What Jessie Lost in the Brook. Jessie was a little girl going to school. She had her spelling book, and slate pencil, and sewing work, and thimble, and a box of beads, and she had time too. "Good bye, beads, and she had time too. "Good bye, mother," she said, kissing her. "Good til all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the publisher.

No subscription taxout will be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the publisher.

A little brook crossed the road on Jessie's way to school. It was running to the river, and it ran very fast. Jessie stopped to look on it as it twinkled in the sun. She stooped down and put in her hand to stop it. It would not be stopped. It jumped over her hand and through her fingers, and ran off as fast as it could. While Jessie was playing ner Store," and selling as low for Cash and counwith the water she lost something. But she did not miss it then. I should not wonder if the water's not stopping put the little girl in mind that she ought not to stop; so she jumped up and hurried to school.

When she got to school the door was locked, and a card with staring letters "Late!" hung at the door. "O dear, dear," cried Jessie very much vexed; "now I shall get a bad mark, for I have no excuse." When the door was unlocked, she went in; and at noon she told Miss Marvin how it happened she was late.

"You met with a serious loss at the brook, did you not, Jessie?" said Miss Mar-"something you can never find." "Loss!" said Jessie, looking up surprised. I did not miss anything. It was not my spelling book, surely?"

'A greater loss than your spelling book, because the book might be picked up," said the teacher. "Not my silver thimble?" said Jessie, feeling in her pocket. "A silver thimble could be found," said Miss Marvin, "this cannot be.

"Did you think that I lost my box of beads?" asked Jessie. "If you had, I suppose you can easily buy another box." "So I could a slate pencil if I lost that." "Yes said Miss Marvin; "but what you lost cannot be found or bought again, nor can it be made up any way; it is lost forever." 'O,'' said Jessie, looking sorry and puzzled.
"But what is it, Miss Marvin?"

"It is lost time, Jessie," said the teacher.
"Yes," said the little girl, blushing,
"that I did lose by the brook. I lost time."
"And you missed it very much when you got to the school room door," said the teach-"O I did, Miss Marvin," said Jessie, "I did, I would have given anything for a minute more.'

But a minute lost can never be got back it is gone forever. Nor can one be borrow-ed, or bought or begged. A rich woman who had not long to live once cried out: "Thousands of pounds for an inch of time!" But thousands of pounds could not buy it.

God gives every child golden minutes enough to use, but none to lose. Sperd them my little ones, in such a manner that you may give for every day "Some good account atlast."

The N. York Herald chronicles this provoking mistake; "In April, 1861, Mrs. Jeff. Davis promised an early visit to the White House at Washington; in April, 1865, Mrs. Lincoln in a journey to Richmond, returns the promised call, and finds Mrs. Davis 'not at 'home' -gone, perhaps, to Washington. Such is life."

An artist invited a gentleman to criticise a portrait he had painted of Mr. Jenks, who was given to drink. Putting his hand towards it, the artist exclaimed: "Don't touch it, it is not dry." "Then," said he, "it cannot be my friend Jenks."

A person in public company, accusing the Irish nation of being the most unpolished in the world, was mildly answered by an Irishman, "It ought to be otherwise, for the Irish met with hard rubs enough to polish any nation upon earth,"

We consider the old man's reply to his son as to the meaning of the word humbug nearer correct than Websters. "Humbug, my son, is when your mother says she loves me, and don't sew the buttons on my shirt.

"John," såid a stingy old hulk to his hired man, as he was taking dinner, "do you know how many pancakes you've eaten?' "No." "Well, you've eaten fourteen." "Well," said John, "you count and I'll eat."

"Turpentine Punch," composed of two ounces of brandy, eight ounces of boiling water, and one ounce of turpentine, and sugar to taste, is now given in European hospitals for fever cases.

The South made war for the sake of her negroes and has lost them. Seldom have we known so striking an exemplification of the saying about going for wool and coming home shorn.

A Frenchman cannot pronounce 'ship. The word sounds "sheep" in his mouth. Seeing an iron-clad, he said to a boy, "Is this a war-sheep?" "No," answered the boy

"it is a ram." According to the Pennsylvania School Journal, three hundred and fifty-three children of deceased soldiers have been admited into the orphan School of this State.
