Select Loetry.

ASPIRATIONS.

Our sims are all too high; we try To gain the summit at a bound, When we should reach it step by step, And climb the ladder round by round. He who would climb the height sublime. Or breathe the pure air of life. Must not expect to raise in ease. But brace himself for toil or strife.

We should not in our blindness seek, To grasp alone for grand and great, Disdaining every smaller good, For trifles make the aggregate. And if a cloud should hover o'er Our weary pathway like a pall, Remember God permits it there, And His good purpose reigns o'er all.

Life should be full of earnest work. Corhearts undashed by fortune's frown; Let perseverance conquer fate, And merit seize the victor's crown. The battle is not to the strong. The race not always to the fleet, And he who seeks to pluck the stars, Will lose the jewels at his feet.

A MORNING GLORY.

I think I was never more surprised in my lite than when, about a a month ago, Frank Esterhazy came rushing into my office in his id, ioyous, off-hand way, and after a crushing hand shake, began to tumble my papers about, and play with my keys just as naturally as if he hadn't been in South America for the last three years, out of everybody's reach, and almost out of everybody's mind.

It fairly made me feel like a boy again to see Frank sitting there telling his adventures. He had led a roving life back and forth between Chili and Peru, it seemed, seizing every opportunity for trade; now with United States goods, and now with native diamonds; and he had something to do with that great railroad that leaped a mountain gorge, planned by one of his own country's engineers. Frank had made a fair fortune by it all, in ingots and ducats, and all manner of foreign teckoning, and here he was,a fine brenzed fellow of twenty-nine, in the very glory of life, all the drudgery done, with the world before him where to choose.

Meanwhile I had my own little hi-tory, and Frank wanted to hear all that-the ill I invited Frank to stay and go up to dinner I mentioned it to Gertie. with me, to see my household goods for himself.

But, no : he was in a great hurry to leave the city-meant to go off by the next train, up to a little village two hundred miles distant, where some of his folks used to live. That being as much like home as any place. he said, and he was restless-must go at once. He was in glorious spirits, took the most cheerful view of life, told me not to be discouraged, there was a good time coming vet: and so, in all the bravery of good fortune off he went, and I heard no more of him till last Thursday.

On Thursday he came into my office again, out of him. He sat down in a languid way, kept staring out of the window as if he wasn't interested in anything-said he found him, and he meant to go back to Chili or w Peru, first chance.

"A man has something to make him forrethimself there," he said. "There's alalways a revolution going on, or an earth-

I suggested to him not to be discouraged, there was a good time coming yet. But he deigned no answer, and sat there smoking intregar after another, looking as aimless and gloomy as a perfectly well man can ever possibly look. I went on posting my books, and wondered what could have happened to cut the poor fellow up so. When business was over. I urged him to go home to dinner with me, for I thought maybe a sight of Gertie and Tot would cheer him up a little. Heheld back some, but I took him along with me, finally, If Gertie and I have a hobby, it is our home. Every nook and corner in it is dear tous, and it has been such a pleasure to furnish it all, and to get one little comfort or luxury after another, as our means allowed. And Gertie is a prime little manager; I feel proud of her whenever any of my friends fine things since then." drop in to see how we get along.

Gertie was at the window watching, with her boy in her arms, and came to meet us, velcoming Esterhazy as charmingly as possible. Frank is too gentlemanly a fellow to be morose before ladies, so he made himself agreeable, and really got into quite a frolic with Tot after dinner. But when the child was sent off to bed, then the melancholy look deepened down in his eyes again, and that, combined with his winning deference and teady kindness, completely won Gertie's sympathy, and she exerted herself to make the evening pass pleasantly to him.

Frank looked around at some of our little knick knacks in the parlor-a tiny Swiss carving or two, a green bronze of an imp, and a pair of Italian statuettes.

"I have some trifles in my trunk," he said make you a present of them, Dick-some | pointed to eleven. queer Indian puzzles, and a set of chessmen cut in ivory, real little miracles in their

Gertie's eyes shone, for she loved dainty tered sunshine, and see how the thick gold- He looked like a man in a trance.

en leaves hang trembling over the water. There's a flash of the true artist fire in that -ch, Frank!"

