THE RAFTSMAN'S JOURNAL,

Educational Department.

MR. EDITOR :- I have the satisfaction to learn that you have opened an educational department in your valuable paper, and cannot refrain from complimenting you in this very creditable and important movement. May it be the means of infusing new life in the glorious cause of education. We live in an age of improvement, and untiring progression should be our constant watchword. True, we have a great many educational papers, journals, and periodicals; but how very few find their way to the home of the needy, especially so in rural life. Then how necessary that every opportunity should be embraced, and every means laid hold of to support the best interest of our happy people. And believing that a column in our county paper, devoted to the cause of education, will prove a great auxiliary in waking up mind, and in elevating the standard of sound education throughout Clearfield county, I therefore cheerfully give it my unqualified sanction. And now, fellow teachers and educationists, our column is open, and the field of labor before us. A glorious work is to be performed, and we are to be its performers. Delay not-"what the hand findeth to do, do it with thy whole heart." We have been battling with our antagonist (ignorance) for some time, many of us for years; but now let us go to work with increased ardor and untiring zeal, contribute freely and regularly for our new gift, our highly prized column. It is very encouraging, when we take into consideration the improvement and advancement of education within the last few years. Educational Societies, Teachers' Institutes, and Normal Schools have been formed in almost every county. Teachers are materially better qual-Ified for the arduous and responsible duties of the School-Room. Schools are in a much better condition, and many in a flourishing state. New and commodious houses have been erected in many localities, and furnished according to improved styles, with black-boards, maps, charts, and every facility for the successful operations of the teacher; desks and seats adapted to the wants of our children, so that they may sit at ease, instead of our old prison houses where their feet were forced to dangle in the air; and in some localities they are paying considerable attention to school yards, plowing them up and planting them with shrubbery and flowers, and having nice gravel or tan walks, so that the pupils may promenade to and fro, (during hours of recreation,) inouiring into, and admiring the beauties of nature in vegetation; and by this means the school is made a delightful spot for the assemblage of our aspiring youth-a place of adschools are in a very prosperous condition, and great attention paid to the cause of education. In Lancaster City they have attained quite a degree of perfection; in the public high school they study the languages, graduate, and receive diplomas-very creditable, indeed, to the public school system. Then why should we be discouraged ? True, our county is yet in her infancy, but from her great and almost endless resources we have every reason to believe that we can equal, if not surpass, any of our sister counties. Then may we arouse from our lethargy, put our hands to the work, and keep our educational ball rolling, and we must, and will succeed .--More mon-W. B. T.

