MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

I want a wife
To cheer my life,
I care not what she lacks in beauty,
So I but find
That she is kind,
And knows and practices her duty.

I want a wife
Who through her life
Was never known to be a flirt;
Who'll bring to me
A recipe
To keep the buttons on a shirt.

If such an one
Dwells beneath the sun,
And will leave all friends behind her,
With the author of this
She'll find true bliss,
By informing him where he may find her.

One of our young readers was taken by his father on a visit to Washington and a call upon the President, who, placing his hand on the head of the six-year-old, said, "Remember that in this country every boy is a candidate for the Presidency." The little fellow was asked what the President said to him. He said, "every boy must bring him some candy to eat."

A lady writer gives the three following as among things that a lady can't do. First, she can't sharpen a lead pencil, second, she can't do up a bundle, and third, she can't carry an umbrella. We may add a fourth. She can't run gracefully, or throw a stone at a cow without doing it awkwardly.

The diameter of the earth multiplied by 108, gives the diameter of the sun; the diameter of the sun multiplied by 108, gives the mean distance of the earth from the sun; and the diameter of the moon multiplied by 108, gives the mean distance of the moon from the earth.

Pretty girl to Charles—"Charley, how far is it round the world? Isn't it twenty-four thousand?" Charles, who addresses pretty girls puts both arms around her—"That's all a mistake, my love; it's only about twenty-four inches." She was all the world to him. "Dear Charley."

An Irishman a short time in this country, was eating boiled green corn. After eating off all the corn, he passed the cob back to the lady who sat at the head of the table saying, "Would you please be so kind as to put some more beans on the stick?"

Two boys fought out a quarrel the other day, and the bigger proved the "best man." "Darn ye," said No. 2, when he found he was used up—"darn ye, if I can't lick ye, I'll make mouths at your sister."

The pursuit of knowledge under difficulties—trying to master the German language by drinking lager beer and eating sauerkraut.

Look at your own bad passions, and you need not go into society to know mankind—for you have seen the world.