He seemed to feel no interest in it at all. "I beg your pardon," he said wearily ; "I believe my thoughts were wandering when you spoke. That's pretty wall paper you have -a morning-glory vine isn't it?"

"Yes," answered Gertie; "and don't you think its very graceful? I was struck with the pattern in the store, and chose it out of all the rest. I always did like morning glo-

"But they fade quick," said Frank, taking two or three restless turns, and then coming back to the fireside.

"Oh, Dick," exclaimed Gertie, with one of her coaxing smiles. "Speaking of pictures just reminds me of something. You havn't much to do to-morrow-you know you haven't, and why won't you take me around to the different picture galleries? You promised me the first leisure day, and I nor the other one that everybody is talking complain. And he has given up the idea of about."

I demurred a little, thinking of some possible business emergencies.

"I am sure a day out will do you good," said Gertie, getting in earnest. "Seeing beautiful things improves people, and I am sure we ought to want to be improved."

She said this with a philosophic air that overcame me, and I consented, in my heart willingly enough, to go art-hunting the next day, always providing that the sun shone. I asked Frank Esterhazy if he wouldn't join us, and Gertie seconded the invitation.

"I don't know much about pictures," he said, smiling at her, "but a day with such friends will be pleasure in itself. I have business trips to make in two or three directions, to prosecute some inquiries, but Fri day is an unlucky day to start on a journey, they say; so I will stop over twenty-four hours, and go sight-seeing with you. I don't know but that I am beginning to be supersti-

"I don't see why Friday should be unlucky," said Gertie lightly. "It is really Venus day, you know-the day of love." So the next day at ten o'clock, Esterhazy dropped into my office, and a few moments after, Gertie put in an appearance, looking paid clerkship, the love in a cottage, the like a sweet little daisy. I took my daisy on starting out at last in a small, cautious busi- my arm and away we went, the three of us. ness of my own-the hopes, the fears, and A tew blocks off lay the building occupied the dear home reigned over by my own by the School of design, and I remembered that visitors were free to enter at this hour

"Then let's go in there first," she exclaimed enthusiactically, "and we shall see all their original drawings. They make some this one." of the most exquisite designs you ever saw, people tell me, and there are some young women there who have a wonderful talent."

"Anything to kill time," said Esterhazy, so in we went.

There were not many of the art students present that day, and of those who were, very few seemed to notice us. We walked growing beneath busy fingers. Then one of the teachers gave us the privilege of looking and all his good spirits seemed to be dashed at the portfolios of finished designs. That was really a treat. There were stately Corinthian capitals, with the noble acanthus, friezes, and designs for church windows; his aunts still living up in the village, but it thore were copies of antiques, studies of was a confounded dull little place; in fact, still life, lovely fancies for vases and for sileverything seemed lonesome and strange to ver, and finally we came to what was really the most practical folio, containing an immense number of designs for carpets and for wall paper.

"These," explained the teacher, "are done by such young ladies as wish to earn money at once for their work. Copies of the best are frequently taken by manufacturers, who pay liberally."

We turned them over with some interest -for here, as Gertie, who had been reading a speech on political economy, remarked, women took the rank of producers, instead of mere consumers. Esterhazy politely examined them with us.

"Why, Dick !" suddenly exclaimed Gertie, arresting the turning leaf, "just look! here is the very original of our morning glory wall paper. And see how beautifully it is done; every touch of the crayon was inspiration.

"Yes." remarked the teacher; that is quite a favorite pattern, the manufucturer tells me. It was done two years ago by a poor young girl who had but recently entered the school. She has executed some very

"Where is she?" asked Esterhazy in an unsteady voice, and as I glanced at him in surprise. I saw that his eyes were luminous with feeling.

"The girl, Eleanor Holt? It is not her hour yet; she comes at eleven," replied the teacher.

