The Governor's Message.

On the first page of to-day's paper will be found Gov. Geary's annual message. Although it is a rather lengthy document, it will be read with interest by all. The many interests of the Commonwealth are discussed in a truthf l and conscientious manner, and the facts set forth evince much labor and research on the part of the Governor.

The financial condition of the Commonwealth presents a very encouraging aspect. On December 1st, 1867, the State debt funded and unfunded, was $37,704,409 77, of which there has been paid during the year an active and efficient officer. ending December 1st, 1868, $4,417,463 64, Commonwealth $33,206,916,13, with a bal- able for State purposes, amounts to $202,-Nov. 30, 1868. One of the most important recommendations in the message, is that of the passage protect the sanctity of the ballot-box. The immense frauds perpetrated in the last political campaign are so fresh in the memory of all as to preclude their reiteration; and, to prevent their recurrence, the people look to the present legislature for prompt relief, on the subject.

The system of education, the common schools, the agricultural college, soldier's orphans' schools, the militia, pardons, and other topics have been carefully reviewed by drawn. It is a hardship to do without the ever. The legislative branch is the only used as a door weight, thereby causing it to the Governor, and will repay a careful perusal by our readers.

Upon the whole, this message is one of the most satisfactory ever issued by a State executive-the various subjects being treated in a frank, comprehensive, high-minded, and liberal spirit, and worthy the Governor of this great central Commonwealth.

Arkansas Troubles.

The report of the officers whom General Grant sent down to Arkansas to investigate the condition of affairs there vindicates the actions of Governor Clayton completely. These gentlemen, Generals Babcock and Porter, emphatically testify that the rebel malignity and lawlessness was such as to fully justify the Governor in calling out the militia; that he prudently forbore to do so prejudicing the Republican cause, and although at that time many murders of prominent Radicals were being committed, and the Governor himself and many others compelled to sleep in the State House under guard for fear of assassination. The Generals testify further that although many of the Governor's friends thought he was rash and injudicious in calling out the militia, they now admit that the result has proved that he was wiser than they; things have turned out better than they expected, crime and murder being repressed, and the best people of all parties gradually rallying to the support of law and order. Thus are the rebel and Conservative calumnies about Clayton and the Arkansas Republicans confuted by impartial witnesses.

The U.S. Treasury.

The Secretary's estimate of $303,000,000, for the expenses of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1870, are to be cut down by Congress to an outside figure of $290,000,000. The receipts into the Treasury for the same year are estimated by the Secretary to reach $341,000,000, showing a net balance of $51,-000,000, to be applicable to the reduction of the public debt. But other estimates equally reliable put the probable receipts at $350 .-000,000, with a possible increase of even another hundred millions under an honest collection of the revenue; all applicable to a still farther reduction of the debt. Thus we have, upon all the showings from every quarter, good reasons to anticipate a surplus ranging from $51,000,000 up to $151,000. 00), and which will be directly at plicable to ! the diminution of the public obligations. For this encouraging outlook, and for the auspicions promise of its reality, the country is already indebted to the incoming new order of things.

Hon, David A. Wells, Special Commissioner of Internal Revenue, has sent a report to Congress which covers very important statements based upon thorough and extensive investigations.
