With a love all kind and tender, Seeking still thy true enjoyment, I would tell thee something pleasant, Something that would teach thy spirit To be cheerful, loving, happy, Something sweet to be remembered, Something pleasant to be pondered, What may make you all forgetful Of this present world so changing, And to visions full of glory Ope the golden gates of heaven, Open to you, gazing upward, Where our ever happy home is.

What I tell you, what I whisper In your ear, so softly, sweetly, To your soul so dearly anxious, Is - (I breathe the word in silence,) Is -(I to repeat it tremble With a thrilling, joyous rapture,) "God is love !" Our Father loves us. "God is love"-O, sing the story-He is true, and he is faithful, He is pitiful, forgiving, Slow to anger, full of mercy, With long suffering compassion; Listen to it. Hear it, hear it! How it thrills the saints in glory; Angels sing it full of rapture. "God is love !" How sweet the music. How it swells in sweetest concord, Till all heaven is one vibration Of the ever swelling anthem, Swelling, swelling, londer, londer, Till each harp has joined the chorus. "God is love," is still that chorus.
"God is love." O, let the echo Still reverberate through heaven, Ever rising higher, higher,

HONORABLE CONDITIONS .- Many years ago, in what is now a flourishing city in this State, lived a stalwart blacksmith, fond of his pipe and of his joke. He was also fond of his blooming daughter, whose many graces and charms had ensuared the affections of a susceptible young printer. The couple, after a season of mutual billing and cooing, "engaged" the young lady's "parient" prevented their | where union. To obtain this, an interview was arranged, and Typo prepared a little speech to astonish and convince the old gentleman, who sat enjoying his pipe in perfect content. Typo dilated upon the fact of their long friendship, their mutual attachment, their hopes for the future, and like topics, and taking the daughter by the hand, said : "I now, sir, ask miles of the river on a good road to haul. your permission to transplant this levely flower from its parent bed"-but his "pheelinks" overcame him, he forgot the remainder of his rhetorical flourish, blushed, stammered and finally wound up with-"from its parent bed, into my own." The father keenly relished the discomfiture of the sultor, and after removing his pipe and blowing a cloud, replied : "Well young man, I don't know as I have any objections, provided you will marry the gal first."-Granile State Register.
