If your foot is pretty, show it, When you trip along the street, For it will catch the eager eyes Of every man you meet.

Don't toss your glossy ringlets, Nor pout your lips so sweet, But gently lift your crinoline And show your handsome feet. If your foot is pretty, show it,

At concert, ball and fair; For that small pedal index Tells where your graces are. The figure may deceive me, All hooped and padded o'er. But let my eye survey the foot, I ask to see no more.

If your foot is pretty, show it, If you want to catch the beaux ; No longer hide that tell-tale charm Beneath so many clothes.

A graceful foot betrays a form Of rare and faultless grace; Full, rounded limbs it doth reveal, For fancy's eye to trace.

If your foot is pretty, show it, Yes, show it when you can; 'Twill help your other lovely charms To win some nice young man. The practiced eye may well distrust A nicely padded breast, But when it rests upon your foot, It knows of all the rest.

AGRICULTURAL.

SPRING WHEAT AND FALL PLOWING .- William O. Houghtailing of Grand Rapids, writes that he has two lots of spring wheat grown unfder different systems of cultivation. The first was a very fine lot, almost ready for the sickle on the fourth of August, and which was so rank and luxuriant that the yield seemed equal to that of the best field of winter grain. The cultivated the last spring previous to sowing | hunting for wather." the seed. The seed was sown on the 20th of April, and cultivated in with a light cultivator. The second lot was ploughed during the spring immediately before sowing the seed, the soil being equally as good as that of the first. Both were old sod. Yet the yield on the second lot, either of grain or straw, does not seem to be half as good as that sown on the land ploughed last fall. It is the opinion of Mr. Houghtailing that spring wheat, grown upon fall-ploughed land as he has tried, yields a better and surer crop than winter wheat sown in October. We have no doubt at all of the correctness of the practice of fall-ploughing for spring crops, and especially for spring wheat and barley. The exposing to atmospheric influences during the winter, mellows and the public. enriches the seed bed to such a degree that whenever the grain is sown it has the elements at hand ready for the assimilation which it needs. The soil newly turned up has first to be prepared or mellowed, or oxidized, as the G ED be prepared or mellowed, or oxidized, as the chemists would term it, before it becomes fit mers and the public in general that they are receiving from the East, and opening at their store to yield nourishment; and while this process is going on, much precious time is lost, and | county, a large and well selected stock of the growth of the plant is abbreviated in proportion; its time for tilling cut short, and the yield cannot be as large as when it has the whole length of the season which nature seems to have set apart as that to which the plant shall make stems and leaves, previous to the formation of the seed vessels .- Michigan Far-

TRANSPLANTING FRUIT TREES IN THE FALL. -Although spring is the usual season for transplanting trees and shrubs, there are many kinds that may be put down in the Fall, if the work be thoroughly done, such as the apple, peach, plum, common cherry, and many kinds of plants, vines and bushes. But whether you plant, spring or fall, we would strongly recommend that all trees, &c., be obtained from the nurseries in the Fall. Those who do so have an important advantage over those who wait till spring. The fall purchaser gets the first choice, as to size and sorts. Again, farmers have more time to attend to such business in the fall than in the spring. You then have the trees on hand, ready for planting as soon as the ground is clear of frost, and can be worked. The trees should be taken from the nursery as soon as the foliage drops, and if there should be any leaves remaining on at the time of taking up, strip them off. Get your trees home as soon as possible, and see that the roots are not frozen before they are heeled in for the winter, which is done this way : Dig a trench, in a moderately dry place, where surface water wili not stand, about two feet deep, with one side a good deal slanting. Upon the mail. sloping side lay the trees, with their roots three or four inches from the other side; then pack the roots carefully with fine, top soil, and tread it down. Thus treated, trees will come out in the spring in as good, if not better order than if left standing through the winter. It will be still better if the tops are covered with boards to keep the sun off. Straw or coarse manure would be better, but for its affording a harbor for mice .- N. W. Farmer.

A rustic poet sends to an exchange the following poem on a "Squirl," remarking that he is aware that the last line is a little too long, which he says is not his fault:

"The squirl am a nice bird, And has a bushy tail, He sometimes sits opon a lim, And sometimes on a rail, And gethers nuts in the Summer so that his Winter stock won't fail.

