Newspaper enterprise, which the great extension of Ratiroads, and the establishment of the Telegraph system have crowded into these last sixteen eventful years. No larger journal is afforded at so low a price in any quarter of the world; none in America, no matter at what price issued, pays an equal amount, weekly or monthly, for intellec-tual labor. It employs correspondents regularly in the leading capitals of Europe, and at the most staff of writers and reporters at home, regarding and his daily paper on his fireside table, the A-merican farmer or artisan within a day's ride of the city may then study each evening the doings of the civilized world throughout the day preceding; and it seems hardly possible that any who can read, but especially one who has children to educate, will longer deny himself the pleasure and profit of a daily journal. The same is true mea-surably of those who live further inland; though, where mails are infrequent, a Semi-Weekly, or e-ven a Weekly, may seem sufficient.
