THE CONSTITUTION

An appeal to the passions of mankind is'a more ready way to incite a community to action, than a resort to reason. When passion is inflamed, like an infectious disease, the circle widens and widens until all who are within its influence become feverish, and for the while reason loses its sway. Such appeals though the most efficient are the most dangerous, for | lions along with her. man blinded by passion may destroy his only substantial good, or in fleeing from anticipated ill rush upon evils ten times more terrible. These thoughts force themselves upon us when we review our history, particularly that of the provoke a collision with the South. Mr. last few months. The prosperity or adversity of any individual has a greater or less effect on the whole community. The success of the many is the object to be attained, and its attainment proves beyond cavil that the government has performed its mission. The sun has never shone upon a freer, happier or more prosperous people than we have been, and if we are but wise and study and practice the teachings of those | tables from Charleston than will last from one | the Government of my country, while in its who conceived and projected our glorious market day to another. When a flushed and victorious majority seeks to override the few and trample their rights in the dust, the minority can fly to the partment, but, like letters which have been Constitution, invoke its protection and it will palsy the arm of a majority intent on wrong. Our fathers displayed foresight in providing a' means of changing the organic law of the land by amendments to the Constitution and thus removing all reasons for revolution. Their wisdom is apparent by the checks which prevent amendments in time of intense excitement. They believed the sober second thought | tion, and while a large majority of the troops of the people would correct the dangerous positions assumed by men during popular commotions. Let us, like them, view men who pander to the prejudices of a community as enemies of themselves and of the people. If our Constitution does not suit the exigencies of the times let us divest ourselves of passion, and as reasonable, thinking men, with an eye single to the good of our whole people, take the proper steps and make such amendments as are necessary and then trust to Providence for the future.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

-Joseph Holt, who is more cordially and justly hated and despised than any man in the Cabinet, has refused to receive a box sent to him from South Carolina. The box when opened at the Adams Express Company's office, was found to contain "most beautifulflow- Holt shows that the President knew all about No one dared to disturb these flowers, for fear of an explosion of some subtle poison. Holt does not deserve the honor of assassination. But he is a marked man. If ever he ventures within the confines of the Confederate States, he will never return to practice coercion again. The breed of such traitors cannot be perpetuated among us.

REBELLION IN ARIZONA .--- In the southern portion of the Territory of New Mexico, known as Arizona, for which we paid ten million dollars in hard cash, the secession rebellion is in full blast. Certain United States officials there are busy stirring up rebellion against the General Government, and proposing secession for the purpose of uniting with the new Southern Confederacy. If the General Government cannot prevent the secession of States, it certainly has the power to enforce the laws in and mantain its authority over a Territory ; and these citizens of New Mexico are furnishing a strong argument against the admission of that Territory as a State, to be followed by her immediate secession, taking our ten mil-

SENATE DISCUSSION .- A discussion occurred on the 6th in the Senate on the printing of the Inaugural, which elicited some expressions that are worth of note. Mr. Clingman denonnecs it as a war document, intended to Douglas came to the rescue, and defended the President's position with much effect, contending that the Message was far more concilintory than he expected, and evinced a friendthe duty which Mr. Lincoln was solemnly pledged to discharge, and in collecting the revenue he could not discriminate in favor of one port over another by an omission to obey tained, since the antidote now offered cannot the law without forswearing himself.

