

MR. BOLT'S LETTER.—CONCLUSION.

a moment's consideration. Popular government does, indeed, rest upon the consent of the governed, but it is upon the consent of all, not of a majority of the governed. Criminals are every day punished and made to obey the laws, certainly against their will, and no man supposes that the principle referred to is thereby invaded. A bill passed by a Legislature, by the majority of a single vote only, though the constituents of all who voted against it should be in fact, as they are held to be in fact, the consent of the governed, still it is not the less operative as a law, and no right of self-government is thereby trampled upon. The clamor alluded to assumes that the States are separate and independent governments, and that laws enacted under the authority of all may be resisted and repealed at the pleasure of each. The people of the United States, so far as the powers of the General Government are concerned, are a unit, and laws passed by a majority of all are binding upon all. The laws and Constitution, however, which the South now resists, have been adopted by her sanction, and the right she now claims is that of a feeble minority to repeal what a majority has adopted. Nothing could be more fallacious.

Civil war, under all circumstances, is a terrible calamity, and yet, from the selfish ambition and wickedness of men, the best governments have not been able to escape it. In regarding that which has been the cause of the Government of the United States, Kentucky should not look so much at the means which may be necessarily employed in its prosecution as at the machinations by which this nation has been brought upon us. When I look upon this bright land, a few months since so prosperous, so tranquil, and so free, and now beheld it desolated by war, and the firesides of its thirty millions of people darkened, and their bosoms writhing with anguish, and know, as I do, that all this is the work of a score or two of men, who, over all this national ruin and despair, are preparing to carve with the sword their way to seats of permanent power, I cannot but feel that they are accumulating upon their souls an amount of guilt hardly equalled in all the atrocities of treason and homicide that have degraded the annals of our race from the foundations of the world. Kentucky may rest well assured that this conflict, which is ours, is the result of the Government in the paternal spirit in which a father seeks to reclaim his erring offspring. No conquest, no effusion of blood is sought. In sorrow, not in anger, the prayer of all is that the end may be reached without the loss of life or waste of property. Among the most powerful instrumentalities relied on for re-establishing the authority of the Government, is that of the Union sentiment of the South, sustained by a libeal press. It is now traduced, and is being used as a weapon of terrorism, which has no parallel but in the worst days of the French Revolution. The presence of the Government will enable it to rebound, and look its oppressors in the face. At present we are assured that in the seceded States no man expresses an opinion opposed to the revolution, but at the hazard of his life and property. The only light which is admitted into political discussion, is that which shines from the sword, or gleams from disunion bayonets. A few days since, one of the United States Senators from Virginia published a manifesto, in which he announces, with oracular solemnity and severity, that all citizens who would not vote for secession, but were in favor of the Union—should or ought—'must leave the State.' These words have in them decidedly the crack of the overseer's whip. The Senator evidently treats Virginia as a great negro quarter, in which the lash is the appropriate instrument of authority, and the only argument he will condescend to use. However the freemen of other parts of the State may abuse themselves under the exercise of this insolent and proscriptionary tyranny, should the Senator, with this scourge of slaves, endeavor to drive the people of Western Virginia from their homes, I will only say, in the language of the narrative of Gilpin's ride:

