Though simple, it is sure : Take a pint of oats and put them in a tight vessel; pour on boiling water, and let it stand a short time; then give it to the sick person to drink. It must be pretty warm. In fifteen minutes you will see a change for the better.

REPORT OF THE TAX BILL.

On the 3d inst., the Committee of Ways and Means reported to the House of Representatives their sketch of an internal tax bill. It is not to be supposed that the bill, as reported, is perfect-on the contrary it was to be expected that imperfections would appear; and, copies for distribution has been ordered, with a view to elicit suggestions from manufactur ers, merchants, shippers and business men generally, so that Congress may be enabled to get up a bill that will be as free as possible, from partiality and oppression in its operations. The bill provides for the appointment, by the President, of a Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with a salary of five thousand dollars. His office is to be in the Treasury Department, with a suitable number of clerks. The country is to be divided, as the President may direct, into convenient Collection Districts, with an Assessor and Collector to be appointed by the President for each District, who shall have the power to appoint such deputies as may be necessary. The bill provides

bune, writing from Washington, under date of Thursday, March 6, 1862, says:

"The Message from the President to-day is perhaps the most important document ever addressed to Congress, and one of the most important in history. Though reserved and moderate in terms, it distinctly proposes to "initiate emancipation." Such a proposition from the Chief Magistrate must be historic. From this time forward the great question Boggs tp., was so badly hurt by a falling tree passes away from the keeping of speculators and philanthropists into that of cabinets and statesmen. It cannot be put aside. One early effect will be the creation of an emancipation party in the Border States devoted to the Union, rendering the efforts of Secessionists there hopeless. It is known that several of the largest slave-owners in the Border States have given in their adhesion to this project in advance, and are now very anxious for its adoption. The warning of the President to the Rebels that if the war goes on, "all juries. The sleigh was so much broken as to the incidents of war are to be employed, even if they cause ruin," will be understood at once to mean that Slavery must cease to exist when it stands in the way of humanity and the Republic. The friends of Freedom here are much elated, and all of us anticipate that the good cause will be quickened throughout the country. The Message being received in the Senate while in the Executive Session, was not read aloud by the Clerk. It was shown around, and passed from hand to hand. Its reception by the Senators was electric.

A SHARPSHOOTERS' DUEL .- A distinguished duel occurred on the battle field of Fort Donelson, between one of Colonel Birge's shorpshooters and a crack shot inside the enemy's fortifications. The Federalist was stationed on a hill adjoining the entrenchments, and at an early hour in the morning the secession foe placed his rifle on a parapet, and fired a ball through the Unionist's hat. - The sharpshooter returned his fire, received a second shot, and sent another; and from that time until 4 o'clock in the afternoon the two continued discharging their pieces without injuring one another. Both fired accurately; but both concealed their persons as much as possible, and endeavered to deceive each other by putting their hats on their ramrods, and thrusting their coats from behind the fortifications or the trees. Whatever was exposed almost invariably received a bullet; but the two were so wary and skilful that it seemed they might About the hour I have mentioned, however, the rebel, forgetful of prudence, thrust his head over the breastworks, thinking, no doubt, as his enemy had not fired for five minutes, therefore, the printing of a large number of that he might be dead. The movement was fatal. His head was not exposed five seconds, but in that brief period the sharpshooter's ball passed into the rebel's brain, and stretched him out a corpse before the unfortunate fellow had been able to determine where his enemy was lurking, or by whose hand he was destin-

WHAT A SOUTHERNER UNDERSTANDS AN ABO LITIONIST TO BE .- The prisoners taken at Fort Donelson are composed mainly of the poor whites, whom slavery has kept in profound ignorance, and who have been deceived by the designing slave masters. A correspondent gives the following examples:

One man thought our army was composed of biggers and Germans." Another had a vague idea that they were some sort of nondescripts. "Why," said he, "I thought your tolks was all Yankees and abolstionists. But I see 'em there on the field, and they look mighty nateral, and I looked over thar, and saw snother, and, by ---, they were all just like our kind o'folks-dawg-gone it."

