THE BEST.

Art thou drowsy, dull, indifferent, Folder of the idle hands, Dreaming o'er the silent falling Of life's measured sands?

Living without air or motion Save thyself to please, Careless as the beasts that perish, Sitting at thine case?

Not for thee the mighty message Rings in startling tone ; Vainly would its pealing accents Strike through hearts of stone.

Sounding o'er the elash and elatter Of this earth's vain din, Unto you that live in earnest, And that work to win.

Thus it speaks: "Aspirant, toilers For some lofty gain,

See ye spend not strength and spirits, Hope and faith in vain!

"All that soars past self is noble-Every upward aim-

Make it nobler yet-the noblest ! An immortal fame !

"Let not good or great content ye, Higher and still higher, Only for the best, the greatest,

Labor and aspire. "Sparning all that's partial, doubtful,

All your vigor bend (Worthiest aim and worthiest effort) To a perfect end !

"Thus have all true saints before ye, All true heroes striven, Reaching for the best and highest Beyond earth to Heaven.'

An Astonished Old Lady.

An old lady whose home is in the country, and who hadn't been in Cincinnati for trading, her principal business being one of the eventful incidents in her life, the pur-chase of a new bonnet.
