there would be no more disturbances, no more murders, and no more border ruffians in Kansas. The North could do it; and though it would cause some sacrifice from individuals. it would be nothing compared with what had been suffered by the settlers of the Territory. The great interests of the North and of the Union, and of every individual, demand it, and he hoped there would be no pause in the her should be redeemed from Pro-Slavery Ruffianistn.
