For the "Raftsman's Journal." CHRIST IN THE STORM. "It is I, be not afraid."-Jesus. How much easier it is to trust in human probabilities, than in the Divine promises." A christian woman, in a storm. When the lowering storm draws uear,

When mine eyes its biackness me, Then I will not yield to fear, / For my Saviour says, 'tis he.

Jerus in the threat'ning storm, Jesus in the thunder's voice, Jesus in the lightning's form, Even in danger I'll rejoice.

Yes, I hear the Saviour say, When the raging billows roar, I appoint the storm at sea, I will guide thee safely o'er.

Jesus, thou art ever near ; Saviour, thou art always kind ; And I won't give way to fear; Thou canst see, though I am blind ;

Thou art mighty, though I'm weak ; Thou wilt perfect all for me; In thee all my good I seck, In thee all my good I see.

God, who worketh all in all, Works for good to my poor soul ; Give the wine, or give the gall, All is right, I'll drink the whole.

Sinking, then I'll hear thy voice Saying, "fear not, it is I." In thy words I will rejoice, Till I meet thee in the sky.

There, my Saviour, I shall see, Through this present seeming strife, How thy wisdom guided me, How thy power sustained my life ;

How, all-loving as thou art, Thou didst draw my soul above ; Thou didst soothe my anxious heart ; Thou didst fill me with thy love.

Blessed be thy blessed name, Holy, holy, holy Lord ! From thy hand my mercy came ; Ever be thy name adored.

Blessed Saviour, glorious King, Let thy triumphs still extend ; Let thy willing captives sing, And exulting praise ascend. J. J. H.
