

THE JOURNAL.

CLEARFIELD, PA., FEBRUARY 13, 1861.

Religious Notice.—Rev. Mr. Runyan will preach in the Baptist church in Clearfield Borough on Thursday evening, 21st Feb., at 7 o'clock. The public are invited to attend.

New Post Office.—A new post office has been established in Beccaria township, this county, named "Madra," and Charles J. Pusey appointed post master. It is supplied from Smith's Mills office.

Accident.—On last Wednesday, Feb. 6th, a young man named Draucker, son of Mrs. Draucker of Bloom township, had one of his fingers blown off and his face badly burned with powder. He attempted to blow to pieces a log intended for fire-wood, by putting the powder into an auger hole; but having carelessly put a hot coal into the hole first, when he went to charge it, a premature explosion ensued, injuring him as above stated.

Godley's Lady's Book.—The March number of this valuable work has reached us. It contains a fine Steel engraving, "Christ Blessing Little Children"; a double extension Fashion plate, colored, containing six figures; a whole sheet of Spring Dresses and Spring Bonnets, beside a large number of patterns, etc. This number is one of the most beautiful ever issued; and as Godley's is the original Lady's Magazine of this country, it deserves a liberal support from our fair friends—in fact, no lady can well do without it, and should subscribe for it without delay. Price, single copies, $3; two copies, 1 year, $5; or one copy of Magazine and "Raftman's Journal," 1 year, $3 50, payable invariably in advance.

P. S. The February number has not reached us, and consequently could not notice it. Will friend Godley please forward it?

A Man Badly Frosted.—A man named Wise, a relative of the Wise family in St. Mary's, came near freezing to death on last Thursday afternoon, February 7th, on the road leading from this place to the Sinnemahoning. He was on his way to St. Mary's, and took the old road, which is not now used over the "Barrens." After having waded through the snow for several miles, he found he would not be able to proceed much further, and therefore retraced his steps, and reached the house of Mr. John Shaw, Jr., about 5 o'clock, his hands and feet frozen frightfully by the intense cold which prevailed at the time. The skin on both feet and one hand was raised in large blisters, and underneath a thick pulp had accumulated. Mr. Shaw did all he could to relieve the unfortunate man, and next morning removed him, at his own request, to A. L. Ogden's tavern, a mile beyond town, where he expected to take the stage to St. Mary's the following day.

Secession of Karthaus.—Our brethren of Karthaus township, it would seem, are making a determined effort to "secede" from Clearfield county, with a view of joining the new "confederacy" of Cameron, which was last winter formed out of parts of Elk, McKean, Potter and Clinton counties. We understand that a proposition to this effect is now before the Legislature, and will be strongly urged by the friends of the movement. It is said they have offered an ultimatum, to the effect that they will remain in the Union in consideration that a bridge be built at the public expense over Mosquito creek. We are not prepared to say what course will be pursued by the balance of the county in regard to this proposed "secession," but it is fair to presume that "secession" will not be resorted to, unless our Karthaus friends should imitate the example of Mississippi and plant a battery at Mosquito creek for the purpose of impeding the free navigation of the Susquehanna, a right that will not be surrendered without a struggle.

