AGRICULTURAL.
WINTER FALLOW.—Land is not fallowed when it merely bears no crop for a course of months, though this is too often thought to be all. The oftener a piece of ground in fallow is plowed and stirred, the better results will be obtained, and winter fallows, if the ground is left in the best shape to receive the action of the frost, are often productive of absolutely astonishing results. Certain soils are not benefited by fall plowing so as to lie up loose in ridges during the winter. Such are light sandy soils or soils upon which there is little or no drainage; but almost all our ordinary loams, gravels, or even peaty soils, are thrown in ridges and exposed to the action of the elements during winter with great profit. And the same is especially true of garden soils. Manurial substances which might remain dormant in the soil for years, are thus brought into available forms. It is well known that in many highly manured soils, much of the manure seems to produce no effect; manure will not go as far in the garden as it will in the field, and the reason is, that the frequent additions of manure make it unnecessary for the plants to feed so close, so to speak, and there becomes a deposit of fertilizing material which following renders available. We advise therefore that garden soils be spaded or plowed up in ridges, and that other soils, especially stiff clay or hard loam, be similarly treated, so far as practicable. In the last case, not for precisely the same reason, but that the mellowing effect of the frost may be taken advantage of, and that the chemical changes which exposure to the atmosphere produces in the substance of the soil, rather than in the manurial ingredients added, may take place.

THE YANKEE AND THE DANDY.—Some time since, on a Western steamer, a live Yankee and a dandy sat directly opposite each other at the table. After the captain had said grace, the dandy threw himself back on his dignity and called out in a pompous tone to the waiter: "You wait! bring me the support of a young female chicken, a fresh hegg, and a plate with a specimen of fruit vulgarly called onion, which will give to me dinner a delicious flavor."

The Yankee quietly threw himself back in imitation of his opposite neighbor, and in a nasal tone called out: "Yeon all-fired, dod-blasted, dod-rabbitted, pesky looking, little, trained, black nigger! fetch me a peck of corn and a bundle of fodder, and rub me down with a brick bat while I feed."

An uproarious laugh fairly shook the cabin, during which the dandy was seen streaking out of the door with a finger in each ear.

HERE is something very good about "fast driving."—Some years ago, Spurr kept a stable. Spurr had his peculiarities, one of which was this: he never let a horse go out of the stable without requesting the lessee not to drive fast. One day there came to Spurr's stable a young man to get a horse and carriage to attend a funeral. "Certainly," said Spurr; "but," he added, forgetting the solemn purpose for which the young man wanted the horse, "don't drive fast!" "Why, just look a here, old fellow!" exclaimed the somewhat excited young man, "I want you to understand that I shall keep up with the procession, if it kills the horse!" Spurr instantly retired to a horse stall, and swooned amongst the straw.

OUT OF WORK.—According to careful estimates, not less than twenty-five thousand, seven hundred men and women have been thrown out of employment in New York city by the hard times, with no hope of getting work during the coming four or five months. Of these eight thousand are laborers, four thousand are clerks, and twenty-nine hundred workmen in iron foundries, sixteen hundred cloakmakers, one thousand clerks, and so on through the list of occupations. Every branch of business contributes to the melancholy array; and we regret to find no less than five hundred printers among the number.

A banker asked a young lady what kind of money she liked the best. "A Matru-money," she replied. "What interest does it bring?" asked the sharp banker. "If properly invested it will double the original stock every two years," said she. He concluded she was a match for him, but the rest is a secret.

John Randolph met a personal enemy in the street one day who refused to give him half the sidewalk, saying he never turned out for a rascal. "I do!" said Randolph, stepping aside and politely raising his hat; "pass on, sir; pass on, sir."

A MARRIAGE took place in Fairfax county, Va., on Saturday last, of a couple who were divorced nine years ago. In the mean time the man had been married and his wife died, and on Saturday he was again united to his former wife.

REV. MR. SPURROCK takes pains publicly to say that he is not a total abstainer, and does not believe in the principle of total abstinence from intoxicating drinks as a beverage. He occasionally takes something himself.

"What can we do with him?" asked a perplexed friend, when a certain cockney bluebeard fainted at the grave of his fourth spouse. To which a wag replied: "Let him alone, he'll soon re-awake."

An Irishman, on board a vessel, when she was on the point of foundering, being desired to come on deck as she was going down, replied that he had no desire to go on deck to see himself drowned.

"Dear," said an Irish gentleman to his wife, "I would rather the children were kept in the nursery when I'm at home, although I should not object to their noise if they would only keep quiet."

ROBINS' EXPECTORANT AND COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.
FOR THE CURS OF
Bronchial affections, Coughs, Colds, Pleurisy, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all other diseases of the throat and lungs, except Consumption. This invaluable remedy is so quickly and easily prepared from the recipe of a regular physician, who during a practice of twenty-five years, used it with unparalleled success. It is a combination of expectorant remedies, simple in their character and used for every educated physician. It is easily taken, produces no nausea or other disagreeable effects, and gives almost immediate relief. In this ever-changing climate, where coughs and colds so frequently and so quickly visit us, it is easily taken, and should be without this cure, it is easily taken.
It would be easy to follow in the wake of the vendors of patent medicine, and multiply certificates got up for the occasion, of miraculous cures, but no such additions are necessary. It is introduced in this preparation to the public. Its real value, and never failing success, in accomplishing all promised for it, cannot but give it a wide circulation, and render it a valuable remedy for all diseases for which it is a remedy. Price 37 1/2 cents per Bottle. Prepared exclusively by
THOMAS ROBINS, Druggist,

The general character of the Scientific American is well known, and as heretofore, it will be cordially devoted to the promulgation of information relating to the various Mechanical and Chemical Arts, Manufactures, Agriculture, Patents, Inventions, Engineering, Mill Work, and all interests which the light of Practical Science is calculated to advance. It is issued weekly, in form of a binding; it contains annually from 600 to 800 pages, executed Engravings, and Notices of American and European Improvements, together with an Official List of American Patent Claims published weekly in advance of all other papers.
It is the aim of the editors of the Scientific American to present all subjects discussed in its columns in a practical and popular form. They will also endeavor to maintain a candid fairness in commenting upon the various Mechanical and Chemical Inventions in Scientific and Mechanical matters, and thus preserve the character of the Scientific American as a reliable Encyclopedia of Useful and Entertaining Knowledge.
Specimen copies will be sent gratis to any part of the country.
