SLEEP.

Sleep! gentle sleep! Descend and keep Thy vigils kind o'er those that weep Wipe sorrow's eye, Bid trouble fly, While in thy soothing arms they lie. Visit the child, With accents mild, Until within thy power beguiled, In sweetest rest, Upon thy breast, Rocked in its cozy cradle nest, Its eyelids close, while deep repose Steals far away, all infant woes. Charmer of care!-

Guardian so fair-Watch o'er the poor with pitying care ; And in their dreams, Show them bright scenes, Arcadian vales, and murmuring streams; Drive care away and bid them stay Until the dawning of the day.

At midnight still When in thy will Lie woodland, mountain, vale and hill, In silence creep And slyly peep, And if thou spiest eyes that weep, Exert thy sway, make them thy prey, And till the daylight with them stay.

A Novel Hymn Book.

A traveler called lately about nightfall, at farmer's house near Albany. The owner being from home, and the mother and daughter being alone, they refused to lodge the wavfarer.

"How far, then," said he, "is it to a house to where a preacher can obtain lodging?

"Oh! if you are a preacher," said the lady, "you can stay here."

Accordingly he dismounted, deposited his saddle bags in the house and led his horse to the stable. Meantime the mother and daughter were debating the point as to what kind of a preacher he was.

"He cannot be a Presbyterian," said one, "for he is not dressed well enough." "He is not a Methodist," said the other, for his coat is not the right cut."

"If I could only find his hymn book," said the daughter, "I could soon tell what sort of a preacher he-is," and with that she thrust her hand into the saddle bags, and pulling out a flask of liquor she ex-claimed, 'La! mother, he's a hard-shell Baptist.

One of Josh Billings' maxims: "Rise airly, work hard and late, live on what you can't sell, give nothing awa, and if you do not die ritch, and go the devil, yd may sue me for damages.'

An editor at a dinner table, being asked if he would take some pudding replied, in a fit of abstraction, "Owing to the crowd of other matter, we are unable to find room