"I knew her once; I should like to see jewels had been kept. her." said Frank, whose bronzed face was fairly growing pale with excitement. "Certainly, sir." said the obliging teacher; yonder is our reception room. If you will when she comes.' Gertie and I followed Frank to the reception room in mute amazement, but Gertie's self in some way, while committing his denwomanly instincts were on the alert, and she redations. The next moment I picked up a gave me a meaning triumphant glance as we part of an envelope which was saturated said: took our seats. Frank, evidently in the ut- with blood. I examined it closely, and "I am afraid we are in the way," whis- it into my pocket, and turning to the widpered Gertie in my ear.

A moment more and there entered a young lady-a young lady with a sweet, shy face, oddities, and is a real virtuoso in her limited and brooding brown eyes. She did not know who wished to see her, and glanced inquir-"Notice the spray," I said, "and the shat- ingly at Gertie and me, and then at Esterhazy.

"Nellie," he cried, reaching out his arms. "Oh. Frank!"

Gertie and I turned short about and went back into the drawing hall, where we turned over portfolios for a full half hour, and did I have one more question to ask." not grudge it. At the end of that time Frank beckoned to us from the reception room, and we joined him there, to be introduced to the "dearest girl in the world."

"I'd lost her, you see," said Frank radiantly, "but she shan't escape me again." I questioned whether she would ever try to, she looked so very blushing and happy. Gertie was in a rapture, and kissed Miss Holt on the instant. "The morning glories did it," Frank went on to explain. "I never knew much about pictures any way, but Nellie always used to upon which I was engaged. I could not she was sketching morning glories. So much for the luck of a Venus Day! I never saw a more cheerful fellow than Frank Esterhazy is now. He says life is a wonderhaven't seen Bierstadt's new painting yot, ful blessing, and that people never ought to going back to Peru, among the revolutions and earthquakes. He is to be married, you will understand, and Gertie is in a perfect flutter over Eleanor, for six weeks is such a little time to get ready in, she says.

THE PIOUS ROBBER.

During my twenty-five years of actual service as a detective, I have found many boy who have stolen the livery of heaven to serve the devil in.

One morning I stepped into Chief Matsell's office, having just returned from the West, when I was accosted by the Chief. work shead ' exclaimed.

"No, it's a robbery; or, as I should say series of robberies." "Where?" "Bond street."

"What not on Bond street!" I cried, astonished, for in my absence I had heard of frequent robberies being committed on that

"Yes, Harry, this is the tenth robbery he going to gambling hell? nside of two weeks," replied Matsall. "Can it be fathomed?"

"I know not; in fact we had no one to work it up.

"Where's Bolt and Knight?" "On that murder case in Newark."

'And Charley Ross?' "He has just finished the Chatterton forgery case, and is expected here to morrow. So, Howard you will have to work up

"I'll try it, but I cannot go to work till morning, for I must rest." "All right," returned the Chief, and I left the headquarters. The many robberies which had taken place on Bond street were very mysterious, and no trace could be had of the depredator, for they seemed to have been commitquietly behind some of the desks, glancing ted by one pers on. Detectives from Philaover shoulders at the exquisite creations delphia worked at the case for a while, but went home no wiser than they came.

I had worked up many detective cases, and was considered a first-rate detectivethat is by our Chief-and nearly all the mysterious and intricate work was placed in my hands.

As I entered head quarters the succeeding morning I was hailed by Matsall : "Another robbery last night, Harry."

"Not on Bond street, I hope." "Yes, it is there again." "The devil !" I cried, perfectly astonish-

"It is either his Satanic majesty or his imps," said the Chief, with a smile upon his face.

"Who was visited last night!" "Mrs. Durant, the Irish widow. She over five thousand dollars." "Whew!" I exclaimed, that was a big

"Now, Howard, you had better go and examine the scene of the robbery, and do as you think best." I left the office and ere long stood on the marble steps of Mrs. Durant's brown stone front. A servant bade me enter, and I was conducted to the parlor, where I found the that ring?" I said pointing to the stolen widow bathed in tears. She quickly looked ring. up and drew her hand across her eyes. "I am Harry Howard," I said, by way of introduction. "Mr. Howard, the detective!"

"The same, Madaine." "You come to investigate the matter, do you not?"

