ROSY DELL.

A rosy dell, in summer dim With dewy oder-waited far By gentle winds, that eastward swim, While brightly burns the evening star.

A rosy dell, with dewy lip, That breathes from eve till morn perfume, While yellow bees at leisure sip And roving rob the wakeful bloom.

A rosy dell, where all day long Æolus chants his varied lay, His harp the oak tree arms,-his song What lisping words the leaves may say.

A rosy dell, where, sad o'er all, The pearly stars shed misty light, 'Till gentle Slumber drops her pall, And sorrowing Beauty sighs 'good-night.'

VULCANITE BASE FOR ARTIFICIAL TEETH.

Attention is especially called to this article, as a substitute for gold in inserting teeth. Many persons who have tr rd all kinds of metalle bases prefer this, and in those cases where it is applicable it will in a great measure become a substitute for gold, silver or platina. Its chief advantages are cheapness, lightness and perfect adoption to the nouth ; it having a soft fieshy feel to the parts of the mouth with which it comes in contact. A. M. Hills is prepared to put up teeth on the Vulcanite Base, with Goodyear's Patent Gum.

(FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS) MAY 19, 1860.-Ellen S. mt. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an at-tack of acute rheumatism, from which she wasconfined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till last Saturday; while engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back felt cold, but had no decided chill. Two days later her ankles began to swell which was follow. ed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuck-les are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is the most so. This, then, is a case of acute rhenmatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well marked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves, My chief object in bringing her before you now is to call your attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rhea-St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest ferms having derived great benefit from its use in 2.0 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose giving it another trial. I must confess I am always incredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifies ; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial. SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER

May 23, 1860 .- I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I preshribed Propylamine, and who was then laboring under an attack of asute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in doms of three grains, every two hours, (intermitting it at night). The day after you saw her. I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily you cannot fail to notice a marked change in the appearance of her joints, which are now meanly of their natural size. Thus far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but gentlemen we must wait a little while before we can give a docided opinion as to what is to be the result. THREE DAYS LATER !! MAY 26, 1860 .- This is the case of acute rhenmatism treated with propylamine, the first of thors to which I called your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three gratus thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satistactory results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do well. I will now bring > fore you a very characteristic case of acute 1 u favor of propylamine. He is a scaman, set. 26. who was admitted a few days ago. Has had occasional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago The pains began in his right kness, subsequently affected the left knee, and later the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swolles. tense and tender. His tongue is farred; his skin at present, dry, though there has been much sweat-ing. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90 He has now used propylamine twenty-four hears. This gentlemen is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was on posure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coloness severe articular pain, beginning, as it esually does, in the lower oints There is fever and the profuse sweating, ogenerally attendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a lecture on all the points onnected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there could not be a fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in question. We are therefore, avoiding the use of all other medicines. even anodynes, that there may be no misgivings as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case in a future clinic. THE RESULT .-- A FAVORABLE VERDICT JUNE 9, 1860 .- The next of our canvalements is the case of acuterheumatism before you at our efinic of May 26th, which I then called a typical ease and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has got along very nicely, and is now able to walk about as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have never vern as severe a case of ocute rheumatism so soon restor ed to health as this man has been, and without be ing prepared to decide positively as to the value of the remedy we have used. I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the charde of Propylamine, the patients have gained their health much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily
