for the farmer.

ABOUT THE DOOR -A bit of shrubbery in the yard, a vine climbing by a trellis, a strip of refreshing green spread from the door, are sure to make a place of greater marketakle value ; which, with many, is a consideration to be thought of before any other. Such need no further appeal to their sense of neatness. But all those who really love the suggestions of beauty for their own sake will not omit the turf patch, the shrubbery, and the hedge and vine, because they make almost any home more attractive and lovely, and cause the sentiments to sprout like the the very leaves and buds themselves. How few stop to consider what a powerful association lies lurking in every simple but familiar object, like a bush, a tree, a bit of grass, or a border of flowers ! They are objects that hold almost as steadily and strongly to home as wife and children ; they are closely associated with these, in fact, and can with difficulty be separated. Therefore . we say to all, "Brush up about the door, and plant near by an object of simple beauty It will bear fruit in the heart a hundred fold."

TRANSPLANTING IN THE NIGHT. - A gentleman anxions to ascertain the offect of transplanting at night, instead of in the day, made an experiment, with the followresult : He transplanted ten cherry trees while in bloom commencing at four o'clock in the afternoon, and transplanting one each hour, until one in the morning. Those transplanted during daylight shed their blossoms, producing little or no fruit, while those planted during the darker portions maintained their condition fully. He' did the same with ten dwarf trees after the fruit was one-third grown. Those transplanted A during the day shed their fruit; those transplanted during the night perfected their crop, and showed no injury for having been removed. With each of these trees he removed some earth with the roots .- The incident is fully vouched for ; and, if a few more similar experiments produce the same result, it will be a strong argument to horticulturalists, gardeners, and fruit growers to do such work entirely at night.

APPLE TREE SUCKERS. - The Working Farmer says : "Many otherwise good orchard are allowed to become defaced, as well as seriously injured, by allowing a profusion of suckers to grow at the base of the trunks. Attempts are some times made to get rid of them by cutting them off down to FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY-GOODS. &C the ground, and leaving considerable portions below in the form of short stumpts. These sprout again and they become as had as ever. A better way is to wait until they invite the attention of their old customers and are in leaf, at which time they are loosened friends. Their stock consists of more readily, and taking each separately in the hands, and placing a thick boot upon it near the tree, they are quickly seperated. If done at that time, they will not be like to sprout again."
