Baftsman's Journal.

CLEARFIELD, PA., MAY 29, 1867.

Read, Reflect, and Rush to the Rescue. In seasons when our funds are low, Subscribers are provoking slow, And new supplies keep up the flow, Of dimes, departing rapidly.

But we shall see a sadder sight. When duns pour in from morn till night, Commanding every sixpence bright To be forked over speedily.

Our bonds and due-bills are arrayed-Each seal and signature displayed-The holders vow they must be paid, With threats of "Law and Chancery."

Then to despair we're almost driven; There's precious little use in livin' When our last greenback's rudely riven From hands that held it lovingly.

But larger yet these dues shall grow When interest's added on below Length'ning our chin a feet or so, While gazing at them hopelessly.

'Tis so, that scarce have we begun To plead for time upon a dun, Before there comes one after one, Demanding pay ferociously.

The prospect darkens. On ye brave ! Who would our very honor save ! Waive, Patrons, all your pretexts waive! And pay the Printer cheerfully.

Ah! it would yield us pleasure sweet, A few delinquents now to meet, Asking of us a clear receipt For papers taken regularly.

DROPPING THE "H."-A schoolmaster was hearing one of his pupils read, and the boy, when he came to the word "honor," pronounced it full; the master told him it should be pronounced without the H, as thus, 'onor.

"Very well, sir," replied the lad, "I will "Ay," said the master, "always drop the

The next morning the master's tea, with a hot muffin, had been brought to his desk ;

but the duties of his vocation made him wait till it was cold, when, addressing the same boy, he told him to take it to the fire and heat it.

"Yes, sir," replied the boy, and taking it to the fire he ate it.

Presently the master called for his muffin "I have eaten it as you bade me," replied the boy.

"Eat it ! you scoundrel ! I bade you take it to the fire and heat it.'

"But, sir," answered the lad, "yesterday you told me always to drop the H."

An extra six feet of snow fell, the middle of April, on the track of the pacific Rail-road, in the Sierra Nevada Mountains in California.

A little girl in Sheyboygan, Wis., swallowed a needle over a year ago, and a few days since it came out at her knee.