"I do. I would like to see the room where you kept your valuables."

"Follow me," said the widow; and she led me up stairs to a small room where the Things were in a topsy turvy condition. Drawers lay on the floor with their contents scattered about the room. The iron safe was broken open and the meney and jewels take seats there, I will speak to Miss Holt extracted. I noticed that there was a stain of blood upon one of the drawers, and concluded that the burglar had injured himto us, "that will just suit your fancy. I'll most suspense, took out his watch; the hand found that it had been addressed to "Rev. Noah Newton, New York." I hastily thrust > ow. said: "Mrs. Durant, do you know Rev. Noah Newton of this city?"

"Oh, yes, he is our pastor; but you do not suspect him?" "Oh, no, I was requested to enquire about I was in sorrow and pointed me to the Lamb him, by a triend."

"Then you have no clue," said the widow, as I rose to go out.

"I have not madame. This is the most complicated case I have engaged in. But "Proceed, sir."

"Can you describe any article that has been stolen?" "Oh, yes-there was my betrothal ring.

It was given to me by Mr. Durant many years ago, but he is dead now."

"Please describe it," I said impatiently. "It is a heavy gold ring, the letters "T. D.' are engraved on it."

"That will do," said I, and the next minute I was walking rapidly toward my lodgings. For a long time I thought of the case be drawing, and the very last time I saw her believe that Mr. Newton was the burglar, but then the question arose, how came the bloody envelope in the widow's room?

But I must see the minister and know more about him. I sauntered down Broad way and stepped into a store to purchse some articles which I stood in need of. While making the purchase, a man stepped in and asked for some things which had been left for Noah Newton.

"Are you Mr. Newton?" asked the clerk.

"I am, sir. "Bob, run up stairs and get Mr. Newton's things," cried the clerk to an errand Bob harried off up stairs, while I continued my study of Newton's face. I had expected to see a person of sinister countenance, but was woefully mistaken. He was a man of about twenty-eight years of age, "Hallo. Harry; glad to see you; there is with a cleanly shaved face, and was neatly dressed. His eyes were large and express-"What's up now? another murder?" I sive, and the noble looking forehead told that he was linteligent. Though his looks spoke well of him, I thought he needed watching, and determined to do it. When he left the store I followed him, but he went directly to his boarding-house. The next night I watched Newton's house and saw him come forth and walk away. I fifteen years. followed, and he led me through street after street, until we entered R- street, was

Yes, it was true. I saw him entering a fashionable gambling resort. I followed suit, and saw my man seated at a faro table. He bet heavily, but lost, and at last laid his is not a wolf in sheep's clothing. last dollar upon the table. This time he won and continued to do so until he was a thousand dollars ahead. He then left the room and went to his boarding house.

Night after night I followed him to and from the gambling house, but learning nothing more. But success was to come. One night I was looking at some gold pens in a of his ill-luck, one of his friends, who knew fewelry store, when a woman entered and he had mechanical talant, but doubtful stood pear me. Her person glittered with diamonds. As she turned her face towards ther as a clerk or salesman, put the interme I saw Anna Rodman one of the many women in New York who "Barter sheir souls for the means of life." As she laid her left hand upon the counter, I saw a plain gold ring glistening on one of her fingers. I leaned forward, looked at the ring, and saw the letters "T. D." engraved upon it. I knew it instantly. It was the betrothal ring of which Mrs. Durant had been robbed.

How came Anna in possession of that ring? I must ascertain; so I hastily purchased a pen, and took my station outside of the store to await her exit. She came out at last and walked rapidly away. I followed her through several streets, until, when in the vicinity of the battery, she was joined by a man whom, as the light of the lamp fell upon his face, I recognized as Noah Newton, the minister. The two entered a house near by. Presently Newton came out and walked away without being followed. After waiting an hour longer I was here this morning, and said that she saw Anna come from the building. I stephad been robbed of valuables amounting to ped forward and laid my hand upon her shoulder.

"Who are you?" "Harry Howard."

"A detective? Yes, I've heard of you." "Anna, I am engaged in my legitimate business, and I want you to assist in catching a villian." "I will do so, if I can."

