How to Make Farming Profitable. Except in the neighborhood of large cities, High Farming may not pay, owing to the fact that we have so much land. But F whether this is so or not, there can be no doubt that the only profitable way of farming is to raise large crops on such land as we cultivate. High farming gives us large crops and many of them. At present, while we have so much land in proportion to population, we must, perhaps, be content with large crops of grain, and few of them. We must adopt the slower but less expensive means of enriching our land from natural sources, rather than the quicker, more artificial means adopted by many farmers in England, and by market gardeners, seedgrowers, and nurserymen in this country. Labor is so high that we cannot afford to raise a small crop. If we sow but half the number of acres and double the yield, we should quadruple our profits. I have made up my mind to let the land lie in clover for three years instead of two. This will lessen the number of acres under cultivation, and enable us to bestow more care in plowing and cleaning it. And the land will be richer and produce better crops. The atmo. phere is capable of supplying a certain quantity of ammonia to the soil in rains and dews every year, and by giving the wheat crop a three years supply instead of two years, we gain so much. Plaster the clover, top dress it in the fall, if you have the manure, and stimulate its growth in every way possible, and consume all the clover on the land or in the barn-yard. Do not sell a single ton; let not a weed grow, and the land will certainly improve.

The first object should be to destroy the weeds. I do not know how it is in other sections, but with us the majority of farms are completely overrun with weeds. They are eating out the life of the land, and it something is not done to destroy them, even the present high prices cannot make farming profitable. A farmer the other day was contending that it did not pay to summer fallow. He has taken a run down farm. and a year ago last spring, he had plowed up ten acres of a field, and sowed it in barley and oats. The remainder of the field he summer fallowed, plowing it four times and harrowing thoroughly after each plowing. After the barley and oats were off, he plowed the land once, barrowed it and sowed Mediterranean wheat. On the summer-fallow he drilled in Diehl wheat. He has just threshed and got 22 bushels per acre of the Mediterranean wheat after the spring crop, at one plowing, and 26 bushels per acre of Diehl wheat on the summer-fallow. This, he said, would not pay, as it cost him $20 per acre to summer-fallow, and he lost the use of the land for one season. Now this HARRIS' CELEBRATED SEAMmay be true, and yet it is no argument against summer-fallowing. Wait a few years. Farming is slow work. Geddes remarked to me, when I told him I was trying to renovate a run down farm, "you will find it the work of your life." We ought not to expect a big erop on poor, run down land, simply plowing it three or four times in as many months. Time is required for the chemical changes to take place in the soil. But watch the effect on clover for the next two years, and when the land is plowed again see if it is not in 'ar better condition than the part not summer fallowed. I should expect the clover on the summer-fallow to be fully one third better in quantity and of better quali ty than on the other part, and this extra quality of clover will make an extra quantity of good manure, (and there will be more clover roots in the land), and thus we have the means of going on and improving the farm. -J. Harris.

VALUABLE HINT .- A correspondent of the New Hampshire Furmer says: "Repeated trials on as many different pieces of land, and each trial a complete success have FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC MERCHANDISE, convinced us that December, the time that we invariably out brush, is the best season. as at that time the growth of the year is evidently at an end. A piece of valuable pasture land of ours, overrun with bushes which had been many times cut over in December, 1861, and at this time, a period of nearly seven years, not a bush has sprouted or started, and the land, though moist, is well stocked with grass."

THE HENERY. -Those not fully up to all the requirements of the "Henery" should remember that if they desire a liberal crop of eggs in Spring the lowls must be fed with raw meat chopped fine, not less than twice a week. They should also have a constant supply of gravel, also old mortar, lime or ground bones. They should be kept warm -the house should have a southern exposure, if possible, with window lights, to shift when necessary.

Poisonous Potatoes.-The sprouts of the potato contain an alkaloid, termed by chemists solanine, which is very poisonous if taken into the system. This does not exist in the tubers, unless they are exposed to the light and air, which sometimes occurs from the accidental removal of the earth in cultivation. A potato that shows a blackish green tint on one side should never be cooked for the table or fed to stock.

Insects injurious to vegetation, it is stated, can be destroyed by application of a liquid composed of one part vinegar and nine parts water. The mixture should be applied to vines and plants with a garden syringe or waterpot with a fine nozzle.

To REMOVE "PROUD FLESH."-Pulverize loaf sugar very fine, and apply it to the part affected. This is a new and easy remedy, and is said to remove it entirely, without pain. It has been practiced in England for years.

A Maine farmer, after many trials says he gets the most milk, and the best butter when he feeds his cows sweet corn, cut green and well cured in the shock.

A farmer at home should be found, And often looking at his ground-Inspecting fields, repairing fence -
