ON SIGHT AND ON DEMAND .- One of "Porter's" staff is responsible for this anecdote :

Judge -, a well known, highly respected Knickerbocker, on the shady side of fifty, a widower with five children-full of fun and frolic, ever ready for a joke-to give or take, was bantered the other evening by a miss of five and twenty, for not taking another wife; she urged that he was hale and hearty and deserved a matrimonial messmate. The Judge acknowledged the fact; admitted that he was convinced by the eloquence of his fair friend that he had been thus far very remiss, and expressed contrition for the fault confessed; ending with offering himself to the hady, telling her she could not certainly reject him after pointing out to him his belnous offence.

The lady replied that she would be most happy to take the situation so uniquely advertised, and become bone of his bone and flesh of his flesh; but there was one, to her, serious obstacle.

"Well," says the Judge, "name it. My profession is to surmount such impediments."

Went off to be doctored at great expense, but get no better. She then commenced taking your Pills, which soon cured her, by expelling large quantities of worms (dead) from her body. They afterwards cured her and our two children body. They afterwards cured her and our two children of bloody dyscatery. One of our neighbors had it had, at a my wrife cured him with two doses of your Pills, while others around us paid from five to twenty dollars doctors' bills, and lost much thate, without being cured entirely even then. Such a nieslicine as yours, which is actually good and honest, will be prized here.

We need not speak to the public of its virtues. Throughout every town, and almost every hamlet of the American States, its wonderful cures of pulmenary complaints have made it already known. Nay, few are the families in any civilized country on this continent without some personal experience of its effects; and fewer yet the communities any where which have not among them some living transport of its victory over the subtle and dansome personal experience of its effects; and fewer yet the communities any where which have not among them some living trophy of its victory over the subile and dangerous discusses of the throat and lungs. While it is this most powerful antidete yet known to man for the formidable and dangerous diseases of the pulmenary organs, it is also the pleasantest and safest remedy that can be employed for infants and young persons. Farents should have it in store against the insidious eventy that steals upon them unprepared. We have abundant grounds to believe the Cuthary Pacronal saves more lives by the consumptions if prevents than those it cures. Keep it by you, and cure your colds while they are curable, nor neglect them until no numan skill can master the inexorable canker that, fastened on the vitals, cats your life away. All know the dreadful fatality of lung disorders, and as they know too the virtues of this remedy, we need not do more than to assare them it is still made the best it can be. We spare no cost, no care, no toil to produce it the most perfect possible, and thus afford those who rely on it the best agent which our skill can furnish for their cure.