A Former Citizen of Clearfield Killed by Wisconsin.—By a letter written to James B. Graham, Esq., of our town, we learn that Miles H. Murray, formerly a resident of this county, was killed between the 11th and 18th of January by the falling of a hemlock tree in the woods. It seems he had gone, with two other men, into the woods about 42 miles north-west of Neillville, Clark county, Wisconsin, on a trapping expedition. On Friday the 11th they separated, each going out on camp at different lines of traps, with the understanding that they should meet at a certain section, corner and camp on Saturday night following and then all come home together. Murray failing to meet his companions at the time agreed upon, they concluded he had gone to one of the logging camps, distant about 14 miles in a south-westerly direction, and that he would proceed home from there. They returned without making any search, but discovered his tracks about 3 miles from where they were to stay on Saturday night, leading off in the direction of the logging camps. On reaching home, his companions found he was still absent, and immediately a party went in search of him, fearing something might have happened him, and found him on Friday night, the 17th. It seems he had camped for the night, and built a fire against two trees—a birch and a hemlock—which burned off during the night and fell upon him, probably killing him instantly. He was wrapped up in two blankets, and from appearances was fast asleep when the accident happened. He was lying on his side, and the hemlock had fallen upon his right shoulder, crushing him together, and it is thought he died without a pang. His body was brought to Neillville and interred on the 19th. Mr. Murray was highly respected by the community amongst whom he resided, had held several official posts, and was at the time of his death Sheriff of the county. He was honest and upright, and leaves a wife and six children with little to support them. His beloved family are anxious to return to Clearfield, with the hope of getting along better here than where they are at present.

New Drug Store.—By an advertisement in another column it will be seen that Messrs. Wood and Barrett have started a new Drug and Prescription store in our town, and that they offer articles in their line of business at reduced prices.

The River, Timber, &c.—The moderate state of the weather during the last few days caused the snow to melt rapidly, raised the water in the streams, and yesterday there was a partial break-up of the ice on the River. The warm sunshine of to-day will in all probability remove the ice out of the dams. Quite a number of timber sticks went afloat above this place, and drifted down the stream. It is now about twelve weeks since the snow fell in sufficient quantities to make good hauling and sledding, which has continued thus ever since, and the bulk of square timber, boards, and other lumber is now on the banks of the River and tributaries. The quantity is about equal to that of last season. We have heard of several rafts changing hands at very good prices.

A CARD.—The undersigned has abundant reason to feel grateful to the citizens of Clearfield and vicinity for the extraordinary exertions made to save his family and property, during the recent burning of his dwelling house, and adopts this as the most appropriate manner of returning to them, one and all, his sincere and heartfelt thanks. It was a consolation to me, to feel that my absence would be compensated for, by the kind friends that would surround my family in such an hour; and pleasant now to know that my hopes were fully realized. To many who periled their health, and in some instances their lives, an especial offer of kind remembrance is made. Towards those who generously tendered to my houseless family the comforts of their homes, my heart will ever beat with gratitude. All was done that could have been done, and much more than was reasonable to expect. The generous and self-sacrificing conduct of the people, only serves to strengthen the bond of friendship which has so long united myself and family to our old friends and neighbors. Hoping that those who are suffering from exposure during that night may speedily be restored to health, and that all may enjoy every real blessing through life, I am the public's much obliged friend. Clearfield, Feb. 8, 1861. G. R. BARRETT.

Repeal of the Tonnage Tax.—An effort is being made to have the Legislature repeal the 3-mill tax which is imposed on the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for every ton of freight carried over their road. The bill, contemplating the repeal of this tax, contains four prominent features, viz:— 1st. The company shall loan to certain lateral or connecting roads, pro rata, as to their length, the amount of tax that has accrued since the first day of August, 1858, in exchange for Bonds, and thus aid in their completion. The Tyrone & Clearfield, and the Philadelphia & Waterford roads, are among those named. 2d. The Company shall pay taxes to the State on all their property and franchises in such manner as may be required by any other railroad company, by any general law now in force or that may hereafter be enforced by the Legislature. 3d. The Company shall make a Reduction in their Rates of Transportation of all the Local Freight passing over the road equivalent to the amount of tax now chargeable thereon—and the local rates not to exceed the through rates for the same distance from the point of shipment, in the same direction. 4th. The Company shall increase the payment on account of the Main Line purchase $400,000.00 per annum—say $200,000.00 every six months—until the entire price and interest thereon is paid, which sums, when paid, shall be applicable to the redemption of the State debt and to other purposes.