"Then please inform me who gave you

"Noah Newton, a young man who lives on S-street." "Was it the person whom you met a while ago?" "It was, sir."

"Then, Anna, that ring belongs to Mrs. Durant, and that man whom you met tonight was a preacher, and the celebrated the act was the cause of his death, but we Bond street robber." things.

"Will you keep this conversation as a seerct, Anna?" "Yes, sir; and I hope you will catch him, she answered. It was ten o'clock now but I determined to visit the widow. She received me kindly, but her face wore a look of disappointment when I told her I had no clue to the From the smell of his breath she decided

"Our pastor preaches his farewell sermon to-morrow." "His farewell sermon!" I cried, utterly astonished. "Yes, he leaves for California immediately after the services are concluded. His brother has written for him to come. His congregation will be sorry to part with him, and I especially, for he comforted me when "The hypocrite!" I mentally exclaimed. I left the widow in a hurry, and went to head-quarters, got Charlie Ross, and proceeded to Newton's house to arrest him. But the bird had flown. He had gone, his housekeeper said to spend the night with a friend. We were chagrined at our defeat and resolved to arrest him before he reached the church. We went to the church at an early hour, but our game was already there and the choir singing. We entered and occupied a back seat; we were compelled to do so, for the church was filled with people who had come to hear the farewell dis-

The preacher arose and took his text, which I think read as follows: "Be ye holy; for I am holy." The discourse was a splendid one, in which his talents shone with all their brightness. He concluded by exhorting his hearers to take him as an example, and follow him as he had followed

When the services were concluded, he deseended from the pulpit to recieve the farewells of his congregation. The ladies gathered around him to receive the parting kiss. At last he started towards the door.

"Now's your time, Harry," whispered Charlie, as Newton neared me. I stepped up to the pious robber, and cried out: "Mr. Newton, in the name of the cor monwealth of New York, I arrest you."

'What for?" he stammered out. "For the Bond street robberies." He turned pale as death, and many of the women fainted. His hand moved towards his coat pocket, but it did not reach

"Quick; Charlie, bring the bracelets! I cried.

The next instant Charlie Ross sprang forward and clasped the hand-cuffs on, and Mr. Newton was marched off amid the shricks and groans of his congregation. When his trial came off he made a full confession, and went to Sing Sing for a term of

All the fruits of his robberies were recov ered saye the money, and Anna Rodman willingly gave up the iwdow's ring.

A few weeks late I was presented with a fine gold watch by the people of Bond street whose church is in charge of a minister who

Why Don't You Learn a Trade?

This question was propounded in our hearing, a few days since, to a young man who had been for several months unsuccessfully seeking employment as a clerk or salesman in some of our leading houses. Complaining whether he could make himself useful, eirogatory to him which we have put at the caption of this article. The reply was, that a mechanical trade was not so respectable as a mercantile occupation.

Under this delusive idea our stores ar crowded with young men who have no capacity for business, and who, because of the fancied respectability of doing nothing, waste away their minority upon salaries which cannot possibly liquidate their expenditures. Late, too late in life, they discover their error, and before they reach the age of thirty, many of them look with envy upon the thrifty mechanic, whom, in the days of their boyhood, they were accustomed to deride.

During the tebellion the staff of General Wise were riding through a rather forlorn part of North Carolina, and a young Virginian of the staff concluded to have a litspecimen of the genus home, who were a very shabby gray uniform, and bestrode a township, when not engaged; or addressed by worm fence at the roadside. Reining in his letter at Clearfield, Penn a. March 6th, 1867.-tf. JAMES MITCHELL. horse, he accosted him with, "How are you North Carolina?"

"How are you, Virginia?" was the ready

The staff continued: "The blockade on turpentine makes you rather hard up don't it? There is no sale for tar now is there?" Well yes," was the slow response. "We sell our tar to Jeff Davis now."

"The thunder you do. What on earth does the President do with your tar?" North Carolina answered: "He puts it on the heels of Virginians to make them of $100. stick to the battle field!" The staff rode TAKE WARNING -A man in this country, who stopped his paper slice the first of January, has since died. We do not know that have known a number who neglected to pay "Why, you don't say so? He said he was for their paper and have since had sickness a jeweler, and gave me a great many pretty in their familles; one man's little boy had his fingers cut off, and another delinquent lost a good horse; another's wife died, and

Jones told his wife that the reason h could not get home earlier during the evenings of last week was "Cause er water was s' extraordinary (hic) high, my dear." robbers. After we had talked awhile she the water must have been very high, in fact, entirely out of his reach.

two others have gone into insolvency. -Ex.

Agentleman wishing, not long since, to 'pop the question,' took up the young lady's cat and said, "pussy, may I have your mistress?" It was answered by the lady, "Say yes, pussy."

A lie will travel from Maine to Georgia while the truth is putting on her boots. Embrace as many opportunities as please, but only one lady.

A. Clearfield, Pa. Office in the Court House. WALTER BARRETT, Attorney at Law. Clear field, Pa. May 13, 1863. ED. W. GRAHAM, Dealer in Dry-Goods, Groce-ries, Hardware, Queensware, Woodenware, Provisions, etc., Market Street, Clearfield, Pa.

Business Directorn.

NIVLING & SHOWERS, Dealers in Dry-Goods Ladies' Fancy Goods, Hats and Caps, Boots, Shoes, etc., Second Street, Clearfield, Pa. sep25

MERRELL & BIGLER, Dealers in Haraware M and manufacturers of Tin and Sheet-iron vare, Second Street, Clearfield, Pa. June 66. F. NAUGLE, Watch and Clock Maker, and dealer in Watches, Jewelry, &c. Room in Graham's row, Market street. Nov. 10.

H. BUCHER SWOOPE, Attorney at Law. Clear-field, Pa. Office in Graham's Row, four doos west of Graham & Boynton's store. Nov. 10. J. B. M'ENALLY, Attorneyst Law. Clearfield, Pa. Practices in Clearfield and adjoining counties. Office in new brick building of J. Boynt m, 2d street, one door south of Lanich's Hotel.

TEST, Attorney at Law. Clearfield, Pa., will attend promptly to all Legal business entrusted to his care in Clearfield and adjoining counties. Office on Market street. July 17, 1867.

THOMAS H. FORCEY, Dealer in Square and Sawed Lumber, Dry-Goods, Queensware, Gro-ceries, Flour, Grain, Feed, Bacon, &c., &c., Grahamton, Clearfield county, Pa.

J. P. KRATZER, Dealer in Dry-Goods. Clothing. Hardware. Queensware, Groceries, Provisions. etc., Market Street, nearly opposite the Court House, Clearfield, Pa. June, 1865. HARTSWICK & IRWIN, Dealers in Drugs Medicines, Paints, Oils, Stationary, Perfumery. Fancy Goods, Notions, etc., etc., Market street Clearfield, Pa Dec. 6, 1865.

() KRATZER & SON, dealers in Dry Goods, Clothing, Hardware, Queensware, Groceries, Provisions, &c., Second Street Clear field.
Pa. Dec 27, 1865.

JOHN GUELICH. Manufacturer of all kinds of Cabinet-ware, Market street. Clearfield, Pa He also makes to order Coffins. on short notice, and attends funerals with a hearse. April 0,759. THOMAS J. M'CULLOUGH, Attorney at Law Clearfield, Pa. Office, east of the "Clearfield o Bank. Deeds and other legal instruments prepared with promptness and accuracy. July 3. IN ICHARD MOSSOP, Dealer in Foreign and Do R mestic Dry Goods, Groceries, Flour, Bacon Liquors, &c. Room, on Market street, a few doors west of Journal Office, Clearfield, Pa. Apr 27.

F. B. READ, M. D., Physician and Surgeon.
William's Greve, Pa., offers his professional services to the citizens of the surrounding coun try.
July 10th, 1867. tf. WESTERN HOTEL, Clearfield. Pa - This well known hotel, near the Court House, is worthy the patronage of the public. The table will be supplied with the best in the market. The best of liquors kept. JOHN DOUGHERTY.

DR. J. F. WOODS, PRYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Having removed to ANSONVILLE, Pa., offers his professional services to the people of that place and surrounding country. promptly attended to. DREDERICK LEITZINGER, Manufacturer of all kinds of Stone-ware, Clearfield, Pa. Or ders solicited—wholesale or retail He also keep-on hand and for sale an assortment of earthens ware, of his own manufacture. Jan. 1, 1863 TOHN H. FULFORD, Attorney at Law, Clearfield, Pa. Office with J. B. McEnally, Esq. over First National Bank. Prompt attention giv en to the securing of Bounty claims. &c., and all legal business. March 27, 1867. WALLACE, BIGLER & FIELDING, Attor-W neys at Law Clearfield, Pa., Legal busine of all kinds promptly and accurately attended to Clearfield, Pa., May 16th, 1866.

WILLIAM A. WALLACK J. BLAKE WALTERS WILLIAM D. BIGLER PRANK PIELDING W ALBERT, & BRO'S., Dealers in Dry Goods, V Groceries, Hardware. Queensware, Flour Baon, etc., Woodland. Clearfield county. Pa. Also extensive dealers in all kinds of sawed lumber shingles, and square timber. Orders solicited. Woodland, Pa., Aug. 19th, 1863

DR J. P. BURCHFIELD-Late Surgeon of the 83d Reg't Penn'a Vols., having returned from the army, offers his professional services to the citizens of Clearfield and vicinity. Professional calls promptly attended to. Office South-East corner of 3d and Market Streets. Oct. 4, 1865—6mp. T. GIBSON, PRACTICAL DENTIST, having

V. permanently located in the town of Janes ville, tenders his professional services to the people of that place and vicinity. All work en-trusted to his care will be done in the most satisfactory manner and highest order of the profes-sion Nov. 18, 1868-6m tle fun at the expense of a long legged SURVEYOR.—The undersigned offers his services to the public, as a Surveyor. He may be found at his residence in Lawrence

> THOMAS W. MOORE, Land Surveyo and Conveyancer. Having recently located in the Borough of Lumber City, and resumsumed the practice of Land Surveying, respectfully tenders his professional services to the owners and speculators in lands in Clearfield and adjoing counties. Deeds of Conveyance neatly executed. Office and residence one door East of Kirk & Spencers Store
>
> Lumber City, April 14, 1867-1y.

SOLDIERS' BOUNTIES. -A recent bill has passed both Houses of Congress, and signed by the President, giving soldiers who enlisted prior to 22d July, 1861, served one year or Bounties and Pensions collected by me for those entitled to them.

WALTER BARRETT, Att'y at Law.
Clearfield, Pa. CLEARFIELD HOUSE, CLEARFIELD. O PA.—The subscriber would respectfully solicit a continuence of the patronage of his old friends and customers at the "Clearfield House." Having made many improvements, he is prepar ed to accommodate all who may favor him with their custom. Every department connected with eral satisfaction. Give him a call.

Nov. 4 1866. GEO. N. COLBURN. DENTAL PARTNERSHIP

DR. A. M. HILLS desires to inform his patients and the public generally, that he has associated with him in the practice of Dentistry, S. P. SHAW, D. D. S., who is a graduate of the Philadelphia Dental College, and therefore has the highest attestations of his Professional skill.

All work done in the office I will hold, myself personally responsible for being done in the most satisfactory manner and highest order of the profession.

An established practice of twenty-two years in this place enables me to speak to my patrons with confidence.

Engagements from a distance should be made by letter a few days before the patient designs coming.

[Clearfield June 3, 1868-1y]

PURE BUCK LEAD, equal in quality to English white lead; Uils, l'aints and Varnishes of all kinds; Gold leaf in books, and bronses, for sale by Clearfield, October 23, 1867.

RAIN WANTED.—Wheat. Rye, Corn, Buck of wheat and Oats wanted, for which the high est market price will be paid, by J. P. KKATZER, Market Street, opposite the Jail, Clearfield, Pa.

J. CUNNINGHAM.

Rea! Estate Agent and Conveyancer, TYRONE, BEAIR COUNTY, PA. pecial attention given to the collection of claims Tyron, Pa., January 27, 1869-tf.

RANKING & COLLECTION OFFICE

McGIRK & PERKS, Successors to Foster. Perks, Wright & Co., PHILIPSBURG, CENTRE Co., PA. Where all the business of a Banking House will be transacted promptly and upon the most avorable terms.

P. KRATZER, Clearfield, Penn'a,

Dealer in Dry Goods, Dress Goods Millinery Joods, Groceries, Hard-ware, Queens-ware, Stoneware. Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hate, Caps, Flour, Bacon, Pish, Salt, etc., is constantly receiving new supplies from the cities, which he will dispose of at the lowest market prices, to customers. Before purchasing elsewhere, examine his stock.

CLOTHING! CLOTHING!!

Clearfield, August 28, 1867.

GOOD AND CHEAP III Men, Youths and Boys can be supplied with full suits of seasonable and fashionable clothing at REIZENSTEIN BROS' & CO., where it is sold at prices that will induce their purchase. The universal satisfaction which has been given, has induced them to increase their s'ock, which is now not surpassed by any estab-lishment of the kind in this part of the State. Reizenstein Bro's & Co.;

Their goods are well made and fashionable. They give every one the worth of his money. They treat their customers all alike. They sell chesper than every body else. Their store is conveniently situated. They having purchased their stock r t reduced prices they can sell cheaper than others.

for these and other reasons persons should buy

Sell goods at a very small profit, for eash;

their clothing at REIZENSTEIN BRO'S & CO. Produce of every kind taken at the highest market prices. May 18, 1864. NEW SPRING STOCK!

J. SHAW & SON. Have fust returned from the east and are now opening an entire new stock of goods in the room Street, which they now offer to the public at the lowest cash prices.

Their stock consists of a general assortment of Dry Goods, Groceries, Casensware, Hardware, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Bonnets, Dress Goods, Fruits, Candies, Fish, Salt, Brooms, Nails, etc., in fact, everything usually kept in a retail store can be had by calling at this store, or will be procured to order.

Their stock is well selected, and consists of the newest goods, is of the best quality, of the latest styles, and will be sold at lowest prices for cash, or exchanged for approved country produce.

Be sure and call and examine our stock before naking your purchases, as we are determined clease all who may favor us with their custom. May 8, 1867. J. SHAW & SON.

CLEARFIELD ACADEMY. The Fourth Session of the present Scholastic year of this Institution, will commence on Mon day, the 26th day of April. 1869.

Pupils can enter at any time. They will be charged with tuition from the time they enter to the close of the session. The course of instruction embraces everything neluded in a thorough, practical and accomplished education of both sezes. The Principal having had the advantage of nuch experience in his profession, assures parents and guardians that his entire ability and energies will be devoted to the mental and moral training of the youth placed finder his charge.

TRANS OF TOUTION : Orthography, Reading, Writing and Primary Arithmetic, per session, (1) weeks.) Grammar, Geography, Arithmetic, and Histo Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry, Mensuration surveying, Philosophy, Physiology, Chemistry Surveying, Philosophy, raystona, Book-Reeping, Betany, and Physical Geogra 59,00

Latin, Greek and French, with any of the above branches. $12.00 Music. Plano, (30 lessons.) No deduction will be made for absence. For further particulars inquire of

REV. P. L. HARRISON, A. M. POWELL, NOTICE. W.W.BETTE

CLEARFIELD PLANING MILL ALL RIGHT.

Messas, HOOP, WEAVER & CO., Proprietors, rould respectfully inform the citizens of the county that they have completely refitted and supplied their PLANING MILL, in this Borough, with the best and latest improved

WOOD WORKING MACHINERY, and are now prepared to execute all orders in their line of business, such as Flooring, Weatherboarding,

Sash, Doors, Blinds, Brackets, and Moldings, of all kinds. They have a large stock of dry lumber on hand, and will pay cash for clear stuff, one-and-a-half inch pannel plank preferred [Nov 6, '67.