ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH .- Subject on Sunday night, 28th instant :- Variety of religious denominations in our country.

WE TENDER the compliments of the season to our patrons, wishing them all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

REV. DR. McLEOD, on Sunday evening, whilst returning from church, slipped on some ice, and sprained one of his ancles so severely as to prevent him from walking for some days.

OUR CARRIER requests us to announce that he will have an excellent Address for New Years' Day, and that he should be pleased if all would be prepared to greet him on that occasion in a substantial manner.

THE WEATHER, during the last few days, has been very cold, and the Susquehanna is frozen over. On Monday several inches of snow fell. A little more of the article would make good sledding and sleighing, for which all are looking anxiously.

TYRONE & GLEARFIELD RAILROAD .- We have been informed that the contractors are determined to push the work between Tyrone and Philipsburg with vigor, and for this purpose have already some 200 hands at work on the line. This looks as if something was to be done, and we think the company should congratulate themselves upon having given the contract to such spirited and energatic men as Messrs. Brady, Mowrer and Lingel, to whom we trust it may prove a profitable job.

SHOOTING IN THE STREETS .- During the last week we heard on several occasions pistols or other fire arms discharged in our streets. This is wrong as well as dangerous. We see by the Gazette that on the 15th a man was killed in Pittsburg, whilst engaged loading some furniture, by a ball from a pistol which had been shot at a mark. The ball, striking a stone, glanced and struck the unfortunate man on the head, causing death in a short time. We trust, therefore, that persons will in future desist from shooting within our borough limits.

REMEMBER THE Poor .- The cold winter is upon us with all its rigors, and as those who are blessed with a fair share of this world's goods gather around their cheerful firesides. they should not only feel grateful to the great Ruler of the Universe for the blessings they enjoy, but they should not be forgetful of the poor who may be in our midst. We are all too apt to think when we are comfortable ourselves that all is right-we but seldom reflect that there may be those who are actually wanting the necessaries of life, who lack the wherewithal to keep soul and body together. Such should be looked after, and the hand of Charity extended to them. A trifle would send a thrill of hope to the heart of a desponding fellow, lighten his grief, and cheer him on his weary way. While we can, we should extend a helping hand; for Fortune is a fickle jade, and there is no telling how soon any of us may free to all parts of the country. be reduced to penury. It would scarcely be believed if we should say that here, in Clearfield, there are persons who sometimes have not a dozen mouthsful of wholesome food in their house-and yet it is the sad truth. Such things should draw the attention of an enlightened, christian community, and we trust that every one will occasionally glance into the abodes of the lowly to see if pinching want is lurking about, and drive it hence. "To feed the hungry and clothe the naked," are virtues for the exercise of which you have promise of reward hereafter, for Christ says, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of one of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

Queer-what strange fancies a little old rye, taken in small doses, will produce in the minds of some. The other night we met a male biped, who had been indulging in various potations, who imagined himself to be a docomotive, and was puffing and blowing at a fine rate.