The Great Robbery.—On the day Mr. Benjamin retired from the Senate, he appeared before the Investigating Committee, and testified that he called upon Mr. Floyd about a year ago, to inquire concerning the security of a considerable amount of acceptances held by one of his clients. Mr. Floyd assured him that they would be paid, and explained the mode in which they were issued, as advances upon transportation in process of execution under contract. Mr. Benjamin cautioned him against that course, as involving hazards which might embarrass him officially. He professed surprise at the suggestion, and afterward addressed him a note expressing acknowledgment for it, and saying he would give no more acceptances. After that time he issued $4,000,000, and it appears in proof, that quite $4,000,000 above all the services yet rendered, and all the possibilities under the contract, allowing Russell, Majors and Waddell the largest margin of transportation up to the time of its termination, have been issued, not one cent of which will ever be paid. This enormous sum was put out illegally, and sold for what it would bring in market, while the proceeds were probably divided among an organized band of plunderers, who are concealed by perjury. The evidence points to them clearly, though perhaps insufficient to obtain conviction under criminal law.

Honest Talk.—In the subjoined expressions of regret at the decree of the Georgia Convention in pronouncing a formal severance of the bond which unites that State with her sisters under the Federal Constitution, we have the evidence of a sentiment which we are assured would be confessed by a majority of the Georgia people if only the question of Union or Disunion could be distinctly and directly brought before them. We quote from the Lancet (Geo.), Reporter of the 25th January: "The deed is done! Our rights are—not secured! We have been slyed and dreamed—and voted out of the Union. We still love the Union. We love our old Government, because it was established by the strong arms and the blood of as true men as the world ever saw. We never did have any way to make on the Government, but always regarded it as a priceless inheritance bequeathed to us by our Revolutionary fathers, and we have adored the Union of the States because that Union was formed and cemented by their blood. We have given them up and have now left the sacred chambers of our fathers. The action of Georgia may be right, and it may be wrong."

Good News from Kentucky.—There is little chance for disunion in Kentucky. Mr. Breckinridge and his party are terrified at the intelligence that the people of their State will never surrender to the Secessionists. A gentleman who has just arrived from Lexington says he found a perfect delirium for the Union. Even the travelers on horseback had Union flags wrapped around their whip-handles, while at nearly every cross-road the banner of the stars and stripes was floating in the breeze.

LETTER FROM ARKANSAS.

POCAHONTAS, ARKANSAS, Feb. 4, 1861. Mr. S. B. Row.—Dear Sir: I take the liberty of addressing you knowing you will forgive the boldness, when you are aware that I am a native of Clearfield, and besides, I considered that you would like to know something of the under-current of political affairs, in this region. Well, I will be brief. The northern tier of counties, viz: the counties ranging from the Mississippi to the Indian Territory, are settled principally by immigrants from the northern States, and are strongly conservative, while through other parts of the State the secession feeling rages to an extent truly alarming.

A convention has been called to meet on the 3d of March, and if our national affairs do not satisfactorily adjusted prior to that time, I doubt not but Arkansas will pass the ordinance of Secession. The canvas for delegates is now being commenced, and in this section it bids fair to be the most hostile and bitter canvass ever held. We know but three parties in the State, they are the immediate Secessionists, the conservative Secessionists, and the Unionists. I am sorry to record it, but it appears that the Unionists are the weakest. It will be doubtful if we get more than three straight Union men elected. It is supposed that the immediate secessionists will have a majority over all, and if that is the case, compromise or no compromise, they pass the Secession ordinance.

There is a strong under-current in favor of the Union, but they have not the stamina to oppose the leaders of the secession movement, who are ranting night and day, in season and out of it, about Southern wrongs, and Northern aggressions. It is poured in upon us by our Senators and Representatives, the press takes up the cry and spread it broad-cast over the land—it is our conversation almost exclusively—at our public meetings, on the street, and at our firesides, this awful tale is resounded in our ears. There is it any wonder that the Southern States would secede? It is cheering, however, to know that the great State of Missouri still keeps step to the music of the Union. May she always do so. And it is doubly cheering to all Pennsylvanians to know that the old "Keystone," the land of Penn and Franklin, is ready now, as she always has been, to maintain the supremacy of the Constitution, "at any price."

