Baftsman's Fournal.

CLEARFIELD, PA., NOV. 1, 1865.

The Kentucky Presbyterians. The Presbyterians in Kentucky, like nearly all the religious denominations of that State, are the most part intensely pro Slavery. They have, theretofore, been chafing for several years under the deliverances made by the General Assemblies of their church since the beginning of the war with regard to the duty of loyalty and the evil of slaveholding. At the meetings of their Presby-teries, they have steadily expressed their disapprobation of the course followed by the General Assembly. This year, they have deemed the time to have come to take a decisive step in advance. They clearly see that unless the General Assembly can be prevailed upon to repeat of its loyal and antislavery attitude and to humilliate itself before the brethren of the Slave States, the latter can no longer afford to remain in the Apostate Church. The majority of the Louisville Presbytery, at its recent session, adopted "a declaration and a testimony," which in express and emphatic terms set forth that a Church which denounces the Slaveholder's Rebellion and claims a right to condemn Slavery and slaveholders, is no longer a true Christian Church, and that, unless the future General Assembly repeal the Week before last the synod of Kentucky was in session at Louisville. Dr. Robert J. Breckinridge offered a paper declaring that the majority of the Louisville Presbytery, by the majority of the Louisvine Presbytery, by the adoption of their "declaration and tes-timony, 'had rendered themselves "unqual-ified, unfit and incompetent' to sit and act as members of any Presbyterian Church Court. This called forth a protracted and very animated discussion, which resulted, as everybody anticipated, in the voting down of Dr. Breckinridge's paper, by a vote of 102 a-former deliverances, the General Assembly and Kentucky must part company.

This vote will soon be followed by the open secession of the majority of Kentucky Presbyterians from the General Assembly of the United States. The difference of views between those who are still admirers of the dying institution of Slavery, and those who are jubilant at the final delivery of the country from that great national curse, is too wide to allow of their remaining any longer together as members of one ecclesiastical organization. Those who remain in connection with the churches of the Free States are at present only a small minority, but the triumphant march of freedom in the Southern States will come to their aid and increase their numbers. The immediate effect of the ecclesiastical seperation between the pro-slavery and anti-slavery churches of Kentucky will be to strengthen the Republican party of that State; for, by their struggle against the despotism of the slave power and the rising anti-slavery party of the State can hardly fail to grow in firmness and in numbers.

The Basis of Representation.

The following table dmonstrates the necessity of a Constitutional amendment, basing short notice. They have the best assortment of patterns in the country for steam and water-mills of every description. All kinds of machine and of every description. All kinds of machine and of every description. the number of Representatives the several States would be entitled to on a white basis, which corresponds to the basis of actual voters; the second column the number the States will have on the basis of population, now that the negroes are all counted; the White basis. FREE MASONRY.-The grand officers of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons in Pennsylvania have issued an appeal to the brotherhood or the United States to renew the bonds of Union. They say: "We owe our country and the world the duty of our example. Let us make it manifest. Come among us: we will go among you. Your temple is our temple; your masonry is our masoury; whither masonic teachings bid us go, let us go together. Brethren, we invite you, by the great glory of our indestructible Order, by the undying light which illumines our pathway to and from the communion of the craft, by your pre-figure Agency, at the office of the craft, by your pre-figure Agency, at the office of the craft, by your pre-figure Agency at the office of the craft of the cept and example, and efforts among our fellow-countrymen, to begin the great work of reconcilliation."

The old puzzle that declared everything had two sides-an inside and an outside can hardly be considered as completely exhausting the subject. Many things now-adays have a multiplicity of sides—among them the question of the elective franchise. A colored man, recently, debating the matter, proposed as an equitable and peaceable solution that after the year 1870, no man under forty years of age, unable to read or write, should be entitled to a vote. He was willing to risk his race to such a test; would some blatant politicians be asready to expose their constituency to the same?

INTERESTING EXPERIMENT.—The Erie Dispatch says that some time ago a well was sunk in that city, for the purpose of obtaining oil, but which so far as that was concerned, was a failure. Some large veins of gas were struck however, which have been turned to practical use. Pipes have been laid from the gas well to two large Iron works, one at a distance of over 1,300 feet from the well. These works are heated, and the engines run by means of the gas, and have been found to produce a steadier heat at much less expense than coal.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Oct. 18th, decided to accept the compromise proposed by the parties concerned in atagree to pay to the Government one hundred and thirty thousand dollars, which is just forty thousand more than the assessed taxes on the articles they attempted to smuggle amounted to.

Indicate the second and other number satisfies or the outsiness, taken in exchange for furniture.

Remember the shop is on Market street. Clearfield, and nearly opposite the "Old Jew Store."
