FOR ASSEMBLY,

ELLIS IRWIN, of Goshen Township.

DO YOUR DUTY!

Next Tuesday is the day of election. Let every friend of Freedom and Protection do his duty. Let him not only attend the election himself, but see to it that every voter on our side is there also. Vote full hands, from Governor to Auditor. Don't neglect a single man on the ticket. Vote for Curtin for Governor, Patton for Congress, Gordon and Lawrence for Assembly, Murray for Commissioner, and Irwin for Auditor. They are all good men and true, and, if elected, will represent you faithfully.

TURN OUT! TURN OUT!!

Friends of Curtin, Patton, Gordon, Lawrence, Murray, and Irwin! The Democrats are busy day and night rallying their forces for next Tuesday. They are leaving nothing undone to defeat our candidates. Slanderous reports and the most outrageous lies are being circulated against them in every direction. The campaign is conducted by the Democratic politicians on the principle that "everything is fair in politics," hoping that, in some way or snother, they may defeat Curtin at least, and thereby give us some trouble to carry Pennsylvania for Lincoln and Hamlin in November. Their game wont work, however. In every section of the State our friends are laboring zealously. Immense meetings are held in rapid succession, the most intense enthusiasm prevails, and all feel the flush of certain victory. Let us, then, here in Clearfield, be up and doing. Let us not fall behind our neighbors. Let us turn out in our strength and our might, and assist in wresting the government from the hands of the spoilsmen, who have run our country to the brink of ruin. If we succeed, brighter days will soon follows

AN INFAMOUS CHEAT!

Honesty and fair-dealing seems to be no IMMENSE GATHERING IN CLEARFILD. part of the tactics of some Democratic editors. Of late they have been guilty of one of the most infamous perversions ever perpetrated in this country. This cheat the last Clearfield Republican contains. It consists in copying a portion of a paragraph from a speech made by Carl Shurz, delivered at Springfield, Massachusetts, on the 4th of January, 1860, and in its mutilated condition, represents him as saying the very opposite of what he did really utter. Mr. Shurz had quoted from a speech of Mr. Douglas, and was showing the inevitable conclusions to be drawn from the "Little Giant's" language. He was arguing the con-James M. Wharton, pros. Verdict, guilty. struction Mr. Douglas put on the Declaration Sentenced to pay fine of $1, costs of prosecu- of Independence, and the scope of that imof Independence, and the scope of that immortal document, and contended that if Mr. Douglas's was the correct interpretation, then tery upon Miles S. Spencer. Plead guilty, the Declaration would be so and so, which Mr. Shurs put in the following words :-

> There is your Declaration of Independence, diplomatic dodge, adopted merely for the ourpose of excusing the rebellious colonies in the eyes of civilized mankind. There is your Declaration of Independance, no longer the sacred code of the rights of man, but an hypocritical piece of special pleading, drawn up by a batch of artful pettifoggers, who, when speaking of the rights of man, meant but the privileges of a set of aristocratic slaveholders, but styled it "the rights of man," in order to throw dust into the eyes of the world, and to inveigle noble-hearted fools into lending them aid and assistance. [Applause.] These are your boasted Revolutionary sires, no longer heroes and sages, but accomplished humbuggers and hypocrites, who said one thing and meant another; who passed counterfeit sentiments as genuine, and obtained money, arms and assistance, and sympathy on false pretences! There is your great American Revolution, no longer the great champion of universal principles, but a mean Yankee trick-| bursts of applause and laughter]—a wooden nutmeg—[renewed cheers]—the most impudent imposition ever practiced upon the whole world ! [Applause.]

> This is what these fair-dealing (?) Democratic editors quote. Here however, they stop-they do not give the balance of the pargraph, which is as follows :-

This is the way Mr. Douglas wants you to read and understand the proudest pages of American History! That is the kind of history with which he finds it necessary to prop his mongrel doctrine of popular sovereignty! That is what he calls vindicating the character and the motives and the conduct of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Thus he did not blush to slander Jefferson, who, when speaking of his country, meant the world, and when speaking of his fellow-citizens, meant mankind; and Franklin, in whose clear head theory and practice were the same, and who, having declared "all men to be born free and became the first President of the first great Abolition Society; and John Adams, the representative of that State which abolishstroke of legislation; and Washington, who declared it "his fondest wish to see slavery abolished by law," and affixed to the Declaration of Independence the broad signature of his heroic sword; and Madison, who deemed it "absurd to admit the idea of property in man;" and of the framers of the Coustitution, who took care not to disgrace that instrument with the word "slavery," and, before adopting it finally, blotted out from the extradition clause the word "servitude," avowedly because it signified the condition of a slave, and substituted the word "service," avowedly because it signified the condition of a freeman. Thus Mr. Douglas dares to speak of all those true men, who, after having proclaimed their principles in the Declaration endeavored to introduce them into practical life in almost every State, in the way of gradual emancipation! That they have failed in this, is it a fault of theirs It shows not that they were less great and sincere, but that subsequent generations were hardly worthy of so noble an ancestry ? [Applause.] There is Mr. Douglas's version of your history. He despairs of converting you without slandering your fathers. His present doctrines cannot thrive unless planted in a calumny on the past. He vindicate the signers of the Declaration of Independence! Indeed, they need it sadly. I see the illustrious committee of five rise from their graves, at their head Thomas Jefferson, his lips curled with the smile of contempt, and I hear him say to Mr. Douglas; "Sir, you may abuse us as much as you please, but have the goodness to spare us with your vindications of our char-to Cutting off, as the Locofoco editors have done, the latter portion of Mr. Shurz's remarksb it puts a very ugly sentiment into his mouth instead of placing it where it belongs, to the account of Mr. Douglas. Will the editor of the Republican have the honesty to correct the wrong he has done to Mr. Shurz, or will hen be a party to this infamous perversion of his language? Will he have the manliness to give the whole of what Mr. Shurz said in regard to the Declaration of Independence, and et the readers of the Republican judge for themselves of their force? Come, George, let us hear from you on this subject. THE PEOPLE IN MOTION.