Another State Gone.—The Texas Convention passed the ordinance of secession on the 1st inst., by a vote of 166 yeas to 17 nays. The ordinance is to be voted for on the 23d Feb., and if adopted will go into effect on the 2d of March next. This makes the seventh State in open rebellion. The several ordinances of secession were passed as follows: S. Carolina, Dec. 20 Georgia, Jan. 18 Mississippi, Jan. 9 Louisiana, Jan. 26 Florida, Jan. 10 Texas, Feb. 1 Alabama, Jan. 11

The Plot.—The plot to capture the Capitol, which has led to the warlike attitude and preparations of Gen. Scott, was disclosed to Senator Douglas by one of the conspirators. Judge Douglas instantly denounced the plot as treasonable, and told his informant that, unless he revealed it to the War Department, he himself would. The informant resolved to do so, and subsequently disclosed the project to Gen. Scott, who immediately took the precautionary measures of ordering to the city the additional force of four companies of artillery.

Relief Notes.—By a statement appended to the Auditor General's Annual Report, we glean a few interesting items relative to the "Relief Notes" authorized by the act of 1841. The original amount of these notes was $2,243,015. Of the amount originally issued $2,199,044 have been redeemed, leaving still outstanding $13,971 of old issues and $58,865 of re-issues.

Captain Titon, of Maryland, attached to the Navy, and a member of the Light House Board, was killed at Washington City on the 8th, by blowing his brains out with a pistol. He had for some time past been much depressed owing to the political state of the country.

Judge Black, at present Secretary of State, has been nominated by the President as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, in the place of Judge Daniel, deceased.

Information has been received at Washington that the U. S. steamer Brooklyn is at Pensacola, with the Macedonian and Wyandotte. All is quiet there.

One reason why the world is not reformed, is, because every man is bent on reforming others and never thinks of reforming himself.

The Senate of Alabama has passed a bill requiring all free negroes to leave the State by the 1st of Jan., 1862, or be sold into slavery.

A young lady shouldn't be unhappy because she isn't quite as tall as she would like to be. It is a very easy thing to get "spliced."

A designing character—an architect.

The closing years of life are often rendered wretched by ailments which are trifling in themselves and easily cured if taken in time. Affection of the liver, stomach, and other organs concerned in digestion, are the most frequent. They naturally make the whole physical organization, complaining, and relatives and friends are forced to bear the brunt of their ill-humor. The use of Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters will prove an efficient remedy of this evil. It will not only strengthen the whole physical organization, but entirely cure the most obstinate cases of Indigestion, Diarrhea, Dysentery, and Liver complaint. The first physicians in the country are loud in their praise of this preparation. Another recommendation of the Bitters is that it is so palatable to the taste that it may be used even as a beverage. Sold by druggists everywhere.

KEEP UP THE EXCITEMENT.—Re-movals always cause excitement, and since the great excitement about the removal of the Court House has subsided, the community generally have become somewhat excited upon hearing that Charly Watson has determined to pull up stakes and remove to Virginia. But the latest news is that he is not to do so. I have removed my Saddle Shop from my old stand opposite the Court House to my new shop on Market street, nearly opposite the jail, where all who may favor me with a call can be supplied with Saddles, Single Harness, Double Harness, Tag Harness, Bridle Collars, Whips, Helms, Honeys, Breastbands, Side Straps, and in fact every article in the line of Saddling and Harness making. Thankful for the very liberal patronage heretofore bestowed I solicit a continuance of the same and a call from any of our customers as soon as they can. Aug. '59. GEORGE W. RHEEM.
