ROBIN'S COME.

From the elm-tree's topmost bough, Hark! the robin's early song,
Hark! the robin's early song,
Telling oue and all that now
Merry spring-time hastes along,
Welcome tidings thou dost bring,
Little harbinger of spring!
Robin's come.

Of the winter we are weary. Weary of its frost and snow,
Longing for the sanshine cheery,
And the brooklet's gurgling flow.
Gladly then we hear thee sing
The reveille of the spring.

Kobin's come

Ring it out o'er hill and plain.

Through the garden's lonely bowers,
Till the green leaves dance again.

Ttll the air is sweet with flowers.

Wake the cowslip by the rill,
Wake the yellow daffodil.

Robin's come. Robin's come

Then, as thou wret wont of yore, Build thy nest and rear thy young, Close beside our cottage door. In the woodbine let among; Hurt or harm thou need at not fear, Nothing rude shall venture near.

Swinging still o'er yonder lane, Robin answers merrily; Ravished by the sweet refrain. Alice clasps her hands in glee. Shouting from the open door.

With her clear voice, o'er and c'er.

"Robin's come!"

The President's "Constitutional Objections' To the Civil Rights Bill. .

The rascally character of the manner in which toady supporters of the President are endeavoring to mislead the people—the ignorant masses whom they control—on the subject of the veto, is without precedence the most infamous of all the political jugglery that has ever disgraced the country. For instance, the copperhead organs persistently indulge the declaration that notastanding the President's Constitutional objections to the civil rights ball, Congress to settle with Mr. Johnson. His insult to passed the bill and thus made it a law. the memory of Mr. Lincoln will be attend-What is here aimed at, is to impress the ed to when he repeats his sentiments on the people with the belief that the President's objections were ALL Constitutional, when in reality the simple truth is merely that the President had only a constitutional right to when he repeats his sentiments on the loor of the Senate. Let it be remembered that Willard Saulisbury the idol of the President had only a constitutional right to when he repeats his sentiments on the loor of the Senate. Let it be remembered that Willard Saulisbury the idol of the President so the loor of the Senate. Let it be remembered that the President's loor of the Senate. Let it be remembered that the President so that the Willard Saulisbury the idol of the President so the loor of the Senate. Let it be remembered that the President so that the loor of the Senate. Let it be remembered that the President so that the loor of the Senate. Let it be remembered that the President so that the loor of the Senate. Let it be remembered that the loor of the Senate. Let it be remembered that the loor of the Senate in the idol of the President so the loor of the Senate. The Constitution gives him the right to veto any bill to which he may have objections, and the Constitution also gives our people remember his remarks. Congress the right to pass a rejected bill over the veto of the President. But copperhead journals are not candid or honest enough to state the facts thus plainly. Their object is to befog the people and thus confuse them on the subject of the President's mistakes, to give them no harsher term. The civil rights bill is clearly constitutional. It is legislation to enforce the emancipation proclamation, a right conceded to Congress by the amendment to the Constitution abolishing slavery. Hence, when the new fledged friends of the President talk about his Constitutional objections to the bill they indulge in sophistry to deceive the people. The President failed to advance any Constitutional reason for the veto—and because he abused a Constitutional right the people complained and Con-

The disingeniousness of our politisal opponents is truly disgusting. Recently, the Patriot and Union, in a column of rigama-role and nonsense, labored to create the impression that the Civil Rights bill conferred the elective franchise on the black population of the South immediately that the blacks of the country were to be at once elevated to political equality, while intelligent and deserving foreigners, who came to the country qualified to exercise the highest privileges of citizenship, are compelled to undergo a probation of five years before they are endowed with political power. In-telligent men know that this definition of the Civil Rights bill is a perversion. That law does not enfranchise the negro. It does by law does not entranense the negrot its sections looking to the political equality of the races. But what of this? The Patriot and Union has only to deal with ignorant men, and if it can inflame the passions of these with a falsehood, it would rather take that mode of controlling them than by enlightening them with a fact. The Civil Rights law, as we have written, makes no reference to the elective franchise. It only seeks to prevent white traitors from continuing their robbery of the fruits of black men's labor. But such a purpose is enough to elicit the animosity of the men in the North who sympathized with the traitors while they were warring to destroy the Government -Telegraph.

The Red River North Wester says that gold has been discovered on the Athabasca river, which flows Northward to the Great Slave Lake, and thence as the Mackenzie river to the Arctic Ocean. The Saskatche-wan, and other rivers on which gold has previously been discovered, flow eastward into the Winnepeg basin.

