To Make Blackberry Wine.

The following careful receipt for making this excellent and wholesome wine we find in the Country Gentleman. We give it in full season that our readers may have at once the benefit of it:

Have ripe fruit-smash it into a pulp with a heavy wooden manl, and throw this into a a vat (a tight barrel with the head out) and continue adding pulp until the barrel is full . This may occupy a week or ten days. The fermentation will throw the SUSQUEHANNA HOUSE. fruit pulp to the top, while the seed that have been separated will sink to the bottom. When this occurs draw off the clear liquor from the vat by a faucet, a few inches from the bottom, into the vessel you intend to keep the wine in. Then, to the pulp that remains in the vat. add one-half the measure of water that there has been pure juice drawn off. Mix and stir this, and leave it till the pulp rises again, and draw off the clear liquor into the barrel. Put the pulp barb &c. into a coarse crash bag, and press it as dry as possible, and add the liquor to the barrel, which should now be full. Add to each gallon of liquor two or three pounds of light yellow or white sugar. Two pounds will make a wine about the strength of claret: three pounds makes a strong wine, which at two years old will pass for good port.

The wine is now making itself, and will throw off at the open bung all the impurities. The barrel should be kept full by the addition of liquor kept for that purpose, and if that gives out, sweetened water will do. When the impurities are all thrown out. put the bung in tightly, and bore a gimlet hole in it or the barrel, at the highest point, to allow the escape of the gas. This can be kept plugged up, if care is taken to open it once a day to relieve the pressure of gas. when the fermentation has gone far enough -that is when the wine is of proper flavor, which the maker must judge by the tasterack the wine off into a barrel perfumed or steamed with sulphur, and bung it up tightly, and let it stand to ripen. The fermentation is now stopped, and the wine should remain undisturbed for several months. It improves by age in strength and flavor. It may be drawn off again if any new fermentation sets up, and the barrel again sulphured; but that seldom occurs.

As the bitter principle of blackberries is in the seed, care should be taken at the first drawing off to get as few as possible into the barrel. However, age remedies that, and if the wine is for medical use the bitter principle had test be left in it. An ordinary cellar is cool enough to keep wine in. I The syphon is not necessary.

DUTIES OF FARMERS.-Farming is not only a profession, but of all professions it embraces the widest range of scientific proposition and practical facts, and affords the widest field for the exercise of the philosophic and analytic mind. Instead of the bright boys being sent to a medical college for a field worthy of their talents, they should be educated in the science and instructed practically in the duties of agricul-

It is a prominent duty of a farmer so to pursue his calling as to inspire a respect for it in the minds of his children, and so train them that they shall be able to pursue it successfully, which can only be effected by his availing himself of every advantage resulting from the discoveries of science and the accumulated experience of the past. This will at once strip farming of almost every disagreeable feature, and clothe it with attractions possessed by no other busi-

As at present conducted, there is a large "amount of very disagreeable labor required to be performed in farming, and it is mainly to this fact that we owe the desertion of the business for others by country boys. Science and human skill must relieve this, and undoubtedly will, if the farmer will avail bimself of their aids.

CUTTING TIMBER .- A correspondent of the Rural World who lives in a part of Missouri where little else than woods are seen says: "When we cut timber at any time of the year except July, August, and September, the process of seasoning is so very slow that the timber becomes infested with indumerable quantities of worms and the smaller limbs will, in a few months, fall to the ground from natural decay. But, by cutting timber in July. August or September, the bodies of the trees season hard and are not troubled by the worms, whilst the smallest twigs remain solid at least three or four times as long as those of timber cut in the winter or spring.

BEEF-STEAK SMOTHERED WITH ONIONS. -Cut up six onions very fine; put them in a saucepan with two cupsful of hot water, about two ounces of good butter, some pepper and salt; dredge in a little flour. Let it stew until the onions are quite soft; then have the steak broiled, put into the saucepan with the onions; let it simmer about ten minutes, and send to the table very hot.

A mackerel sky-The wind will be high, Then bring in the grain. Close by there is rain.

Curculio, wood-horer, and all other insects so destructive to fruit trees, successfully prevented from committing their ravages on orchards. The tender vice and ornamental tree alike preserved in root, body, branch, and bud from the attack of any kind of vermin or insect, by "Fisher's new and useful process for preventing the borer or other insects from injuring fruit trees, shade and ornamental trees, shade and ornamental treet, shrubs and vines," Patented September 12th 1866. This remarkable invention has been tested in the most htorough manner, and has in every in-stance given the most conclusive proofs of its merits. In no case has it failed to prove itself a perfect and complete protection against the va-rious kinds of insects that for years past have been preying upon all kinds of fruit and fruit trees Testimonials furnished it desired.