"Oh, yes, Joe, my father is an old mariner, a regular salt." "Why, I never knew that. What service was he in?" "The whaling service. He goes cruising around all night, and in the morning, when he comes home, he goes a whaling the whole family, from the old 'oman down, and boxes the compass around the hired girl's ears."

A clergyman, who was consoling a young widow on the death of her husband, spoke in a very serious tone remarking that he was sone of the few. Such a jewel of a christian -you cannot find his equal, you well know." To which the sobbing fair one replied, with an almost broken heart: "I'll bet I will!"

Unsophisticated boy : "Mamma, papa is getting very rich isn't he ?" Mamma : "I don't know ; why, child?" Unsophisticated boy : "Cause he gives me so much money. Almost every morning, after breakfast, when Sally is sweeping the parlor, he gives me a sixpence to go out, and play." Sally received short notice to quit.

The other day, a Jew was quizzing an Irishman, and kept at him until he was somewhat aggravated, when, turning round, he tartly remarked: "Yes, dom yer sowl, if it hadn't been for the likes of yees, the Savior would a bin alive now, and doin' well."

Two Irishmen were in prison; one for stealing a cow, and the other for stealing a watch. "Hallo, Mike! and what o'clock is it?" said the cowstealer to the other. "And sure, Pat, I haven't my time-piece handy; but think it is about milking time.

"John," said a master to his head apprentice, as he was starting on a short journey, "you must occupy my place while I am absent." "Thank you, sir," demurely replied John, "but I'd rather sleep with the boys."

A raw Irishman, on his first sight of a locomotive, declared it was the devil. "No," said field was ploughed deeply last fall, and only his companion, "it's only a young steamboat foremost of its rivals in the rapid expansion of Newspaper enterprise, which the great extension of Railroads, and the establishment of the Telegraph system have crowded into these last sixteen eventful years. No larger journal is afforded at so low a price in any quarter of the world; none in America, no matter at what price issued.pays an equal amount, weekly or monthly, for intellectual labor. It employs correspondents regularly in the leading capitals of Europe, and at the most important points on this continent, with a liberal staff of writers and reporters at home, regarding full, early and accurate information as the first object of a Normann and the first and thousand ject of a Newspaper, and the timely and thorough elucidation thereof as the chief end of its Editorials. In that spirit, "The Tribune" has been and will be conducted, extending and perfecting its correspondence so fast as the increase of its pa-tronage will justify the expense. Should the current attempt to connect the Old with the New World by the magnetic wire prove successful we shall ve-ry soon, at a heavy cost to ourselves and, we trust, a corresponding advantage to our readers publish each morning a synopsis of the preceeding day's occurrences throughout Europe, Northern Africa and Western Asia, with regular reports of the markets, the monetary aspects and harvest prospects of hither Europe. With a good atlas beside him and his daily paper on his fireside table, the American farmer or artisan within a day's ride of the city may then study each evening the doings of the civilized world throughout the day preceding; and it seems hardly possible that any who can read, but especially one who has children to educate, will longer deny himself the pleasure and profit of a daily journal. The same is true mea-surably of those who live further inland; though, where mails are infrequent, a Semi-Weekly, or even a Weekly, may seem sufficient. The Tribune deals with questions of Political Economy, Public Policy, Ethies, Material Progress and whatever may affect the Intellectual, Moral, Social and Physical well being of mankind, dogmatic Theology alone excepted. Its leading idea is the honoring of honest useful Work in whatever

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE, 1857-8.

The Tribune was first issued as a Daily on the 10th of April, 1841. Its Weekly edition was commenced in September of the same y ar; its

