LET WHOSOEVER WILL, TAKE THEM IN. I met a little girl one morning, not long since, she looked up and said sweetly, "Miss H., Ma wishes you to please to write some verses for our dear little baby, his name was Harry Dorsey, and he died." How could I deny the request of the gentle child? "Our dear little baby, and he died." O, who is there so unfeeling that the warm tears will not start? And yet who is there but will think, another gem "set in the Savior's crown," another bright star in the presence of God!

I knew not that young child, Nor even her whose part it was To watch with anguish wild, To see the life-tide ebb and flow To hear the breath come feint and low, To see the death-waves come and go, On that brow young and mild;

And see the soft lips pale, And the dimming of the eye, The sinking form so frail, And the last trembling sigh. I only know that he is clay; The spirit pure has fled away, To live with God in endless day, And never die.

MYRRHA MAY.

MY CHILD.

BY ZULEIKA STUART. My baby is gone, Where? To Heaven. An Angel came and took him away. A light is from our household gone, A voice we lov'd is still'd, A place is vacant in our hearts, That never can be fill'd; A gentle heart that throbbed but now,

With tenderness and love, Has hush'd its weary throbbing here, To throb in bliss above. Yes, to the home where Angels are, His trusting soul has fled,

And yet we bend above the tomb, With tears, and call him dead; We call him dead-but, oh! weiknow He dwells where living waters flow. TERMS.
