Raftsmen's Journal.

S. J. HOW, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

CLEARFIELD, PA., DEC. 9, 1868.

Our Electoral College.

Twenty-six Republican Electors of this Commonwealth assembled at Harrisburg on Wednesday, December 2, 1868, all present. Hon. T. M. Marshall of Allegheny was selected to preside, accepting the honor in a brief but pertinent address which recognized the principle of Liberty under the Law...

The Right Spirit.

Judge Field, of Trenton, New Jersey, seems to have the "back bone" to meet the question of naturalization frauds, in the right spirit. He does not view the issuing of fraudulent papers with the leniency which forms such a remarkable feature in the rulings of New York and Pennsylvania Judges.

Progress of the Revolution.

Late advices from Cuba state that the Insurgents had destroyed the aqueduct which supplies Santiago de Cuba with water, and were besieging the town of Manzanillo. Santiago and Manzanillo are among the most important towns of the Island...

FRANCE.—Napoleon's throne trembles—the people murmur—the police are vigilant—newspapers are suppressed—Europe watches and waits the result. Will "the nephew of his uncle" safely ride through the rising waters, or will the streets of Paris again run with blood and a new government be proclaimed?

COLORADO.—The Republicans of Colorado ask that their Territory be admitted as a State on such terms as Congress may impose. The opposition desire to dictate the terms. It is not difficult to see which will win.

SWEET AWAY.—The unfortunate railroad bridge at Omaha has again been swept away, thirty six hours after its completion. Five hundred freight cars, however, passed over it before its exit.

REPORTED.—that E. A. Pollard, author of the "Lost Cause," has been appointed to a clerkship in the New York Custom House. That's the way to "make treason odious," eh?

JUST SO!—Andrew Johnson will no longer be Alderman of his little village of Greenville. It is Republican by two hundred majority. "Pity the sorrows of a poor old man."

TEXAS.—To show where Texas stands on the Union question, it is only necessary to say that Galveston is the only place in the State where greenbacks pass current.

The Incoming Administration.

As the official career of Andrew Johnson draws nearer to an end, no little interest is being manifested respecting the formation of a Cabinet, and the line of policy that will be pursued by the new President. The Democracy are flatter themselves with the idea that he will ignore the "Radicals," and will refuse to consult even the more moderate Republicans in matters pertaining to his Administration of the Government.

Republican Fairness.

Charleston, South Carolina, recently gave an exhibition of fair dealing in politics, which is quite refreshing in these days of stupendous frauds upon the ballot-box. After a trial of two weeks, the result in the recent municipal election was declared null and void. Of the merits of the contest we know nothing, and will not attempt to pronounce upon them—only desiring to recall the fact that the tribunal which pronounced the decision was a Republican Board of Councils, and that they declared against the election of a Republican ticket.

DOWN ON "NICKELS."—It is said that the United States Treasurer threatens warfare against some of the nickel coins, and the Postoffice Department against the rest of them. Then, farewell nickels; your days are numbered, and you will soon be among the things that were.

Sheridan and the Indians.

Sheridan rides again. The boldest and best cavalry leader of our army has started on a campaign against the Indians. Thus far every attempt to reduce these wild men to decent behaviour has failed. Good soldiers have lost their laurels in this unprofitable field, and so ugly is the problem, that there is perhaps no other man in the army but Sheridan who would really covet the responsibility of solving it.

Everybody will follow Sheridan's new expedition with interest. He has about three thousand men, and part of them are experienced borderers. He has with him such Generals as Sully and Custer, and his own training has been in part in Indian warfare. He is pushing toward the Indian campsments with his known energy and rapidity, and though croakers prophesy evil of his undertaking, we already have the news of a victory over a band of Indians, thus having done more than any other General has ever done to prevent the chronic warfare which harasses our western border.

The Cost of Indian Wars.

The Black Hawk war in 1831-32 cost about $5,000,000 and 4,000 lives. The Seminole war lasted seven years, and cost $100,000,000 and 15,000 lives. The Indians numbered less than a thousand warriors, and some of them were moved away, and about 300 still remain in the everglades. The Creek war cost $1,000,000. The Sioux war in 1852 cost $40,000,000 and 300 lives. In 1864 a Cheyenne and Sioux war cost $60,000,000 and 1,000 lives. In 1867 there was another Cheyenne war, which has cost $10,000,000, and is not yet settled.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.—Early on the morning of December 5th, the steamers "United States" and "America," collided two miles above Florence, on the Ohio River. The United States having some petroleum on board, which ignited when the America struck her, both boats were soon on fire and burnt to the water's edge—the latter, however, ran ashore in time to save most of her passengers, and part of those from the other boat. Some seventy-five persons lost their lives by the disaster, which was caused by a misunderstanding of the signals given.

A Constantinople letter to the New York Herald gives an account of the sentiments entertained by the Turkish government and people for the United States and their anxiety about the policy this country may pursue toward the Ottoman Empire. The Turkish government appreciates the greatness and power of the American Republic, and seeing no probable cause for any serious difficulty between the two countries, it is desirous of maintaining most friendly relations, and of disabusing the public mind here of any erroneous impressions with regard to Turkey.