Semi-Weekly in May, 1845. It was the first daily in America to issue a double or eight-page sheet at a low price, and it has kept at least even with the sphere or capacity, and the consequent elevation of the Laboring class in knowledge, virtue and general esteem. It is necessarily hostile to Slavery under all its aspects, to Intemperance in whatever form or degree with its accessories, to War save in the defense of Country and Liberty against actual invasion and to every form of Gambling. Desiring to see Production extended and encouraged, while wild Speculation and useless Traffic are curtailed, it favors the policy of sustaining and diversifying Home Industry by a discriminating Tariff—a policy which tends to increase the price of Grain to the farmer while diminishing that of Bread to the artisan, by reducing the distance across which their respective products are exchanged and, of course, reducing the cost of their transfor. Regarding Fillibusterism in all its phases, and every form and device of National covetous-ness, with unqualified abhorrence as the bane of Republics and in their triumph the grave of Equal Human Rights, we seek by every means to woo and win the attention of our countrymen from projects of aggrandizement abroad to enterprises of development and beneficence at home, foremost among which we rank a Railroad through the heart of our territory to connect the waters of the Atlantic with those of the Pacific. Believing that the goods of this life are not yet fairly distributed, and that no one ready to work should ever famish in unwilling idleness, it lends an open ear to every suggestion of Social improvement which does not countervail the dictates of eternal Morality nor war upon that natural right of every one to whatsoever he has fairly produced or honestly ac quired, whose denial must sink mankind into the chaos and night of barbarism and universal squalor. With a profound consciousness that idlers, drunkards, libertines and profligates can never be other (in the main) than needy and wretched, it bears aloft the great truth that Prevention is beter than Punishment-that the child trained up in the way he should go, will rarely in after years desert that way for the thorny paths of Vice and Crime—that a true Education—Religious, Moral and Industrial as well as Intellectual—is the most effective temporal antidote to the errors and woes of our race. Recognizing in the most degraded specimen of Humanity a divine spark which should e reverently cherished, not ruthlessly trodden out, we have charity for all forms of evil but those which seek personal advantage through the debasement of our fellow-beings. The champion of no class or caste, the devotee of no sect, we would The champion of fain be the interpreter to each other of men's better impulses and aspirations, the barbinger of general concord between Labor and Capital, and among those whom circumstances or misapprehensions have thrown into unnatural antagonism. A cotemporary once observed that he never knew a hard, grasping, niggardly employer who did not hate The Tribune, nor a generous, large-souled, kindly one, willing to live and let live, who did not like it. We ask no higher praise, no warmer attestation The circulation of The Tribune is at this time as follows: Daily, 32,000 copies; Weekly, 176,800 copies; Semi-Weekly, 16,000 copies; California and European, 5,000 copies; Total, 230,800 copies. That of the Semi-Weekly and Weekly we believe to be exceeded by no other newspaper published in the world; that of the Daily falls behind that of some of our cotemporaries. Had our hostility to Human Slavery and the Liquor Traffic been more guarded and politic, our Daily issues would now be some thousands heavier and our Advertising far more lucrative; but of our patronage generally we have no reason, no wish, to complain

Of late, a concerted effort has been made to diminish our rural circulation through the influence of the Pestmasters, some of whom embark in it eagerly, others under political restraint, while a large number, we are happy, for the sake Human Nature, to state, refuse to be dragoened into it at Still, we have been made to feel the heavy hand of Power, and have doubtless lost thousands of subscribers in consequence. Pretexts to which no individual in his private capacity would have stooped have been relied on to justify the stoppage of our papers within reach of their subscribers and rightful owners, and their retention in the Post-Office till their value was destroyed. Postmasters have been schooled by rival journals—several of them living on their self-proclaimed ability to serve as an antidote to The Tribune-as to their political duty to promote at our expense the dis-semmination of gazettes of adverse politics. We shall outlive this warfare, but we do difference to it. In the open field of discussion, we fear nothing; but in the tens of thousands of rural neighborhoods where the Posmaster can induce many of his quiet neighbors to take the journal he recommends we have already lost some patrons, and expect to lose more as our subscriptions for this year expire. We appeal, therefore, to the nearty, faithful, fearless advocates of Free Labor and Free Soil throughout the land to take care that this official warfare on our circulation be not prosecuted without counteraction. We employ no travelling agents, for we will not consent to have the public harrassed with the solicitations of strangers in our behalf. We strike the name of each subscriber to our Weekly and Semi-Weekly from our books as soon as his term has expired, for we will not haunt our patrons with duns for arrears which they may say they never intended to incur, for papers which perhaps they never read; we re-ly for the renewal of our subscriptions solely on the volunteered efforts of those who. liking our paper, believe its influence salutary and worthy to be extended; and thus far our reliance has been justified, as we trust it may continue to be.