Last Wednesday evening was a proud one for the friends of Freedom and Protection in this region. After but one week's notice, the largest political meeting that ever convened in Clearfield, was held at that time by the friends of Lincoln, Hamlin, Curtin, Patton, and the rest of the Republican ticket. A procession, numbering from 70 to 80 wagons and buggies, and some horsemen, headed by the Curwensville Wide-Awakes, under the control of James E. Watson, as chief Marshal, and M. A. Frank, R. V. Spackman and D. G. Nivling as Assistants, marched through our streets, and finally halted in front of a stand erected on Second street, where the meeting was organized by the selection of the follow-

Brown made a speech of 24 hours in length, reviewing the position of the two great parties on the Slavery Question, the Tariff, and the Homestead Bill. We cannot pretend to give even a synopsis of the speeches. Suffice it to say that they were clear, pointed and convincing, highly creditable to the speakers, and were received with shouts and other evidences of enthusiasm by the immense throng which surrounded the speakers stand. At a late hour the meeting adjourned. Before they left town, the Wide Awakes serenaded Mr. Gordon, Col. Brown and J. B. McEnally, Esq. who each made neat and appropriate responses

A NEW EXPOUNDER.

Mr. Henry D. Foster is before the People of the State in the new character of a Constitutional expounder. He enlightened us recently, says the Phil'a North American, as to the exact time when the Constitution was adopted, and furnished some other and equally valuable and refreshing instruction. He was also greatly exercised about the Republicans and their dreadful doctrines. Take the following as an

"The Republicans demand that Congress shall prohibit the institution of slavery in all territories of the Union. Where does Congress derive any such authority from? What part of the Constitution gives Congress the power to legislate upon both sides? If they can say slavery shall-not go into a certain territory, they can say it may go there. I say that Congress has no right to interfere with the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all. There is no such power in the matter at all the matter at Congress," &c. "This is a question, not political, but judicial."

These declarations are plain and positive, like some others made upon the same occasion, and with just as little regard for the records of Congress. Mr. Foster says Congress has no power at all over the matter. Let us see what be did, not what he said. On the 28th of January, 1845, Mr. Brown of Tenn., moved his resolution providing that that portion of Texas lying south of 36 shall be admitted with or without slavery, as the present Deputy Secretary of State under the people of the States to be formed out of it might desire.

Mr. Douglas asked him to accept the following modification after the last clause :

"And in such States as shall be formed out of said territory, north of said Missouri Compromise line, slavery, or involuntary servitude, except for crime, shall be prohibited."

It was accepted, and, on the division, the name of "Foster of Pennsylvania," appears in the affirmative. He thus affirmed the power of Congress emphatically, and so far even as to obligate new States in the future by the restriction. More than this, he, with Mr. Douglas, affirmed the constitutionality of the Missouri Compromise which was thus re-enacted, though Mr. Douglas moved the repeal in 1854, and was sustained by Mr. Foster.

Again, on the 8th of February, 1847, Mr. Wilmot moved the following amendment to the three million bill, popularly known as the Wilmot Proviso":

"And be it further enacted, that there shall Mrs. Judge Leonard, be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in any territory on the continent of America which shall hereafter be acquired by or annex ed to the U. States, except for crimes whereof the party shall have been duly convicted." Rev. Coady,

This resolution proposed to exclude slavery for all time, from all territory to be acquired or annexed on this continent, and among the votes in favor of it is "Foster of Pennsylvania." He was not only willing to bind himself, Merrell, James L Morgan, J. B. Walts but posterity, to the identical principle which he now attacks for a present purpose. He denounced Mr. Seward as a radical, and yet voted for a proposition which went far beyond any movement which Mr. Seward ever made. As Mr. Foster was apparently anxious to know where Congress derived the power to prohibit slavery in the territories that may be acquired. we have thought it most convenient, for his understanding, to furnish the answer from his own record. He may plead the statue of limitations, but can hardly repudiate the journa' and his votes. He was among the "agitators" who began the crusade with Mr. Wilmot, whon he now complacently assails, forgetting tha every word of such censure is a stinging re buke to himself, and an evidence of his dou ble-dealing on this question.

HENRY D. FOSTER.

WHAT DEMOCRATS SAID OF HIM IN 1857. The memorable contest for Senator of the United States in the Legislature of this State in the year 1857, must still be fresh in the minds of the people of this country as the actions of their immediate representative in that matter were very much commented upon at the time. It will be remembered that Gen Foster and Col. John W. Forney were the Democratic candidates for the U.S. Senate. Forney received the caucus nomination and Foster and seven followers refused to give him their support, and if we mistake not absented themselves from the regular party caucus altogether. When the two houses met in Convention to elect, Foster's seven followers five majority on joint ballot, Gen. Cameron the nominee of the Republican caucus was elected upon the first ballot by a majority of one. Three personal friends of Gen. Cameron upon the Democratic side cast their votes for him, thus securing his election. The Democratic press throughout the State were as bitter in their denunciations of Foster as they were of the three men who voted directly for Cameron. The editor and proprietor
