In the very first words of the Constitution, formed by our fathers, it is declared that "We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, esprovide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

Our fathers, in forming for us this Constitution, believed that they had embodied in the forms of law, the highest wisdom, virtue, and intelligence of a whole people. They meant to make the wisdom, the virtue and the intelligence of the people the means against the Government is the highest crime to insure all the blessings required to make | that can be committed," and those engaged us a notion with all the powers necessary in it "should suffer all its penalties."