Now, it is evident that to this man the erms of "Yank e" and "abolitionist" meant a creature with horns, hoofs and a tail, spewing fire and brimstone out of his mouth, and impaling unlucky rebels upon his caudal ex-

TRIGHMAN'S REQUEST .- Tilghman has expressed a desire to be hung on Bunker Hill. The Boston Transcript says: There was a smart though pleasant retort of words between Gen. Tilghman, of the rebel army and United States Marshal J .-- , who conducted him to Fort Warren. The General told the Marshal that he should like to see Bunker Hill. When the steamer which carried off the prisoners to the fort had got so far off from the shere that Bunker Hill monument loomed up in the distance in all its majesty, the rebel General travel; on cummutation tickets 3 per centum; looked at it, and said that if he was to be executed, he should like to be hanged from that spot. "Your request cannot be allowed," said the Under-Marshal, "the ground upon which that monument was erected has been consecrated to freedom. General Warren fell there-it is no place for you." The southern General did not pursue the conversation any

WHAT BUCKNER SAYS .- The Albany Evening Journal tells this story of the rebel general: "General Buckner, in the course of a conversation with a distinguished gentleman of this city, unbosomed himself with a reference to the battle of Bull Run as follows: "That battle was a most unfortunate thing for the South and a most fortunate thing for the North." "Nothing," said the great rebel, "has more vexed me than the apathy of the southern people. The effect of the battle referred to was to inspire the southerners with a blind confidence and full them into false seenlowling alleys (each alley) $5; wholesale rity. The effect upon the northerners, on the edlers, $50; other pedlers, $5 to $20; coal other hand, was to arouse, madden and exasperate."

A squad of Van Allen's cavalry, on the 6th, captured six rebel pickets near Bunker Hill, Va.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT.

The President transmitted to Congress the following message, on Thursday, March 6, 1862. Fellow-citizens of the Senate and House of Rep-

I recommend the adoption of a joint resolution by your honorable bodies, which shall be substantially as follows:

Resolved, That the United States ought to co-operate with any State which may adopt a gradual abolishment of Slavery, giving to such State pecuniary aid to be used by such State in its discretion to compensate for the inconveniences public and private produced by such change of system.

If the proposition contained in the resolution does not meet the approval of Congress and the country, there is the end; but if it does command such approval I deem it of importance that the States and people immediately interested should at once be distinctly notified of the fact, so that they may begin to consider whether to accept or reject it. The Federal Government would find its highest interest in such a measure as one of the most efficient means of self-preservation. The leaders of the existing insurrection entertain the hope that the Government will ultimately be forced to acknowledge the independence of some part of the disaffected region, and that all the Slave States north of such parts will then say, "The Union for which we have struggled being already gone, we now choose to go with the Southern section."

To deprive them of this hope, substantially ends the rebellion, and the initiation of emancipation completely deprives them of it. As to all the States initiating it, the point is not that all the States tolerating Slavery, would very soon, if at all, initiate emancipation, but is important that this should be borne in mind that, while the offer is equally made to all, the more Northern shall, by such initiation, make it certain to the more Southern, that in no event will the former ever join the latter in their proposed Confederacy.

I say "initiation," because, in my judgement, gradual, and not sudden, emancipation is better for all. In the mere financial or pecuniary view, any Member of Congress, with the census tables and the Treasury reports before him, can readily see for himself how very soon the current expenditures of this war would purchase, at a fair valuation, all the slaves in any named State. Such a proposition on the part of the General Government sets up no claim of a right, by Federal authority, to interfere with Slavery within State limits, referring, as it does, the absolute control of the subject in each case to the State and its people immediately interested.

It is proposed as a matter of perfectly free choice with them. In the Annual Message, last December, I thought fit to say : "The Union must be preserved, and hence all indispensable means must be employed." I said this not hastily, but deliberately. War has been and continues to be, an indispensable means to this end. A practical reacknowledgment of the national authority would render the war unnecessary, and it would at once cease. It, however, resistance continues, the war must also centiaue, and it is impossible to foresee all the incidents which may attend, and all the ruin which may follow it. Such as may seem indispensable, or may obviously promise great efficiency toward ending the struggle, must and will come.

