THE JOURNAL.

CLEARFIELD, PA., JULY 1, 1863.

CORRECTION .- The name of James McCullough, should have appeared in the muster roll which we published last week. It was omitted by the person who made out the list.

The question has been frequently asked, Are the drafted men to go to Waterford for examination? We observe that the same question was asked in the 16th district. The Marshal of that district answers by saying That persons for examination must appear at the head-quarters of the Provost Marshal as established by the War department," and that their transportation to and from head quarters being paid by the Government." We presume that the same rule will apply in this district, and that the matter will be made satisfactory to all persons interested, when the proper time arrives.

FATAL ACCIDENT -On Thursday June 25th. Miss Mary Hanna, was accidentally drownded at Reynolds' Saw Mill dam, in Jefferon county, under the following ciromstances: Miss Hanna and two Misses Painter had gone to the dam to amuse themselves; when one Miss Painter and Miss Hanna got on the boom. The boom logs soon began to rock beneath their feet, and they were both thrown off into the water. The other Miss Painter being on shore at once gave the alarm, and in a short time the two were taken from the water in an insensible condition. Restoratives were at once applied and Miss Painter was soon resuscitated, but all efforts to restore Miss Hanna were unavailing-life being extinct.

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE "JOURNAL."

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., June 29, 1863. DEAR JOURNAL :- The censor's pen made such a tremendous breach in my last letter to you, that I almost fear to take my bit of steel to indite anything for publication. The present moment, however, is such a magnificent one for showing up who are, and who are not in favor of the restoration of the Union-by deeds and not gas-that I cannot let it pass by without giving you some of the facts.

Once more is there joy in the Copperhead camp. How their eyes sparkle, and their speaking, traitorous, guilty countenances smile the old Keystone by their rebel brethren. It is a glorious time for them. Never since the commencement of this war has there been a time when the enemies of the Union could be seen in such living characters as they can be at this moment. It needs no words, to point them out; they are as plainly visible as the sun at noonday. The time for gassing has gone by. There was a time when they could preach to the weak-kneed democracy, and to soldier's wives, that the war was all wrong, the 'green backs' were worthless, and Abe Lincoln was paving the way for an absolute monarchy. But their plausible and knockdown Helper's Crisis arguments are now scattered to the winds of terra firma, and in vain do they try to answer the many questions of b their proselytes as to "why is the war carried into Pennsylvania?" Oh! ye poor deluded dupes; why is it that you will listen to the traitorous arguments of such vain, seductive and treasonable wretches? Look at them! Where do you find them now? Did they not tell you that they were sound Union men, and that if the real object of the war was for the restoration of the Union, that they would sacrifice their lives, fortunes and all that was mar and dear to them ? Did they not tell you that the sole object of the war was for the purpose of abolishing slavery, to bring the negro on an equality with the white man, that the present administration was abolition to the core? And what, in the name of the rebels, was it they did not tell you? A ream of foolscap would not be sufficient to indite their cited wrongs. How stands the record now? What do they tell you when you ask them about the invasion of Pennsylvania? Have they all gone to the rescue of our State? Of the thirty men that started on the morning of the 18th fastant, for the defense of the State, how many were of this same glorious, Union-loving, copperhead party ? "Nary man"! Who were they that went? Was there a man or a boy of them, but who had always advocated thorough-going, unyielding, out and out war for the restoration of the Union? Old grey headed men and boys, whose stay at Jericho had not yet produced them a beard, were in the ranks. They dropped all their implements of trades and professions, and marched forth at their country's call; for among those same thirty men, that went from this place, were laborers, mechanics, clerks, landfords, preachers and merchants. But the the "war democrats," as the ring of the anvil, the tinners mallet, the diterary landlords', and bar-tender who admires the 'World' fully testify, are yet at home and 'can't get away." The lords of the soil are all among the 'can't get aways,' too. No one of the owners of property of any considerable amount have gone; but on the contrary are trying to discourage others from going. On the afternoon of the 17th ult., on the arrival of the stage a dispatch directed to one of our prominent citizens was received from some Rail Road official, stating that the train at Sandy Ridge, due at 3 o' clock, p. m., would wait 30 minutes for our town to send a squad of men. The person not being at home, to whom it was directed, it was handed to two other prominent citizens; expecting, of course that they would go right to work. But, to and behold, off they start down street and bring up at a strong administration man's door, and hand him the dis-patch. He read it, handed it back to them, and said, "you can count me one; I will be ready in a lew moments." "No!" said they, we want you to raise the squad; we have no time; can't get away, and are not able to go.' Now, those two men are the largest lot hold ers in town; but not an inch did they move, or do, towards trying to raise some men. They had just as much right to go, if not more, If there is such a thing as more in this case, or do something towards raising the men, as the man to whom they applied. Are they Union met or not f is for my readers to decide.

