for the farmer.

Many farmers have noticed in their fields a large black beetle, with most brilliant dots placed in rows on his back. Dr. Fitch says: "Its eggs produce the corn grub killer. It is a most inveterate foe to the cut-worm, grasping the worm in its strong jaws, and, in spite of its violent writhing and struggles, securely holding it. When it finds these worms in pleary, it gorges and surfeits itself upon them till it is so glutted. and extended as to be scarcely able to stir, for it never knows how to let a cut worm alone when it meets him. It is continually hunting these worms, teeding on nothing else if it can obtain them. Both it and the golden dotted beetle which produces it there fore, should never be harmed.

Autumn Planting of trees is best where there is likely to be a long, mild autumn, but where the winter shuts down suddenly, it is better to plant in spring. Next month the trees will be ready to remove from the nursery, and the ground should be prepared for their reception. A deep, well drained. but not over-rich soil is best. Plow and subsoil, and if possible make the whole piece intended for the orchard so well prepared that a tree will grow in one place as well as in another.

The American Agriculturist tells a story of the means by which a farmer always succeeded in raising a larger and fatter hog than any of his neighbors with whom he was competing. It was found that he made use of jealousy as a tonic. After the big hog had eaten all it wanted, he would let a poor little pig into the pen, when the fat one would fight it off, and continue eating, to prevent the other gesting any food.

GRAPES. - Market growers often gather the fruit as soon as it is colored and before it is fully rine. Some varieties, like the Diana, are eatable when only partly ripe. Full maturity is shown by the stem assuming a ripe appearance and losing its stiffness, allowing the bunches to hang directly d wn from the vine. Use seissors in gathering, and handle the fruit as little as possi-

MANURING. - Nurserymen who raise the best trees pass between the nursery rows with a plow and turn a shallow furrow, in which a well decomposed compost is distributed and earth thrown back. In this way the land is kept in excellent condition.

Budding may continue as long as the bark of the stock will lift or "run," which it will do with peaches and quince stocks this month. Examine previous buddings and loosen the bandages if need be. Where buds failed, put in others, if not too late.

Have you sufficient shelter for all animals to be wintered over? If not provide them at once. It is a bad policy to let them stand out in the cold. Repair all out-buildings that need it.