Ex-Gov. Alien, of Lousiana, criticises Mr. E. A. Pollard as follows: "Who is Mr. E. A. Pollard? He is a Virginian, the editor of the Richmond Examiner, and the author of the Southern History of the War.' We have grief for the first, blushes for the second, and contempt for the last.

PAPER.—We understand one house in New York has imported 75,000 reaper of paper, and that a decline must soon to ke place. There never was more unscrupulous monopoly than the present one that controls the price of paper.

The Evils of Alcohol. Mr. Willard Saulsbury made a couple of speeches recently in Washington, at the meeting of the National Democratic Association, which are too characteristic to be passed unnoticed. He is reported to have

"He was tired of supporting a man who would not help hemself. He was a warm personal friend of President Johnson, but he was tired of supporting a man who let the Connecticut State election go against him when he could have prevented it; who gives his offices to men who are his personal enemies; who keeps a Cabinet about him not one of whom is a friend to him, and who has scarcely a member in Congress to support his measures. Let him stand by the Constitution, and I will think of going to work again. Recognize your old Democratic Association, and stick to that. You will undobtedly succeed in time. He Leteral to death a succeed in time. lieved to-day that a revolution was pending, and President Johnson would have better work for Southerners yet than hanging them. He believed to-day that when Jefferson Davis left the Senate he was a better U-nion man than Abraham Lincoln. This he would say on the floor in Congress before he got through. This work of Congress amounts to usurpation, and what acts it passes are not laws. He would say, stick to your Democratic Association. "Nearly all the Democrats in Congress are sick at heart, because the President will not attempt to help himself. He still clung to the vilest of the vile, Edwin M. Stanton, and to Secretary Seward, who had brought all this trouble and war upon the country. With a thought that Congress would attempt to impeach President Johnson, the Democratic members of Congress were indeed sick at heart. That the Senator had been putting an enemy in his mouth to steal away his brains, is the only excuse we can imagine for language of so violent a character. In regard to his abuse of the President, it is for him

A Reconstructed "Patriarch."

It is utterly impossible for a man in New York to shake hands with a man in Texas but inexorable distance alone prevents us from offering to grasp the dexter of Mr. John H. Reagan. Knowing simply the fact that he was the Rebel Postmaster General, the critic of character would not be likely to pronounce Mr. Reagan particularly smart or sensible; but when we state that he is now raising corn, and cotton, and sweet-potatoes, on his farm near Palestine, Texas, "working steadily with his laborers, white and black," the intelligent reader will perceive that here is a genuine No. 1 patriarch, with no nonsense about him, and as well entitled to a private vine and fig-tree as the longest-bearded old gentleman mentioned in the Old Testament. Without knowing his exact age, we pronounce him, morally at least, a venerable trump, and as good an Isaac or Jacob as can be expected in Texas. We commend him as an excellent example to the patriarchs who are merely disposed to curse God and die of whisky and water; who are hanging around the Washington bar-rooms, thickly enpnciating their praises of the President; who are gallantly engaged in scaring school-marms and burning school houses; who are trying to exist upon Presidential vetoes, which are good neither for the body nor for the soul; who expect to be saved from starvation by acts of Congress; who cease not to lament the loss of the touching patriarchial privilege of selling their own children at public vendue; who wonder where on earth they are in future to find even a tolerable supply of bondmen and bondwomen, without which a patriarch is a mere nobody; who see before them no escape from the dire and dreadful doom of working for a living, which in their opinion is the most exquisitely painful calamity which can befall a human being. Let them look at Reagan, and take courage! Let them contemplate Reagan's corn and potatoes, and pluck up heart! Let them investigate the alleviating virtues of the shovel and the hoe! Let them, like the respectable John, dry their tears, cease their howls, hang up their harps, and partake them-selves, spade in hand, to digging !- N. Y.

Atrocities in South Carolina. A writer whom the New York Exening Fost endorses as responsible, sends from Columbia the statement that "the war is still going on in the upper portion of South Carolina," and supports the assertion by the following statement of facts:

"In Edgenfield and the adjacent districts, two United States soldiers have been killed and several have been wounded lately by persons who rule those districts by force of their ruffianism. The rebel General Geery, who left Lee's army with a few followers before the surrender, and who says he "has never surrendered," was arrested last week for complicity in the atrocities against our troops. He demanded to be treated as a prisoner of war. His "friends" arrived in this city soon after he did, and soldiers in disguise ascertained that these friends not only intended to liberate their general, but that they were to assassinate General Ames. The latter, however, had his house guarded and took proper precautions, so that no vio firing on blue uniforms is almost a nightly occurrence. 'ds at ad tada yourse and of
