THE HOME MARKET. The beneficial effect of manufactures upon agricultural interests is one of the best attested facts in the history of every country, and especially in our own. Experience and observation confirm the teachings of common sense in proving the inestimable value of home markets to farmers, and the saving effected by them when con-umers can be found near their doors, instead of being sought at points thousands of miles distant. In 1860 the United States contained more than 2,044,000 farms and 140,400 manufactories, employing 1,040,349 male and 270,879 female hands-a total of 1,311,-246, who, with the families dependent upon them, consumed an amount of food and raw materials supplied by agriculturists that casts into insignificance our exports, which after all, are sent abroad simply because the necessities of other countries require them and find here the cheapest source of supply, and not on account of the extent of our purchases from them. The free traders propose to benefit the agricultural interest by destroying the home market furnished by domestic manufacturers, without sensibly increasing the foreign demandand the inducement they offer in a slight reduction in the price of some of the articles imported, which a reduction of the tariff would effect. All sagacious farmers, however, will readily see that if, ignoring the general welfare of the country, they consult only their individual interests, a more suicidal "penny-wise and pound foolish" poliey could not be adopted. In 1810 the gross product of American manufactures was only $198,614,471, or, making allowance for omissions in returns, $200,000,000. In 1860 they reached the enormous aggregate of $1,885,861,676; or, as minor establishments were not reported, at least $2,000,000,000. Our population in Margaret J. Rheem by her next friend, J. tional debt and our increased national expenditures, it is vitally important that taxes should be levied in such a manner as will ender the most effective assistance in the development of our industrial interests, so that profitable employments for our citizens may be increased and complete national independence achieved.

Letters from officers of the freedmen's bureau in Louisiana show that the militia in that State are organized into patrols for the purpose of scouting the country and forcing the freedmen to remain upon the plantations. Near Shreveport they are enforcing some of the most odious features of the old slave system. In one instance they gave ten, in another thirty, and in another three hundred lashes. Three freedmen's shoolhouses were destroyed by a mob in the parish of St. Mary and in Thibodeaux. In driven from her work by brick bats used by a mob. The civil authorities are not protecting the freedmen, and the freedmen's bureau is their only source of protection.

No part of the Governmental policy of France and England requires greater care and vigilence than that devoted to the maintenance and extension of foreign markets for their manufactures. The loss of any important branch of their trade causes great distress and embarrassment. In the United States there is no necessity for adopting a tortuous and troublesome system to secure a similar end. Our artisans need only the opportunity of supplying the demands of our own country to make the nation rich and prosperous, and to have a long line of successful business establishments built up, with will react beneficially upon each other, and upon all American interests.

Hillflicker Snicksnacker, a Teutonic vender of sour kraut, wooden combs, crude cabbage, striped mittens, cotton suspenders, April 6.-Engagement between Grant and | and such "liddle dings." with true patriotio zeal, left his home in La Crosse at the commencement of the war, and enlisted as a slop grocery keeper behind the sutler's tent, on the Potomac. When he went away it was the intention of making som "monish. if it took all summer, and nobly did he fight it out on this line. How he done it, is best told as he told it to us on his return, last week :

You see, Mr. Bumroy, der trum beets, and der call cooms to go to wars mit arms. Ise be patriotic so much as Shaneral Washburn, Sheneral Cortiss, or Sheneral Bangs, disbanded; the officers and men to give or any dem Shenerals what lives to come home great men. So I buys some little tings, and gets some bapers from the War Committe and goes mit ter poys ter be patriots and sell some little dings and make some monish. I kiss my frow five, nineteen dimes, and goes mit der war. I goes to Shambersburg and makes much monish. One day I poke my window out of mine head to hear the serenade, and dinks of somedings, when I see Sthonewall Shackson mh his droops un der pig brass band coming brass band.

"Who's bin here since Ish bin gone ?"

Dat Sthonewall Shackson is ter tyfal mit fighting, and I puts my monish in mine pocket, and mine little papers in mine bag, and I goes so quick as never was to Gettysburg. Und der I opens some sthore and sells some liddle dings. Und one day I hears men on der horseback riding down dar sthreet like dunder, and den I pokes der winder under mine head and looks myself up

"Who's bin here since Ish bin gone ?"

Den I make mine monish gooms inter mine pockets, und makes mine bag goome inter mine papers, und put mine sighn on ter pig store on der corner, so I looses more goods as I had not got, and dinks I go to Wisconsin to see mine vrow as I haint seen dese two years, so long time as never wash. Den I goomes home, und knoks und der door, and my vrow she mak talk und tell me "whose der?"

Den I say "Hillflicker Snicksnacker." und she knows dat is mine name, and she make herself gooms out of ter house, and give me nine, seven times kiss on mine face so good as never vash.

Den Mr. Bumroy, I looks mit mine eyes, and I sees some dings! And so I ask mine vrow is shes be no married, why she makes so much grow, when I be gone mit te wars? Und I gits mad as de tyfel, und den I tinks of dat tamd Sheneral Sthonewall Shackson und his pig prass pand; und I sings :

"Whoes bin here since Ish bin gone ?" And now, Mr. Bumroy, somepody makes trouble mit me, for Ish been gone two years, und I know some dings. I goes pack mitter war und I sings dat tam Sthone-I goes wall Schackson song all ter way!"-Lo Croose (Wis.) Democrat.
