

For the Farmer.

HAY.—Very seasonably the question of the great advantage of cutting hay when in a green state has been taken up by some of our agricultural publications, although there can be no doubt concerning the propriety of doing so, for every farmer who cuts a second crop knows how superior it is for milk-producing and feeding purposes generally, when compared with hay which has been cut while in a ripe state, and when almost all the saccharine matter in it has gone to constitute woody fiber. No season has been more favorable for a trial of the early mowing plan than the present, which, so far as we can learn, promises to be good, for two crops—if the first is seasonably harvested—and when the rowen or second crop may turn out as liberal in quantity as the first one. The subject is one which farmers would do well to think over and act upon, even should hoeing be partially neglected when the mowing season comes. In connection with this subject, the method of drying hay in the shade, in the cock and partially in the mow, may also be considered.

TO MAKE COWS GIVE MILK.—A writer who says that his cow gives all the milk that is wanted in a family of eight persons, and from which was made two hundred and fifty pounds of butter this year, gives the following as his treatment. He says: "If you desire to get a large yield of rich milk, give your cow three times a day water slightly warm, slightly salted in which bran has been stirred at the rate of one quart to two gallons of water. You will find if you have not tried this practice, that your cow will give twenty per cent more milk immediately under the effect of it, and she will become so attached to the diet that she will refuse to drink clean water, unless very thirsty, but this mess she will drink almost any time and ask for more. The amount of this drink necessary is an ordinary water pail full each time, morning, noon and night. Four hundred pounds of butter are often obtained from good stock, and instances are mentioned where the yield was even at a higher figure.—Mess. Ploughman.

ROLLING GRAIN IN THE SPRING.—If farmers would look at the theory of rolling wheat and rye fields in the spring, says the Germantown Telegraph, it would be resorted to much more than it is. Occasionally the winter and spring have been so favorable to these crops as not to render it necessary. But in three seasons out of four it is necessary, and doubtless adds to their productiveness. The thawings and freezings of the ground, throwing or spewing out the roots and exposing them to the drying winds of February and March, very seriously effect the grain. Passing a roller over as soon as the soil is fit to enter upon, presses back the roots into their beds and gives them a fair grip again upon the support on which the crop must depend. This must be apparent to every one who will look at its operation. We have no doubt that rolling clover fields that have been badly thrown up by the frost would also have a beneficial effect.

MEDICAL PROPERTIES OF CELERY.—I have known many men and women too, who from various causes, had become so affected with nervousness that when they stretched out their hands they shook like aspen leaves on windy days—and after a daily moderate use of the blanched foot stalks of celery leaves as a salad they became as strong and steady in limbs as other people. I have known others so very nervous that the least annoyance put them in a state of agitation, and they were almost in constant perplexity and fear, who were also effectually cured by a daily moderate use of blanched celery as a salad at meal times. I have known others cured by using celery for palpitation of the heart. Everybody engaged in labor weakening to the nerves, should use celery daily in season, and onions in its stead when not in season.—Cor. Prac. Farmer.

SWEET POTATO RAISING.—My way of raising sweet potatoes is in hills always. I make the hills three feet apart, each way, and make them about eight inches above the level of the ground, leaving the top of the hill flat. Always set the plants in the evening, and just before a rain, or just after. Set the plants a little deeper than they were in the hot-bed, so, if the worms should cut them off, they will grow again from the stub. By so doing you will save transplanting. Always pick a sandy spot of ground, if possible, to plant in. They will need hoeing twice, and plowing three times. I will ensure a crop if so treated. You can raise 200 bushels on an acre of ground.—West-ern Rural.

BEANS.—There is a difference in the hardness of garden beans; and only the more hardy kinds should be planted till the middle or latter part of the month. Lima and the more tender pole beans, succumb to a light frost. Dwarf or bush varieties may be planted a little earlier, and if frost is threatened, a board may be laid over the row, resting on blocks or bricks to avoid crushing the plants. The Germantown Telegraph says that greasing the beans before planting prevents them from rotting, and does not injure their germination.