"May it be there to see." It would certainly prove a deeply interesting spectacle. It is true, that before this deliverance of the popular mind of the South from the threatenings and alarms which have subdued it, can be accomplished, the remorseless agitators who have made this revolution, and now hold their reins, must be discarded alike from the public confidence and public service. The country, in its agony, is feeling their power, and we well understand how difficult will be the task of overthrowing the ascendancy they have secured. But the Union men of the South—believed to be in the majority in every seceded State except perhaps, South Carolina—aided by the presence of the government, will be fully equal to the emergency. Let these agitators perish, politically, if need be, by scores; let the Union men be preserved, and a breath can unmake them, as a breath has made, but destroy this Republic, and "Where is that Promethean heat, That can its light rekindle?" Once entombed, when will the Angel of the Resurrection descend to the portals of its sepulchre? There is not a voice which comes to us from the cemetery of nations that does not answer, "Never more." Amid the torments of our perturbed existence, we may have glimpses of freedom, as the maniac has glimpses of reason between the paroxysms of his madness, but we shall attain to neither national dignity nor national repose. We shall be a mass of jarring, warring, fragmentary States, ennobled and demoralized, without power at home, or respectability abroad, and like the Republics of Mexico and South America, we will drift away on a careless and enigmatical sea of civil commotion, in which, if the teachings of history are to be trusted, we shall be finally rescued by the iron hand of some military wrecker, who will coin the shattered elements of our greatness and our strength into a diadem and a throne. Said M. Fould, the great French Statesman, to an American citizen, a few weeks since, "Your Republic is dead, and it is probably the last the world will ever see. You will have a reign of terror, and after that two or three monarchies." All this may be verified, should this revolution succeed. Let us then twice each thread of the glorious tissue of our country's flag about our heart strings, and looking upon our homes, and catching the spirit that breathes upon us from the battle fields of our fathers let us resolve that come weal or woe, we will, life and death, now and forever, stand by the stars and stripes. They have floated over our cradles; let it be our prayer and our struggle that they shall float over our graves. They have been unfurled from the snows of Canada to the plains of New Orleans, and to the halls of the Montezumas, and amid the solitudes of every sea, and everywhere, as the luminous symbol of resistless and beneficent power; they have led the free to victory and to glory. It has been my fortune to look upon this flag in foreign lands, and amid the gloom of an Oriental despotism; and right well do I know by contrast, how bright are its stars and how sublime are its inspirations. If this banner emblem for us of all that is transporting in human hope, is to be sacrificed on the altars of a satanic ambition, and thus disappear forever amid the night and tempest of revolution, then will I fall—and who shall estimate the desolation of that feeling—that the sun has indeed been stricken from the sky of our lives, and that henceforth there shall be but wan light, and outcasts, with nought but the bread of sorrow and penury for our lips, and with hands ever outstretched in feebleness and supplication, on which, in any hour, a military tyrant may rivet the fetters of a despairing bondage. May God in his infinite mercy save you and me, and the land we so much love, from the doom of such a degradation!

No content so momentous as this has arisen in human history, for among all the conflicts of men and of nations, the life of no such governments as ours has ever been at stake. Our fathers won our independence by the blood and sacrifices of a seven year's war, and we have maintained it against the assaults of the greatest power upon the earth; and the question now is, whether we are to perish by our own hands, and have the epitaph of the suicide written upon our tomb. The ordeal through which we are passing must involve immense suffering, and losses to all, and the expenditure of not merely hundreds of millions, but of billions of treasure will be well made, if the result shall be the preservation of our institutions.

Could my voice reach every dwelling in Kentucky, I would implore its inmates—if they would not have the rivers of their prosperity shrink away, as do unfed streams beneath the summer heats—to rouse themselves from their lethargy, and fly to the rescue of their country before it is extinguishingly too late. Man should appeal to man, and neighborhood to neighborhood, until the electric fires of patriotism shall flash throughout the land. It is a time in which the workshop, the office, the counting-house, and the field, may well be abandoned for the solemn duty that is upon us; for all these toils will bring but treasure, not for ourselves, but for the spoiler, if this revolution is not arrested. We are all, with our every earthly interest, embarked on the same common deck. The howl of the storm is in our ears, and "the lightning's red glare is painting hell on the sky," and while the noble ship pitches and rolls under the lashings of the waves, the cry is heard that she has sprung a leak at many points, and that the rushing waters are mounting rapidly in the hold. The man who, in such an hour, will not work at the pumps, is either a maniac or a monster. Sincerely yours, J. Holt.

LISTEN TO THE VOICE OF TRUTH AND REASON AND PROFIT WILL. The time has come that all who will can escape the iron grasp of Mercury, by calling, without delay, to see the well known and justly celebrated Eclectic European Physician, DR. BORT, who will administer those only true and safe medicines, extracted from the most choice Roots and Herbs, which are prepared under his own supervision, and therefore avoiding the use of all MINERAL POISONS, which were never designed for the system, to take which many thousands have fallen victims and gone to early graves.

Remember that Dr. Bort does not attend to those fully capable of appreciating and distinguishing the services of a regular thorough bred physician, from a paltry, unlearned and trifling quack. Remember, Dr. Bort's remedies and treatment are entirely unknown to all others in this country; prepared from a life spent in the great hospitals of Europe and the East in the country. Remember that Dr. Bort has a more extended practice than any other physician in Western Pennsylvania. Remember, that citizens of education and our popular men are all well acquainted with, and take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Bort to the afflicted. Remember, that Dr. Bort makes no false representations to gull the unfortunate, but all he says will be faithfully carried out. Certificates of Cures may be seen at his respective rooms.

Dr. B. is furnished with over six thousand letters of recommendation from some of the most distinguished men living. He also has a large number of diplomas from some of the most celebrated Hospitals and Infirmarys in Europe, for his unparalleled observations in Diagnosis, and observation in discovering remedies for the cure of diseases that have heretofore baffled the skill of many of the medical profession. An early call from those wishing to consult the Doctor, is earnestly requested, so as to receive full benefit of treatment, and thus do justice to himself. Time limited. Please bear in mind when Dr. B. will be in your place. Persons desirous of consulting him will confer a great favor by calling on the first day of his arrival, as his rooms are so often crowded, it is utterly impossible to attend to the anxious solicitations of all. Dr. Bort will arrive at each of the above places on the first train or stage on the day appointed. Please extend the invitation to all invalid acquaintances, and oblige yours, &c. All letters addressed to Box 1417, Pittsburg, will be promptly answered. May 29, 1861.

KEEP UP THE EXCITEMENT.—Removals always cause excitement, and since the great excitement about the removal of the Court House has subsided, the community generally have become somewhat listless, and it is deemed expedient to determine to pull up stakes and remove to Virginia. But the latest cause of excitement is the fact that I have removed my Saddle Shop from my old stand opposite the Court House to my new shop on Market street, between the Water and Market streets. I am now with a call can be supplied with Saddles, Single Harness, Double Harness, Tug Harness, Bridles, Collars, Whips, Halters, Horns, Breachings, Side Straps, and in fact every article in the line of Saddlery and Harness. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. B. F. H. & C. PROPRIETORS. Manufacturers of Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters can appeal with perfect confidence to physicians and citizens generally of the United States, because the article has attained a reputation heretofore unknown. New facts upon this point will be made more powerfully than ever, by the reports on the efficacy of the Bitters, and the consumption of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters for the last year amounting to over a half-million bottles, and from the many testimonials received from all quarters, that during the coming year the consumption will reach near one million bottles. This immense amount could never have been sold but for the rare medicinal properties contained in the preparation, and the sanction of the most prominent physicians of the world. The Bitters is a source of unalloyed pleasure. It removes all morbid matter from the stomach, purifies the blood, and imparts renewed vitality to the nervous system, giving it that tone and energy indispensable for the support of health. It acts upon the stomach, liver, and other digestive organs, mildly but powerfully, and soon restores them to a condition essential to the healthy discharge of the functions of nature. Elderly persons may use the Bitters daily as per directions on the bottle, and they will find it a stimulant peculiarly adapted to comfort declining years, as it is pleasant to the palate, invigorating to the bowels, excellent as a tonic, and rejuvenating to the system. It is especially adapted to aged men and women who have experienced the benefit of using this preparation while suffering from stomach derangements and general debility, acting under the advice of physicians, they will be delighted to find it so well and so fairly tested the merits of this article. A few words to the gentler sex. There are certain periods when their cares are so harassing that many of them sink under the trial. The relation of mother and child is so absorbingly tender, that the mother, especially if she be young, is apt to forget her own health in the extreme anxiety for her infant. Should the period for maternity arrive during a winter season, the relation of body and mind is generally aggravated. Here it is necessary for a stimulant to recuperate the energies of the system, and enable the mother to bear up under her exhausting trials and responsibilities. It is under other investigators that receive the endorsement of physicians, because it is agreeable to the taste as well as certain to give a permanent increase of bodily strength. All those persons, to whom we have particularly referred, who suffer from fever, ague, indigestion, loss of appetite, and all diseases of derangement of the stomach, superannated invalids, persons of sedentary occupation, and nursing mothers, will consult their own best interests by giving to Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters a trial. Caution.—We caution the public against using any of the many imitations or counterfeits, but ask for Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters, and see that each bottle has the words "Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters" blown on the side of the bottle, and stamped on the metallic cap covering the cork. Observe that our autographic signature is on the label. Prepared and sold by Hostetter, S. & C., Pittsburg, Pa., and sold by all druggists, grocers, and dealers generally throughout the United States, Canada, South America, and Germany. Agents—Geo. W. R. & Co., D. T. & Co., Clearfield, Pa.; John Patton, Curwensville, D. T. & Co.; F. K. Arnold, Luthersburg, Oct. 24, '60.