Of course they are not recognized by the Deaccidently forwarded without prepayment, are charged with the usual postage before delivery. The office at Pensacola continues closed, and several others will be in the same category before long. The time has come when the mails must be cut off if they are abused. FEELING ABOUT THE TREASON OF TWIGGS .-Letters received on, March Sth, from a prominent army officer at San Antonio, state that the conduct of Twiggs excited great indignawere in favor of the South as they understood the causes of difference, they were opposed to the disruption of the Union, or the disbandment of the forces. It is now certain that in addition to his crime of treason, Twiggs basely there was no time to lose. Congress should be deceived all the important officers around him. WIGFALL DESPAIRS OF SECESSION .- Since the appointment of Reagan of Texas as Postmaster-General of the Seceders, Mr. Wigfall begins to despair of the Confederate States. He considered them a close corporation, in which the leaders looked out sharply for number one. As Davis has shown this want of appreciation he is half inclined to secede again. He cannot be stationary. FROM THE SOUTH .- The Southern Congress has passed an Army bill which has been for some time under discussion, and it is expectcity by Mr. Lincoln's inaugural address, says : | ed that the Confederacy will soon have 50,000 men in the field. As that number of troops in active service will cost at least fifty millions of dollars per annum, the Confederacy will find the question of revenue an exceedingly serious one. VIRGINIA .- Hon Wm. C. Rives addressed a large meeting on the night of the 8th, on the subject of the Peace Conference propositions. His remarks looked to the conciliation of the horder States and the eventual reconstruction of the Union. He denonnces the secession movement in strong terms. His speech excited much enthusiasm among the audience. ## SECRETABIES HOLT AND THOMPSON

AFTER EX-SECRETARY HOLT. - The Charles-ton Mercury walks into Mr. Holt, late Secre-tary of War under Mr. Buchanan, as follows: Ex-Secretary Thompson's recent boast that it was through his revelation of Cabinet se-crets that the Star of the West was prevented ordering Charleston, has brought out Secrecrets that the Star of the West was prevented entering Charleston, has brought out Secretary Holt in a letter of reply, in which he execrates that derelict functionary as he deserves. Thopmson pretended that the sending of reinforcemont was a concealed "trick," but it, as it had been discussed in Cabinet Council. He says, it is true that, in the hope of avoiding a waste of human life, an endeavor was made to "conceal" the expedition from the hostile troops in charge of the forts and batteries in Charleston harbor; but this endeavor the vigilance and zeal of Secretary Thompson defeated. Secretary Holt says :

"This step not merely endangered the highest public interests, but put in imminent jeopardy the lives of two hundred and fifty innocent | advices his body had not been recovered. . . . men, who had never wronged the Hon. Sectary, and who in proceeding to Charleston harbor, were simply obeying the lawful command of their superior officers. The armed enemies of the Government he was serving. under the solemn sanctions of an oath, were, as he declares, "thus put upon their guard, and the frail vessel that was bearing succor to its friends sreceived a warm welcome from booming cannon.' It could not be less than offensive to the heart and to the intelligence of the American people to comment gravely on this humiliating transaction. Its true character has already been determined by the public voice, and that voice, will doubtless find its echo in the judgment of history. It is well known that a persistent falsification of the policy and conduct of the late Administration, in its relations to the South, has proved a potent instrumentality for inflaming the popular mind of that distracted portion of the country, and thus giving an ever-increasing impetus to the revolution; and the fact, that the telegraph and the press have been under the absolute direction of those controlling this movement, has rendered resistance to this instrumentality impracticable. Whatever pur poses, therefore, were expected to be ac complished by the circulation of the paragraph which has been exposed, will probably be at possibly pursue the poison into its ramifications. If however, this explanation shall sedemnation of men who, for the last two months, have denounced me throughout the South,