The Tribune was first issued as a Daily on the 10th of April, 1841. Its Weekly edition was in America to issue a double or eight-page sheet at graph system have crowded into these last sixteen if ventful years. No larger journal is afforded at so low a price in any quarter of the world: none in America, no matter at what price issued, pays an equal amount, weekly or monthly, for intellec tual labor. It employs correspondents regularly in the leading capitals of Europe, and at the most important points on this continent, with a liberal staff of writers and reporters at home, regarding full, early and accurate information as the first object of a Newspaper, and the timely and thorough elucidation thereof as the chief end of its Edito rials. In that spirit, "The Tribune" has been and will be conducted, extending and perfecting its correspondence so fast as the increase of its patronage will justify the expense. Should the cur-rent attempt to connect the Old with the NewWorld by the magnetic wire prove successful, we shall very soon, at a heavy cost to ourselves and, we trust, a corresponding advantage to our renders publish each morning a synopsis of the preceeding day's occurrences throughout Europe. Northern Africa and Western Asia, with regular reports of the markets, the monetary aspects and harvest prospects of hither Europe. With a good atlas beside him and his daily paper on his fireside table, the American farmer or artisan within a day's ride of the city may then study each evening the doings of the civilized world throughout the day preceding; and it seems hardly possible that any who can read, but especially one who has children to educate, will longer deny himself the pleasure and profit of a daily journal. The same is true mea-surably of those who live further inland ; though, where mails are infrequent, a Semi-Weckly, or even a Weekly, may seem sufficient. The Tribune deals with questions of Political Economy, Public Policy, Ethics, Material Progress and whatever may affect the Intellectual, Moral, Social and Physical well being of mankind, dog-matic Theology alone excepted. Its leading idea is the honoring of honest useful Work in whatever sthere or capacity, and the consequent elevation of the Laboring class in knowledge, virtue and general esteem. It is necessarily hostile to Slavey under all its aspects, to Intemperance in what ever form or degree with its accessories, to War save in the defense of Country and Liberty against actual invasion, and to every form of Gambling. Desiring to see Production extended and encouraged, while wild Speculation and uscless Traffic are curtailed, it favors the policy of sustaining and diversifying Home Industry by a discriminating Tariff-a policy which tends to increase the price of Grain to the farmer while diminishing that of Bread to the artisan, by reducing the distance across which their respective products are exchanged and, of course, reducing the cost of their transfor. Regarding Fillibusterism in all its phases. and every form and device of National covetous-ness, with unqualified abhorrence as the bane of Republics and in their triumph the grave of Equal Human Rights, we seek by every means to woo and win the attention of our countrymen from projects of aggrandizement abroad to enterprises of developement and beneficence at home, foremost among which we rank a Railroad through the heart of our territory to connect the waters of the Atlantic with those of the Pacific. Believing that the goods of this life are not yet fairly distributed. and that no one ready to work should ever famish in unwilling idleness, it lends an open car to every suggestion of Social improvement which does countervail the dictates of eternal Morality nor war upon that natural right of every one to whatsoever he has fairly produced or honestly ac quired, whose denial must sink mankind into the chaos and night of barbarism and universal squal-With a profound consciousness that idlers. miration and study. In some of our south- drunkards, libertines and profligates can never be eastern counties, they are rapidly ascending other (in the main) than needy and wretched, it bears aloft the great truth that Prevention is betthe rugged steeps of the "Hill of Science," ter than Punishment-that the child trained up in the way he should go, will rarely in after years desert that way for the thorny paths of Vice and Crime-that a true Education-Religious, Moral and Industrial as well as Intellectual-is the most effective temporal antidote to the errors and woes of our race. Recognizing in the most degraded cimen of Humanity a divine spark which should be reverently cherished, not ruthlessly trodden out, we have charity for all forms of evil but those which seek personal advantage through the debasement of our fellow-beings. The champion of no class or caste, the devotec of no sect, we would fain be the interpreter to each other of men's better impuises and aspirations, the harbinger of general concord between Labor and Capital, and among those whom circumstances or misapprehensions have thrown into unnatural antage otemporary once observed that he never knew a hard, grasping, niggardly employer who did not hate The Tribune, nor a generous, large-souled, kindly one, willing to live and let live, who did not like it. We ask no higher praise, no warmer attestation The circulation of The Tribune is at this time n's follows : Daily, 32.000 copies; Weekly, 176,800 copies; Semi-Weekly, 16,600 copies; California and European, 6,000 copies: Total, 230,800 copies. That of the Semi-Weekly and Weekly we believe be exceeded by no other newspaper published the world; that of the Daily falls behind that some of our cotemporaries. Had our hostility Human Siavery and the Liquor Traffic been re guarded and politic, our Daily issues would now be some thousands heavier and our Advertising far more lucrative; but of our patronage gencrally we have no reason, no wish, to complain. Of late, a concerted effort has been made to diminish our rural circulation through the influence of the Postmasters, some of whom embark in it eagerly, others under political restraint, while a rge number, we are happy, for the sake Human Nature, to state, refuse to be dragooned into it at II Still, we have been made to feel the heavy and of Power, and have doubtless lost thousands of subscribers in consequence. Pretexts to which no individual in his private capacity would have stooped have been relied on to justify the stoppage of our papers within reach of their subscribers and owners, and their retention in the Postrightful Office till their value was destroyed. Postmasters have been schooled by rival journals-several of them living on their self-proclaimed ability to serve as an antidote to The Tribune-as to their political duty to promote at our expense the dismmination of gazettes of adverse polities. We shall outlive this warfare, but we do not affect indifference to it. In the open field of discussion we fear nothing; but in the tens of thousands of rural neighborhoods where the Posmaster can induce many of his quiet neighbors to take the jour-nal he recommends, we have already lost some patrons, and expect to lose more as our subscriptions for this year expire. We appeal, therefore, to the hearty, faithful, fearless advocates of Free Labor and Free Soil throughout the land to take care that will render it fit to appear in print. An that this official warfare on our circulation be not prosecuted without counteraction. We employ no ravelling agents, for we will not consent to have much trouble, but will tend to improve your gers in our behalf. We strike the name of each abscriber to our Weekly and Semi-Weekly from our books as soon as his term has expired, for we ill not haunt our patrons with duns for arrears which they may say they never intended to incur, for papers which perhaps they never read; we re-ly for the renewal of our subscriptions solely on the volunteered efforts of those who, liking our paper, believe its influence salutary and worthy to be extended ; and thus far our reliance has been justified, as we trust it may continue to be The Tribune is printed on a large imperial sheet, 32] by 44 inches, folded in quarto ferm, and mailed to subscribers at the following

THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE .- The Dublin University Magazine says :--- Dictionary English is something very different not only from common colloquial English, but even from that of ordinary written composition. Instead of about 40,000 words, there is probably not a single author in the language from whose works, however voluminous, so many as ten thousand words could be collected. Of the 40,000 words there are certainly many more than one-half that are only employed, if they are ever employed at all, on the rarest occasions. We should any of us be surprised to find, if we counted them, with how small a number of words we manage to express all that we have to say, either with our lips or even with the pen. Our common literary English probably hardly amounts to 10,000 words ; our common spoken English hardly to 5000.22

A WORD OF ADVICE .- We may as well from the outstart have a fair understanding with contributors to this column. Use good, black ink-write legibly, on one side of the paperbe pointed-and, above all, avoid prolixity and verbosity. If you think your production needs revision, don't send it to us, but get a friend to criticise it, and then write it out in a shape editor's time is precious, and an observance of these rules, will therefore not only save him style of writing .- ED. JOURNAL.

HALL's Journal of Health contains the following suggestive paragraph, which ought to be remembered and acted upon by every parent and guardian in the land. The writer says :

"Had I the choice of only four things to be taught my children, they should be : To sing well, to read well, to write well, and to sketch well. Perfection in these will earn their possessor a maintenance in any country, and will enable him to amuse himself or entertain a company, whether it be under a rock in the desert or upon a crag in the sea."
