HOW I CORTED SAL.

Well, you see after the "poker" scrape, me an Sal got along middlin' well for some time, till I made up my mind to fetch things to a bed, I loved her harder and harder every day, an' I had an idea that she had a sorter sneaking kindness for me, but how to do the thing up rite pestered me off—I got some luv book, and red how the fellers got down on their madderbones and talked like poiks, and the gals they would go into a sorter trance, and then how they would gently fall into the feller's arms, but sumhow or other, that way didn't sute my notion. I axed marm how dad corted her, but she said it had been so long that she'd forgot all about it; (Uncle Jo allers says marm dun all the cortin.) At last I made up my mind to go it blind, for this thing was fairly a consumin my inards, so I goes over to her daddy's, (that's Sal's), and when I got there I sit like a fool, thinkin how to begin. Sal sed sumthin was a troublin of me, and ses, ses she—

"Ain't you sick, Peter?"

"She sed this mity soft like."

"Yes—no," ses I; "that is, I ain't axactly well—I thought I'd cum over to-nite," ses I.

"That's a mity putty beginnin, anyhow, thinks I; so I tried again."

"Sal," ses I, and by this time I felt mity faintly an uneasy like about the squizerinetum."

"What?" ses Sal.

"Sal," ses I again.

"What?" ses she.

"I'll git to it arter a while at this lick, thinks I."

"Peter," ses she, "that's sumthin a troublin you powerful, I no; its mity rong fur you to keep it from a body, fur an innard sorrer is a consumin fire."

"She sed this, she did, the deer, sly creature—she need what was the matter all the time mity well, and was just a tryin to fish it out, but I was so fur gone, I didn't see the pint. At last I sorter gulphed down the lump as was a risin in my throate and ses, ses I—

"Sal, does you luv enny body?"

"Well," ses she, "that's dad, an marm, an a couintin on her fingers all the time, with her ise sorter sleet, like a feller a shootin of a gun an that's old Pide, (that wur an old cow uv hern,) as I can't think uv enny body else jis now," ses she.

"Now, this wur awful fur a feller ded in luv, so arter a while I tries another shunte."

"Ses I—

"Sal, I'm powerful lonesum at home, an I sometimes think of I only had a nice putty wife to luv an talk to, an to move and have my being with, I would be a tremendous feller."

"With that she begins and names over all the gals in five miles of that, and never wunt cum a nigh namin uv herself, and sed I orter git wun uv them. This sorter got my dauder up, so I hitched my cheer up close to hern, and set my ise and sed—

"Sal, you are the very gal I've been hantering arter for a long time. I love you all over, from the sole uv yere hed to the foot of your crown, an I don't keer who nose it; an ef you say so, we'll be jined on together in the holy boons uv matrimony, e plurius unum, world without end, amen," ses I; an I felt like I'd throwed up a allerger, I felt so relieved. With that she fetched a sorter screem, an arter a while ses, ses she—

"Peter."

"What, Sally?" ses I.

"Yes," ses she, a hidin uv her putty face behind her hans. You may depend on it, I felt awful good."

"Glory, glory!" ses I; "I must holler, Sal, or I'll bust wide open. Hoohah for hoory—I kin jump over a ten race fence, I kin butt a bull off the bridge, and kin do enny and everything that enny other feller ever could, would, should or orter do!"

"With that I sorter sloshed myself down bi her, and clincked the bargain with a kiss, and sich a kiss—talked about yure shugar—talk about yur merlariss—talk about yur blackberry jam—yer could not get me to cum a nigh, they wud all a tasted sour arter that."

"O, these wimmen, how good and how bad, how high and how low they make a feller feel; or Sal's daddy hadn't a hollered out it was time fur all 'onest folks to be in bed, I do believe I'd a staid there all night."

"You orter a seed me when I got luv. I pulled dad outer bed and I hugged him. I pulled marm outer bed an' I hugged her. I pulled an' Jane outer bed an' I hugged her. I roared, sorel, lafed an' hollered; I crode like a rooster; I danced about an' cut up more capers than you ever hearn tell on, till dad that I was crazy, an got a rope to tie me with."

"Dad," ses I, "I'm a gwine to be married!"

"Married!" bawled dad.

"Married!" squeaked marm.

"Married!" squeaked an' Jane.

"Yes, married," ses I; "married all over; married to be shure; married like a flash; jined in wedlock; hooked on fur wusser or fur better, fur life and fur death to Sal, I am that very thing; me, Peter Sporum, Esquire."

"With that I ups and tells 'em all about it, from Alpher to Omeget. They was all mity pleased, and mity willin, and I went to bed as proud as a young rooster with his first spurs. O, Jehosafat! but didn't I feel good, an' kept a gittin that way all nite. I didn't sleep a wink, but kept a rollin' about an a thinkin, till I felt my cup uv happiness full, pressed an packed down, and a runnin over."

"FROZEN TO DEATH.—Rum has its victims every day—causing misery and death in a thousand ways. On the morning of the 8th inst., the ore diggers at Blacklick Furnace, Cambria county, discovered a man named John Cannon, lying in a thicket, frozen to death. He was about thirty years of age, and has a son, aged about ten years, residing with an uncle in Pittsburgh. He had been at Armagh the previous day, where he bought a can of whiskey. This tells the whole story."

"This folly to fret; grief is no comfort."

"A woman's work is never at an end."
