for the farmer.

Let us Raise Good Stock.

Why is it that on so many of the farms throughout the country, farms of which no person need be ashamed, and which in most every particular except this one, show the unquestionable sign of good farming, the stock exhibits the unmistakable evidence of neglect and inattention in breeding? There is no doubt that it is generally the result of carelessness, or that it arises from the mistaken idea often entertained by farmers, that "it will not pay" to devote more attention and expense to this branch of their business.

How very much mistaken are those who indulge in this idea, for that it will cost no more to keep a well-bred animal than one of an inferior quality is an undisputed fact and very often it is the case that that breed of animals which is particularly distinguished for some excellent quality, consume less than those which are their decided inferiors. Hence it follows from this, that it is possible to keep more well-bred animals upon a certain quantity of food than those of an inferior quality.

Having thus proved that it is poor economy, in relation to the quantity of food consumed, to keep an inferior animal, I shall now speak of some of the other advantages which well-bred animals have over inferior.

Take, for example, two oxen, one of which is well-bred and well cared for, the other an ill-bred, ill cared for, inferior animal, and notice the vastly greater ease and celerity with which the former will do his work in comparison to the latter. In like manner take two cows and notice the difference in the quantity and quality of their milk. Also, in relation to fattening qualities, observe how much quicker and with what greater facility the well-bred animals may be fattened, and to what greater weight they may be brought than those which are inferior to them. But some may say that it is necessary, in order to obtain these well-bred animals, to invest more money than they care about doing. It is true that in some cases it is necessary to expend a certain amount, but this, when properly invested, will soon be repaid. But it often happens that it is not necessary to expend anything, for there are doubtless some of your neighbors who possess better bred males than yourself, and often by thus interchangiug great benefits may ensue.

Such a method as this would benefit only those who raise their own breeding stock; but those who buy their stock and sell the young, generally run a risk of obtaining some inferior animals .-Germantown Telegraph.

Hams .- After hams have been smoked, take them down, and thoroughly rub the fleshy part with molasses, then immediately apply ground pepper, by sprinkling on as much as will stick to the molasses, when they must be hung up to dry. Hams treated in this manner will keep perfectly sweet for two or three years. This must be done before the fly deposits its eggs, for after that is done nothing will stop their ravages. The above has been practiced in our section for twenty years. No soaking is necessary. One pint of molasses and one and a half or two pounds of black pepper are sufficient for any ordinary

SCABBY LEG IN FOWLS .- "G. P." of Amite, La., writes: "My fowls have been troubled in this way. We call it Gout. My remedy is turpentine, applied, say twice a week, with a small brush or swab. Whoever makes the application must be careful not to let the turpentine run down along the toes as it is apt to make them bleed. Three weeks will be about the time required for the entire disappearance of the

To FILL HOLES IN TREES,-Clean out all the rotten wood you can get at, then fill the cavity with cement made COFFEES that cannot be beat. up to the consistency it is used for mortar. Another plan is to fill the hole nearly full of a composition made of tough clay and fresh horse-dripping, and then finish with the cement, which should project outward, and on the side enough to afford protection.

BAKED HAM .- Most persons boil ham. It is much better baked, if baked right. Soak it for an hour in clean water, and wipe it dry; spread it all over with thin batter, and then put it into a deep dish with sticks under it, to keep it out of the gravy. When it is fully done take off the skin and batter upon the flesh side, and set it away to cool.

APPLES .- Take firm, well flavored apples, such as pippins, etc., pare, quarter, and boil until tender, but not so long as to break in pieces. Then add as much sugar as will sweeten to taste, and let the whole boil up once or twice. Fill the cans or jars and seal well. Few articles for winter dessert or the teatable will be found more delicate.