The charter election for Mayor and Corporation Counsel of New York city took place on Tuesday last week. The Republican nominations were Col. Frederick A. Conkling for Mayor and Darius B. Eaton for Corporation Counsel. They were opposed by A. Oakley Hall and Richard O'Gorman. Hall was elected by 54,000 majority, and O'Gorman was also elected. As the Republicans had no expectation of carrying the city they do not feel disappointed.

The bee raisers in the vicinity of Louisville, for a circuit of twenty-five miles, were recently startled by the discovery that their bees had all simultaneously deumped going no one knew whither. The mystery is still unsolved. The deserted hives were all full of honey, containing from sixty to seventy-five pounds each. The opinion of a majority of the bee raisers was that the unusual mildness of the season deluded the bees into their mysterious migration.

At White Pine, Nevada, lumps of silver ore are used as a circulating medium, and are found to answer very well in the absence of a sufficiency of coin. Even at the gambling table ore is used. The kind of ore employed is the pure chloride, which is so rich as to be quite malleable. A miner with a sack of this kind of currency under his arm marches up to a faro table, takes out a piece and plants it on a card, calling its value as he puts it down.

It is a proof of the absurdity of much of the current Cabinet making, that Gen. Grant has already received letters advising him to appoint both Robert E. Lee and Horatio Seymour to positions in his Cabinet, for the reason that it would, in the opinions of the writers have a very harmonizing and mollifying effect upon the people who opposed his election.

The population of Great Britain seems to be nearly at a stand still. The latest official returns give England twenty-one millions, Ireland five millions, and Scotland three millions. In the United States the population is rapidly and steadily increasing, so that in a few years it will very likely double that of Great Britain.

Washington City Gossip.

Congress assembled on Monday last. At 12 o'clock the House was called to order. Some wag intimates that President Johnson would be an acceptable candidate for the Spanish throne, because he has all his life been "putting the Bourbon down."

Attorney General Everts has given his official opinion that the recent eight hour law passed by Congress cannot determine the price to be paid for a day's labor, which must be measured by its value (the same as a bushel of corn or an ounce of gold). It is probable that this elemental principle of law was well known and understood by the legislators when they passed the bill.

Phil Sheridan concurs with Gen. Sherman that the Indian business should be under the sole direction of the War Department—as "the Peace Commissioners, the Indian Department, the military and the Indians make a very bulky team."

Many of the Democratic office holders anticipated their retention by the new President. To those who know anything of Gen. Grant, such an idea seems absurd. His nature is positive, not negative. He is a cordial hater when necessary, as well as an ardent friend. Moreover, Grant has no faith in the Democrats. In private conversation he speaks of them habitually as "copper heads." Said a friend to him recently, "General, I see the Democratic papers are claiming you for their President." "Ah," said Grant, "I never see them now nor read them. The last Democratic paper I saw had an editorial denouncing me as a drunkard."

Under a recent Act of Congress, the members of the XLth Congress will organize their House on the 4th day of March next, instead of deferring it to December as before the passage of that Act. This will ensure reasonable action upon the constitutional claims of Maryland and Kentucky to an excessive representation, in case that question should be ignored at the preceding session.

A grand enterprise is recommended in a letter written by General Hoecners. He proposes a railroad from El Paso, in the valley of the Rio Grande, to a point on the Rio Colorado, where connection could be made with the Southern Pacific or San Diego and Gila City Railway, of California. The Northern States of Mexico would, it is asserted, connect with this route, and obtain all their supplies and machinery for the development of the immense mineral resources of that region.

Judge Chase has decided that wherever dividends of loyal railroad stockholders were confiscated by the Confederate Government during the war, such stockholders are entitled to such dividends, and the company must pay them. This process, it will be remembered, was a favorite method during the war of robbing Union men.

A Battle with Indians.

Gen. Sheridan is giving the hostile Indians on the Southwestern plains a touch of his mettle. On the 23d of November he arrived at the scene of operations in the western part of the Indian territory, some seventy miles south of the Kansas line, and adjacent to the Northwestern portion of Texas. He immediately ordered Gen. Custer, with eleven companies of U. S. Cavalry to move against the Indians and attack them wherever found. After a severe march of four days through a snow storm Gen. Custer reached a village of Black Kettle's band of Cheyennes, Arapahoes, and Sioux, consisting of fifty one lodges. A hard battle ensued in which the Indians fought with desperation but were utterly routed. The Indian loss was one hundred and three warriors killed and fifty-three women and children captured, besides their stock, arms, lodges and ammunition. Nearly one thousand head of cattle were taken. Black Kettle himself was killed. Gen. Custer's loss was twenty-one killed, and fifteen wounded including several officers. This punishment was well deserved as the Indians had been spreading havoc through the country, killing and destroying everything that came in their way. Sheridan is still pushing forward toward the winter quarters of the Indians, and unquestionably his vigorous policy will ensure safety to white settlers and travellers, and compel the enemy to sue for peace.