A great many young Napoleans are about just now. One of these great faultfinders, who hails from the immediate vicinity ot Mason and Dixon's line, and flourishes in this soden country with the appendage of M. D., and whose profuse use of William's dye brings his whiskers in striking contrast with his crablums' natural tubers, wants to know "where in h-! Hooker is ?" "Oh !" says a fat, jolly fac simile of an ale cask on legs, "there is something detaining him beyond the Poto-mac " "Yes," replies the M. D. with a contemptuous snarl of his moustache, and a rapid stride of his spipe stems,' "and they will detain him, and not only detain him, but wipe out him and his whole army." Ale cask seeing a good sight for the lager, of course responds, amen. So it is. I could eite out, instance after instance, men who profess to be true Union men, war men, and to all external appearances are such; yet they ridicule the Generals, army, war, money, and in short every thing but the Southern Confederacy.

A Mr. J. C. R. has been canvassing this town and vicinity with some light, extremely light literature, adorned with a "yaller kiver" to give it an appearance of "trash," bearing the title of "Life and speeches of Clement L. Vallandigham," and soliciting subscriptions of money to purchase pistols; and he has succeeded too, for it was but a few days since that a box of six shooters, cartridges, and all complete, were received by the said J. C. R. Yet he preaches Union; but is more satisfied than ever that the South will gain her independence. Where is the Assistant Provost Marshal of Centre? In Bellionte! Yes, and a wooden man would answer the purpose about as well: If Capt. White can not appoint a man, whose antecedents were always genuine, whose who are exempt will be returned home, as Assistant Provost Marshal for this county it would be much better to have none. So

> MAIL ROBBER CONVICTED. During the June term of the U. S. District

Court, which commenced its session on the 15th at Williamsport, Pa., a man named Pardon Barret was tried and convicted of "advising and procuring" the robbery of the mail at Jackson, Susquehanna county, Pa. It appeared from the evidence, that Barret and a young man whose name it would not be proper to reveal at present, in the latter part of February suggested to Henry W Fletcher, aged about thirteen years, son of the Post Master at Jackson; that "as the boys in the army were sending home money, he might have the luck to get some if he were to take letters out of the Post office." In order to persuade the boy into the commission of the offence, these infamous men agreed not only to "see him out of the scrape if he was caught," but promised that, if he would divide with them the money he obtained, each to have a third, they would take him to Buffalo and thence across the Lake into Canada, where they could not be found, and after the affair was forgotten, they would all go to one of the Western States, seek a retreat in the woods, build a hut, and pass their days in hunting, fishing and other sports. By his frequent importunities, and by constantly keeping this facinating prospect before the lad, Barret overcame the scruples of little Fletcher, and finally induced him, in the beginning of May, on a day when his father had gone to New at the successful invasion of the sacred soil of Milford, to take a package of letters, out of which he realized $20. He at once reported to Barret, who said, "You had pretty good luck; keep it a-going !" which the boy did for three or four weeks; during which time he abstracted upwards of forty letters, which contained nearly $250 in money. Barret had instructed the boy to take no letters directed to their own office, but only such as were passing through to neighboring offices, (matter for several of which, remained over at Jackson 24 hours,) and to take such as contained letters from Washington. He also told him inch lumber perfectly in 36 hours better than not to attempt to use any checks or drafts many months under the old system using the not to attempt to use any checks or drafts which he might find, and advised him further not to carry the money with him, but to hide it until the 4th of July, at which time the three were to meet at Susquehanna Depot, divide the "spoils," and start on their journey. All these precantions and instructions the boy followed strictly. Barret did not take any of the money, probably thinking it best to wait until as large a sum as possible could be gathered by the lad, but he wanted to make an arrangement by which he could borrow $10 a week from the latter. A poradjoining a meeting house, and upwards of he intends to carry on the Cabinet-making business in its different branches. Having served a regular apprenticeship to the business, and workthirty of the letters in a barn. The attention of the P. O. Department was drawn to the robbery on the 9th of June. A few days after, Barret was arrested; on the 17th he was taken to Williamsport; on the 18th he was put upon trial; on the 19th convicted; and on the 20th was confined in the Western Penitentiary at Allegheny City. In consideration of Barret's age, which is 56 years, His Honor, Judge M Candless sentenced him but to three years' imprisonment. The investigation was conducted by Special Agent Row.

Copperheads-Origin of the Term-What it Means. "Soon after the outbreak of the rebellion, the Springfield (O.) Republic, published a communication in which the writer noticed the rattlesnake as the emblem of the South Carolina rebels, and stated that the rattlesnake was a more magnanimous reptile than the copperhead snake, as the former gives notice before he strikes, while thelatter, besides being more insiduous, strikes you without giving you any warning; and applied the term copperheads to all the traitors and sympathizers with the rebels in the tree States. Other papers soon adopted the term, and it has become very general, but some people do not see the point; and in Indiana I see some use the term copperbottoms, but I cannot see the point of copperbottoms. Copperheads is a very apropriate name for our free State rebels at heart."

BULKLEY'S PATENT—LUMBER DRIED BY SUPERHEATED STEAM.—The under-signed respectfully informs the people of Clearfield and adjoining counties that he has the agency of the above patent—and will sell individual county or township rights for its use. The lum ber dried by this process is stronger, finishes better, is easier on tools, and requires less time in same amount of fuel per day that a common kiln consumes. The certificate of a number of resident mechanics well known in this community is amply sufficient to convince the most sceptical of its utility. Persons desirous of purchasing rights will address JOHN L. CUTTLE, June 24, 1863 Cearfield. Penn'a.