The proposition now made, though an offer only, I hope it may be esteemed no offense to ask whether the pecuniary consideration tendered would not be of more value to the States and private persons concerned, than are the institutions and property in it, in the present

While it is true that the adoption of the proposed resolution would be merely initiatory, and not within itself a practical measure, it is recommended in the hope that it would seen lead to important results. In full view of my great responsibility to my God and to my Country, I earnestly beg the attention of Congress and the people to the subject.

DROSPECTUS OF THE CONTINEN-TAL MONTHLY .- There are periods in the world's history marked by extraordinary of a volcano, or the bursting of a storm on the ocean. These crises weep away in a moment the landmarks of generations. They call out tresh talent, and give to the old new direction. It is then that new ideas are born, new theories develnew men for expounders.

This Continent has lately been convulsed by an upheaving so sudden and terrible that the relations of all men and all classes to each other are violently disturbed, and people look about for the elements with which to sway the storm and direct the whirlwind. Just at present, we do not know what all this is to bring forth; but we do know that great results must flow from such extraordinary commotions. At a juncture so solemn and so important, there is a special need that the intellectual force of the country should be active and efficient. It is a time for great minds to speak their thoughts bold ly, and to take position as the advance guard. To this end, there is a special want unsupplied. It is that of an Independent Magazine, which shall be open to the first intellects of the land, and which shall treat the issue presented, and to be presented to the country, in a one no way tempered by par-tizanship, or influenced by fear, favor or the hope of reward, which shall seize and grapple with the momentous subjects that the prescut disturbed state of affairs heave to the surface, and which can not be laid aside or neglected.

To meet this want, the undersigned have commenced, under the editorial charge of Charles G. Leland, the publication of a new Magazine, devoted to Literature and National Policy. In Polities, it will advocate, with all the force at its command, measures best adapted to preserve the oneness and integrity of these United States. It will never yield to the idea of any disruption of this Republic, peaceably or otherwise; and it will discuss with honesty and impartiality what must be done to save it. In this department, some of the most eminent statesmen of the time will contribute regularly to its pages.

In Literature, it will be sustained by the best writers and ablest thinkers of this country. Among its attractions will be presented, in an early number, a New Serial of American Life. by Richard Kimball, Esq., the very popular author of "The Revelations of Wall Street," St. Loger," &c. A series of papers by Hon. Horace Greely, embodying the distinguished author's observations on the growth and development of the Great West. A series of articles by the author of "Through the Cotton States," containing the result of an extended tour in the seashore Slave States, just prior to the breaking out of the war, and presenting a startling and truthful picture of the real condition of that region. No pains will be spared to render the literary attractions of the INTINENTAL both brilliant and substantial The yrical or descriptive talents of the most eminent literati have been promised to its pages; and nothing will be admitted which will not be distinguished by marked energy originality, and solid strength. Avoiding every influence or association partaking of clique or coterie, it will be open to all contributions of real merit, even from writers differing materially in their views; the aly limitations required being that of devotion the Union, and the only standard of accentages that of intrinsic excellence.

The Editorial Department will embrace, in addition to vigorous and fearless comments on the events of the times, genial gossip with the reader on all current topics, and also devote abundant space to those racy specimens of American wit and humor, without which there can be no perfect exposition of our national character Among those who will contribute regularly to this department may be mentioned the name of Charles F. Browne (Artemus Ward), from whom we shall present in the March number, the first of an entirely new and original series of "Sketches of Western Life"

The Continental will be liberal and progressive, without yielding to chimeras and hopes be--yend the grasp of the age; and it will endeavor to reflect the feelings and interests of the American people, and to illustrate both their serious and humorous peculiarities. In short, no pains will be spared to make it the Representative Magazine