PEDESTRIANISM.—The pedestrian Payne last week walked one hundred miles in nineteen hours, fifty-eight minutes and three seconds, at the skating rink in Buffalo, New York. The track was about three feet in width, covered with tan bark, and the foot-hold was not the best. The feat was completed in twenty-three hours and a half. The stops, amounting to three hours, thirty one minutes and fifty seconds, making the actual walking time nineteen hours, fifty-eight minutes and three seconds—the fastest time in which the feat of walking one hundred miles has ever been performed.

Some months ago a girl in a Milwaukee hotel, is said to have taken such good care of a sick Eastern young man that, when he recovered he gave her all he had left, a lottery ticket, that unexpectedly drew a prize of $5,750, with which sum the girl went to school in a convent. The young man afterwards proposed to her, by letter, and the wedding day is fixed.

John Nevin, a native of Ireland, and living with his son at Underhill, Vermont, is said to be one hundred and seventeen years old, and yet is as vigorous as a man of sixty. He has worked on his son's farm during the past season. He is the father of thirteen children, the "baby" of the family being fifty years old.

The lumber business of Burlington, Vt., is immense, four firms employing nearly six hundred hands. It takes nearly $3,000,000 annually to transact the business in that line.

A Little of Everything.

Query—who stole the parson's turkey? The pannier dress is now called the "dromedary" style. Minnesota has spent $10,000 on wolf scalps this year. An exchange advertises for "a good boy to make a devil of."

In their quarters—the new Prothonotary, Register and Commissioner. The snow is nearly two feet deep all over the upper Mississippi country. Napoleon is now supposed to be the readiest man for war in all the world.

There are two women who are students at the Agricultural College of Iowa. New York and London are said not to possess a Jewish beggar among them. People are married in New York at the rate of one pair and a half per hour.

Five cents a pound is considered a good price for venison in Western Missouri. Pedestrians crossed the Missouri on the ice at Omaha on the 20th of November. A rarity—a man who drinks whiskey at all, and then refuses to drink mind whiskey.

Still not in town—our railroad. When will it reach here? Echo answers, when? There are four hundred and twenty four soldier clerks in the New York Post Office. "There are two sides to this question," as the girl said when she turned a buckwheat cake.

At Ridgeway, N. C., several gentlemen have started a little peach orchard of 200,000 trees. Ripe strawberries were gathered on the James river, Va., as late as the 6th of November.

Three hundred women, graduates of medical colleges, are now practicing in this country. A Connecticut minister lately married two couples and was married himself the same day.

One editor in Paris is said to work but seven hours every fortnight, and to get $16,000 a year.

Covered with snow—the mud-holes in our streets. We presume the Boro' Dads have no objection.

Sixty-five years ago the "stove pipe" hats worn were just the same style as those of the present day.

Run off the bridge—the cars at Clearfield creek, last week. Certainly; on to the track on this side.

A Vermont editor writes obituary notices of delinquent subscribers, and in this way brings them to life.

Three millions of pieces, worth nearly half a million of dollars, were coined at the Philadelphia Mint last week.

The American College at Rome wants the Catholics of the United States to send it $300,000 to keep it going.

A Louisville paper speaks of a lawyer of that place, who "hung out his shingle as a tinker of defective titles."

A young lad being asked why the noun bachelor is singular, replied, "because it's very singular they don't get married."

The expenditures of the Patent Office during the past year exceeded the receipts by only one hundred and seventy-one dollars.

An ardent antiquarian wants to know where you can find any modern buildings which have lasted as long as the ancient ones.

The tax rate for Philadelphia next year has been increased from one dollar and forty to one dollar and eighty cents on one hundred dollars.

A Democratic editor says "all his shots are directed at error." It is all he has to shoot at, for he never gets within gunshot of the truth.

In Westfield, Chatauque county, New York, ten men, the total of whose ages was more than eight hundred and fifty years, voted for Grant.

The Washington dandy who married Hole-in-the-day, the Indian chief, is now a penniless widow, seeking for a chance to do housework in Minnesota.

Eight thousand buildings have been erected in Chicago this year, at a cost of $25,000,000. Among these were twenty-five churches, costing $2,000,000.

It being mentioned that our members of Congress, in order to "retrench," intend giving up the franking privilege, an exchange says, "then the millennium must be approaching."

Gen. Grant declines, it is said, to continue the stay law in force after the first of the year in Virginia. So Northern men can collect their debts in that State, and seize and hold lands.

A few days ago, in the eastern part of Jefferson county, Ky., a gang of seven ruffians violated the persons of two negro girls, shot them dead and then threw their bodies into a creek. Six of the gang have been arrested and committed to jail.

A newspaper at Salem, Oregon, says it is called upon to deny "the rumor that the steamboat owners had employed a street sprinkler to lay the dust in the bed of the Willamet river, for one of the company had dampened his feet in walking from shore to shore in woolen socks."

The experimental firing at Fort Monro has been completed, and the reported result is that none of the targets had sufficient strength to resist the ponderous balls that were discharged by the heavy ordnance used. The targets were built of granite and of earth faced with iron.
