HAVING A LOVER.

Somebody loves me I am sure,
I think I love him too;
If foolish actions are a proof,
Our evidence will do!
I thought we both had common sense,
Yet manage as we may,
We never say the thing we mean,
Nor mean the thing we say.

We sat, but yestereve, alone
With twilight soft and dim,
And though he only mused of me,
And I of only him;
He asked me for my thoughts, and said
That his were with his youth;
Of course, I answered him without A lavish waste of truth.

And always, when he takes a kiss,
Nay, never frown at me!
I know that you've been kissed—at least,
I know you've wished to be!
Yet such very wicked things
Are shocking to the good,
I try to look as horrified
As any lady should.

I wonder if the wedding ring
Would bind or break the charm,
I can't see how, in such a case
It could do any harm.
And then I know that married folks,
Though how I cannot say,
Do manage with their love so well,
It's never in the way!

The very thought afflicts my mind
With such desponding fits,
That if I part with him, I fear
I'll part with half my wits;
And if the priest should make us one,
In name and spirit, too,
I know I'd be beside myself,
So what am I to do?

A young lady went out with a rather timid leaving one evening, and complacently remarking to him that she seldom went out sleighing but what she got chaps on the lips. The young man took the hint and chapped.

"Sam," said one little urchin to another,
"Does your schoolmaster ever give you any reward of merit?" "I suppose he does,"
was the reply; "he gives me a likin' regular, every day, and every day I merit too."

There is an old saying that "a fellow feeling makes us wonderful kind." But that is not always the case. When we find a fellow feeling for our watch, we are by no means inclined to be wonderful kind.

We always thought Zero an excessively low fellow, but we hear that in Minnesota, Mercury is twelve below Zero.