WIGFALL, the inevitable Wigfall, gravely informed the Senate on the 7th inst, that inasmuch as the views of Mr. Douglas on the President's inaugural had been given to the country, it was but right that the country should also have the bencht of Wigfall's opinion on the same subject, which he then proceeded to give in his peculiar style. The Union he said Jared Lewis. The trial will probably take up was dead-must be buried, and the only ques- the time of the court at the May term. tion was whether it should have a decent Protestant funeral, or an Irish wake. The Government might take its choice-the South would bury the Union in any way that was desired. If the President did not remove the troops from Forts Sumter and Pickens they would soon be removed for him. The seceded States will never come back. They will never consent to live under such a Government as that of the United States. The United States could have war or peace just as fney pleased. "No compromise or amendment to the Constitution, no arrangement you may enter into will satisfy the South, unless you recognize slaves as property, and protect it as any other species of property." Mr. Douglas replied, reasserting his opinion expressed the day before that the inaugural was pacific in its tone, and that Mr. Lincoln meant peace and not war. He thought, however, that events were rapidly drawing to a crisis, and that the Federal Government could not long retain Sumter and Pickens. There was a time, he said, when Fort Sumter could have been re-enforced. He believed it could not be re-enforced now without the use of at least 10,000 men by land and sea. There were but four men to serve each gun, and they would soon be exhausted. and beside they had not bread and salt enough to last for thirty days. If war was to come, in session, and 200,000 men in the field. These suggestions of Mr. Douglas are obviously of great importance. The general tone of the South indicates a determination to force the United States into a war. THE KING OF DAHOMEY AT HIS OLD WORK-6,000 HUMAN BEINGS SACRIFICED .- Another of | 8 and 11 o'clock in the night, I could not rethose horrible massacres, which are a disgrace to humanity, has recently taken place at Dahomey. The West African Herald publishes the statements from eye-witnesses of the barbaric "custom" just perpetrated at Dahomev. From this fearful narrative we learn that the recent "grand custom" of Badahung, King of Dahomey, was one of the most revolting which had ever taken place. Several persons agree in stating that the number of persons slain on Then he swore he would break my neck, and that occasion was estimated at 2,000, but another correspondent gives the number at 7. 600. He says he was present by compulsion; and that the blood swept past him like a flood into a large reservoir. Another gentleman, referring to these inhuman butcheries, says: "I assure you that it made me quite sick, and at the same time I felt stunned. The poor whetches met death with perfect indifference." The Herald, which gave Government notice through its columns many months since of the intention of the King of Dahomey to hold an citals of the butcheries by stating that "Consul Foote has come out with full powers to streat' with the King of Dahomey, as to the abolition of these sacrifices." A correspondent, who is well acquainted with Dahomey, says : "The best way to treat' with the King HENRY CLAY ON RUETT .- According to the to show that they were implicated with a band report in the Benton abridgement of debates, of horse-thieves, robbers, and counterfeiters v. 16, p.584, Mr. Clay thus spoke, in 1850, res- of gold coin, the latter being carried on in this pecting a South Carolinian, now quite notori- city. "The general impression in this city, among moderate men of all parties appears to be that the President could hardly have said more or less. While his assurances are full that the rights of the South shall not be invaded, and that the Constitution shall be strictly observed, he is equally explicit that the laws shall be faithfully enforced. If this brings on collision, it does not appear that the res-ponsibility can rest upon him."

It is a noteworthy fact that the opinions of many of the Northern democratic papers, in regard to the inaugural, coincide with those of the secessionists of the Gulf States. The New York Herald, Pittsburgh Post, and the New Orleans Bulletin, and Charleston Mercury, all unite in the cuckoo cry of "coercion," while the Union journals in Maryland, Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, North-Carolina and pired, left Fort Sumter on Wednesday. NEBRASKA CITY, Feb. 18, 1861.

DEAR FATHER AND MOTHER : When 1 got back from Wisconsin, some one had told them . that I was a salaried "nigger thief;" so I was taken the very night I got back to where I had been at work in the woods, by ten or twelve ruttians, stripped bare, tied to a tree a rope put around my neck and over a limb, and told that I had got to "own up" or be whipped to death. I tried to reason with them, but they were full of whisky, and of course it did no good. They ent a whip eight or ten feet long (crotched). and then set one man to pull up the rope, and another to apply the forked gad, with both hands until it was used up entirely, and then gave me a chance to "own up" again. I told them they could probably extort anything they wished to by whipping long enough, but that as long as I had my senses I could tell them nothing different from what I had. They same way; put a fresh hand at it, of course, this time, whether to divide the honor or to multiply the pain I could not determine, probably the latter. Thanks to kind human nature, it refused to feel the most of the laast "lifty," as they called it. The three that did the whiping and choking were strangers. The others stood off at a distance, and as it was between cognize them. The leader has been justice of peace, and is now Postmaster at Fillmore, Mo. They tried to frighten me with their revolvers, and one that had hold of the rope, after they had concluded to whip no more, stuck his revolver up to my head, and, with great gravity and sternness, said : "Now, G-d d-n you, own up, or I will blow your d-d brains out. They caught hold of him and held his pistol. then jerked up on the rope, but they at length untied me, not, however, until I had promised to leave and stay away, which is not hard to do.
