

For the Farmer.

Walking Horses. The best gait a horse ever had for every day use is a good walk. It is a gait that not one in ten possesses. Colts are not trained to walk in all the Eastern States. Young America wants more speed. Kentucky has more good walking horses than any other State, for there horseback traveling has long been in fashion for men and women, over a country where muddy roads, at times, render any other gait impossible, and so horses have been bred for the saddle and trained to a walking gait. This is also the case in all the western States, and perhaps might have been so in New England when our grandmothers rode to meeting on a pillion behind our grandfathers. But one-horse wagons have put horseback riding out of fashion, and now a good walking horse is more rare than one that can trot a mile in 2-40. At the Springfield (Mass.) Horse Show of 1860, the writer was one of the committee to award prizes to the best walking horses. Out of seventeen entered, the committee found but one which was considered a first rate walker. This was a Morrill mare, which walked five miles an hour with ease. Two others were fair walkers, and the rest knew no gait that could be called walking. At the New York State Fair the same state of facts was again developed. A letter from Wisconsin says: "I think horses trained to walk fast would be a greater benefit to our farmers in general than fast trotters, as almost all their work has to be done with a walk." I once knew a man in Massachusetts who, before the railroads were built, kept from two to four teams at work on the road, and never allowed them to trot at all, and made the distance in quicker time than his neighbors, who made their horses trot at every convenient place. He said that when a horse commenced to walk after a trot, he walked much slower than his usual gait, if kept on a walk, and thereby lost more than he gained. Will farmers think of this, and pay more attention to walking horses.—Farmer's Home Journal.

THE HOG.—The hog, which is really the most helpless of animals, is blamed for being an uncleanly beast but our word for it, he looks as tidy as he can under his disadvantages. Many farmers devote more time, in a single day, to keeping a pair of horses clean, than they give to a dozen hogs during their lives. The hog is placed in a clean stable, is curried and brushed every morning, and has a new bed to rest on every night. Not so with the hog; he is often shut up in a tight pen, with less room than is allowed culprits in a dungeon, and compelled to stand and lie on his accumulated filth. Give the horse or cow no better advantages, and will they present a more cleanly appearance? Put your pet horse or your choice cow in your hog yard one night, and where is their sleekness then? They will look even worse than the hog. We have tried it, and have never known a hog to decline a well made up bed of clean oat straw. On the contrary, they will busy themselves in arranging it to protect them both from the dirt and cold.

SHORT RULE TO MEASURE GRAIN.—An exchange says: It is convenient to farmers and croppers to have an easy and correct rule by which to measure corn in cribs. Here is one—having leveled the corn in the crib, measure the length, breadth and depth, and multiply them together, and deduct from the product one-fifth; and you have the number of bushels in the ear—for shelled corn take one-half of this. To be strictly correct add half a bushel for every one hundred. Farmers who are fond of cyphering can test the correctness of this rule by taking 1,728 solid inches for a foot, and 2,150 inches in a bushel, and see that the latter is nearly one-fifth larger than the former.

FATTENING CALVES.—A sensible practical farmer says that he has noticed that calves would thrive better on poor than on rich milk. The nutritive elements of milk reside chiefly in the caseine. If you have a cow that gives very rich milk, and one that gives a quality poorer in butter it is better in every way to feed the calf on the milk of the latter. The calf will thrive better, and you will get more butter from the milk of the first cow.

Somebody has denominated Indian corn the great farm lever. It is certainly a useful product, but not quite so good for bread as wheat, to a Northern palate. Pack winter apples in dry sand placed in a cellar; they will keep plump and fresh and rot little.
